—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

KING PRAJADHIPOK, of Siam, is in America with his queen, charming couple, and welcome. He, believed to be a direct descendant of Gotama, is known officially as "supreme arbiter of the ebb and flow of the tide." That is a heavier load of resonsibility.

His queen's title is "glorious lady of god," and she carries the magnificent name modestly and gracefully.

Her name is Rambai Barni. The King has no other wife. His grandfather had 600 wives, 134 sons and 236 daughters. That makes a good many descendants for Gotama, who left his father's palace when his first baby was born.

THERE ARE more followers of Gotama, known as Buddha, today than of any other religion, and all they ask is "Nirvana," which means an end to consciousness, eternal rest, and seems rather a dull reward. Nirvana, it is said, comes from the word "nibutta," meaning happy. Once, as the young prince passed through a gateway, a young girl called out, "Nibutta, nibutta!" Gotama remembered that.

Our wise young visitor, King Prajadhipok, will attain Nirvana more rapidly than others, presumably, on account of his ancestor, who will be anxious to see him. But he seems in no hurry about it, and comes here to consult American doctors and surgeons. May he find all that he seeks.

BOYS AND GIRLS, knowing little, caring less about Gotama, will teach parents and friends the first lines of "the national anthem of Siam."

"Auvah Tannah Siam Geevah Tannah Siam."

Later the one deluded learns that he has been singing:

"Oh, vat an ass I am,
Gee vat an ass I am," etc.

This anthem was invented by the secretary of a Y. M. C. A., who had it written on a blackboard, and persuaded a large audience to sing it solemnly.

SIR JAMES JEANS, British astronomer, physicist and mathematician, arrives in New York today bound for Mount Wilson, Cal. On May 20 he will be in Philadelphia to receive the Franklin medal, highest award for physical sciences in the United States.

It is hoped the nation will indicate knowledge of the fact that Jeans is here, and be, at least, as much interested as it would be in the arrival of another giant man, Primo Carnera, or somebody with a big title and a small brain.

THE DIFFERENCE between Jeans and the average man is the difference between an eagle and a hen. The hen knows about her barnyard. The eagle knows many mountain ranges.

The average citizen knows this little earth. Jeans knows the universe. Every intelligent man should read his books "The Mysterious Universe," "The Universe Around Us," "The Stars in Their Courses," published by MacMillan, and "Eos," published by Dutton & Co.

Read those books and you will know something about the universe in which you and your solar system are like one grain of sand on the shores of the Pacific. Don't be like a rat in the bottom of a ship, not even knowing which way the ship is headed.

Your sun is on its way to the blue star Vega, and you are going with it.

FRIENDS IN Europe are realizing that Americans can really fly. They learned when Lindbergh landed in Paris and again yesterday and today when Capt. Frank M. Hawks decided to see what he could do about a flight from London to Rome and return. The London-to-Rome record held by the British wing commander Kingsford-Smith was a little over 12 hours.

HAWKS FLEW the distance in less than half that time, 5 hours and 20 minutes. He left London at 6:30 a. m., reached Rome at 11:50, stayed for lunch, left Rome at 1:42 p. m., and, because of a leaky gas pipe, landed 85 miles south of Paris at 4 p. m. He went on to London today and set still another record by flying across the Channel in 59 minutes, which is 37 minutes faster than any other flier had ever made the hop.

LANDING IN Rome, he remarked that it was a "hell of a trip" over the Alps. He had to go up 23,000 feet. He used the plane in which he made his transcontinental record in this country, and is now our champion flier.

If this nation ever gets an adequate air fleet, it will have no difficulty in finding first-class pilots. And after it gets the fleet, plus an adequate submarine fleet, it will have no difficulty with foreign nations. They will leave us alone.

At about the same hour Benjamin Goldlust shot himself and died going to the hospital.

Isidor Scheidlinger, engaged in the clothing business, jumped from the sixth story, struck several clothes lines on the way down, fell on soft grass and only broke his legs. Meditating on the clothes lines and soft grass, he concludes, reasonably, that Providence must have something important for

American Flies From Paris To London in 59 Minutes; Speed Feat Stuns British

HESTON, England, April 23.—(AP.) — Frank Hawks, with two new speed records to his credit, climbed out of his red monoplane here this afternoon just 59 minutes after he had left Le Bourget Airport, outside Paris.

He had covered the distance of 229 miles at an average speed of close to 233 miles an hour and 37 minutes faster than any other man has ever flown it. Commander Glenn Kidston's record of 96 minutes from Le Bourget to Croydon was just another mark the Texan had knocked over.

SHATTERS TWO RECORDS

In two days he has halved two important flying records, cutting the time to Rome to 5 hours and 20 minutes, and leaving European aviators in a daze over his mark for the Channel crossing.

After Hawks had shaken hands all around, he said, grinning:

"Boy, those Alps make our Rocky Mountains look like little bumps. We pulled through all right, but I still don't know how."

He was talking about yesterday's flight to Rome during which he had to climb 23,000 feet without an oxygen tank. He declared:

"I pulled up to 21,000 feet, and I knew I had to go higher. With every foot I got dizzier and

Wilkins' Sub Takes Diving Tests Soon

NEW YORK, April 2.—(INS.)—The submarine, Nautilus, in which Sir Hubert Wilkins will explore the Far North, will leave early next week for New London, Conn., for deep sea diving tests, it was announced today. The craft will sail shortly for England, on the first leg of the expedition.

Battle of Banana Song Is Fought By Our Marines

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

We have gone to war for liberty, democracy and capable substitutes. But this Nicaragua business is the first time we have gone to war for bananas.

Honduras, Nicaragua and the rest of the syncopated geography are where our bananas come from when they arrive.

And in order to prevent the revolutionists from verifying the banana song we must send our Marines down there to protect the industry.

They chase Sandino, then Sandino chases them. Houses are burned, men are killed, our cruisers shell the hills. Finally, a stalk of bananas arrives in New Orleans and a centipede jumps out.

When we were singing that banana anthem so joyfully a few years ago we never thought of the poor old Marines who would have to go to Nicaragua for the second chorus.

When you look at your dish of cream this morning and you see a sliced banana floating around in it you know our side is winning.

If there is nothing but cream in the saucer, well, that ain't bad either. Take it thankfully and rejoice that the Soviet agitators haven't reached that stage of convincing oratory where they can argue with the cows.

At least our Army and Navy are busily employed even if the soldiers, sailors and Marines are only acting as ground men for an acrobat up a banana tree.

LINKHANGING WITH GIRL MURDER

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—Discovery of a similar hanging near here made this city today the center of a search for a possible solution to the death of Louise Teuber, 17, whose unclad body was found hanging from a tree on the outskirts of San Diego last Sunday night.

In a cemetery 10 miles south of here, the body of John Porcellano, 40, a spiritualist, was found dangling from a tree under circumstances closely resembling the girl's mode of death.

The body was found Tuesday, but the details were not revealed until the case came under the keen eyes of a woman deputy coroner, Mrs. Luella D. Pepper.

SAILOR'S KNOT CLUE

Apparently Porcellano had committed suicide by stepping from a box after he attached a rope to his neck and slung the other end over the branch of a tree.

The "sailor's knot" which figured in the hanging of Miss Teuber, also figures in the man's hanging, Mrs. Pepper reported. The other end of the noose was tied about the tree with half hitches similar to the San Diego case, Mrs. Pepper added.

Mrs. Pepper was struck by one observation, in view of the fact that human flesh had been found under the dead girl's finger nails. On the face of the man, she reported, were numerous scratches and gouges, as though made by

First Soviet Lumber Arrives Since Ban

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 23.—(AP.)—The Finnish steamer Anversoise, loaded with 4,000,000 feet of lumber from the Soviet Republic, arrived off quarantine at Fields Point early this morning. The cargo is expected to furnish the first test case as to the validity of Russian lumber for import into this country. The Treasury Department decreed an embargo against such imports February 10, unless the shippers can prove the imports are not produced by convict labor.

Prince of Wales' Ship at Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR, April 23.—(AP.)—The British Cruiser Kent, en route from China to England and due to stop at Lisbon and pick up the Prince of Wales and Prince George, arrived here today. The Kent will reach Lisbon Saturday and leave there with the princes, who are returning home from South America, probably Sunday. It will go to Bordeaux, from where the princes will fly home, arriving there April 28, an official announcement at London today said.

INJURY TO KEEP RUTH BEDFAST

BOSTON, April 23.—(INS.)—Babe Ruth must stay flat on his back on a bed in Peter Bent Hospital, with a half-barrel arrangement over his injured left leg, for the next two or three days and nights, his doctors decided today.

Then he may be removed to his New York home for a rest of probably two weeks, perhaps longer, if the "bad nerve and muscle injury" to his left leg and ankle, suffered as the result of a slide and later a collision at the plate, does not respond to medical treatment.

Legislature Likely To Adjourn May 21

Local members of the State Legislature, returning from Harrisburg today, said it was unofficially but authentically reported there that the present session of the legislators will end Thursday, May 21. They said a special session is virtually certain to be called next January.

Davis' Old-Time Business Tutor Dies at 72

A firm believer in thrift and integrity, Uncle John in his barbershop taught those virtues to Senator Davis and many others who have since risen high.

In Pittsburgh today, Senator Davis had this to say of Uncle John:

"He was generous and charitable—a grand old man. I was 10 years old when I worked in his shop, shining shoes and brushing up things—a general handy boy. Shines were five cents in those days. Shaves were a dime and haircuts 15 cents. I'm sorry I won't be able to go to Sharon for his funeral."

FORUM ON DAY OF HOSPITALITY

Pittsburgh, prospective host to thousands from the Tri-State district tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, offers another educational feature in its hospitality week-end program at the Civic Club forum on stream pollution to be held in the William Penn Hotel club rooms tomorrow afternoon.

Hearty invitation for public attendance at the forum was given by the Civic Club today in announcing its list of speakers. Among them will be C. K. Robinson, Ralph L. Smith, William E. Armstrong, C. F. Drake, Thomas Liggett and a representative of bituminous mine firms. Hope that interest in the subject might attract visitors from out of town was expressed by those in charge of the affair which has been de-

Lady Heath, Fined, Will Resume Tour

WINDSOR, Ontario, April 23.—(INS.)—Reiterating that she was not intoxicated as charged by police, Lady Heath, internationally known aviatrix, today prepared to resume her speaking engagements.

As far as the divorced wife of Sir James Heath, millionaire iron master, was concerned, yesterday's happening was all a mistake. Lady Heath was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Brody after her arrest when her car figured in a traffic jam here.

HEAD OF BRITISH AIRMEN KILLED

SEAHURST PARK, Essex, Eng., April 23.—(AP.)—Air Vice Marshal Felton Vesey Holt, commander of the air defenses of Great Britain, was killed today in an airplane collision. His pilot, Flight Lieut. Henry Moody, also was killed, but the occupant of the other plane escaped injury.

Vice Marshal Holt was one of the pioneers of the Royal Air Force and had received the distinguished service order for valor. He was promoted to his present post on January 1 and gained considerable prominence during the inquiry into the crash of the R-101, being in charge of the party which made a technical examination of the airship's ruins in France. His death was the thirty-seventh of a R.A.F. member in accidents this year.

The planes crashed 1,500 feet in the air about six miles from Tangmere airdome. When the airdome staff reached the wreckage both Holt and his pilot were dead.

Estelle to Charge Jack With 'Cruelty'

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 23.—(INS.)—Joseph Scott, attorney for Estelle Taylor, wife of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, today announced that he would file a divorce complaint for his client here "within a few days."

The complaint, Scott asserted, will contain simple charges of cruelty, and will ask for an equitable division of community property accumulated during the married life of Dempsey and Miss Taylor.

130 FLEE BLAZE IN THEATER

By M. J. RUMIN
Staff Correspondent.

IRWIN, Pa., April 23.—The calmness of Andrew Battistone, motion picture theater owner, when flames broke out in his establishment in the mining town of Yukon last night, was credited today with saving the lives of many of the 130 men, women and children imperiled by the fire. When the blaze was discovered Battistone quieted his patrons and directed them to safety.

Mr. Battistone

Flames destroyed the three-story frame theater and three other business houses, damaged three other structures and threatened the entire town. E. W. Faber, fire marshal of Westmoreland County, today was investigating reports that the fire started simultaneously in the theater basement, the roof of the theater and in the third floor of a garage across the street.

Firemen from six towns fought the flames which caused $85,000 damage and made several families homeless.

Mothers and fathers picked up their children and ran to the exits when flames were discovered on the roof of the theater. Battistone, the proprietor, leaped into the stage and quieted the crowd.

REPLY MADE TO EVANS' CHARGES

Cash Offer for Witness Again Charged; Garcia Co. Must Replace 14 Jobs

Developments in the Public Works Department investigation before City Council today were these:

1—Director Edward G. Lang revealed that tests had been made of 14 sidewalks laid by the Garcia Construction Company and all were found defective. All have been ordered relaid at the expense of the contractor.

2—Attorney Lee C. Beatty presented the Department of Public Works' reply to Attorney Henry Oliver Evans' charges of inefficiency against the department.

3—Fred Munz, brother of Samuel Munz, supported charge that Joseph J. Darney, house wrecker, offered Samuel $200 to testify against city sand inspectors.

4—Attorneys for M. O'Herron Company, city contractors, have agreed to submit records for 1930 to city auditors for examination, desired as result of disclosures that 1928 records had been destroyed.

Attorney Beatty contended that Evans' charges that inefficiency in the Department of Public Works had "opened the door to fraud" were weak and inconsistent. The department's reply, covering practically every phase of the Public Works Department's activities since 1926, claimed unusual soil and sub-surface conditions were largely responsible for the increases in final estimates.

MUNZ TESTIFIES

Shortly before Attorney Beatty began the presentation of his tabulation, he called Fred Munz to the witness stand and questioned him concerning the testimony of his brother, Samuel Munz, that he had been offered $200 by Dar-

King Alfonso's Aunt Dies After Fleeing to Paris

PARIS, April 23.—(AP.)—The Infanta Isabella, aunt of Alfonso of Spain, died in a hospital here this afternoon. She was 80 years old.

Her death occurred after less than a week of exile, for the ill and aged princess fled Spain shortly after King Alfonso left last week.

The other members of the immediate royal family followed separate paths into exile, leaving Isabella in her private palace, not even telling her that the throne had fallen.

They knew that she would not be disturbed in the confusion of that week, but the princess had seen the throne fall once before, and when she heard the din outside her windows she demanded to know what it was all about.

Told what had happened, she set about packing her bags and turned her face from Madrid.

Last Monday she crossed the frontier with Infanta Beatrice, sister of Queen Marie of Rumania, on the way to Paris. She was desperately ill and her condition naturally was aggravated by the excitement through which she was passing.

She made the trip by train and at Hendaye, the border point where passengers change for Paris, she was carried from one train to the other on a stretcher. Still her doughty self, she smiled wanly and chatted with the aristocratic emigres who were at Hendaye to meet her. She had been taken to the hospital here on the day after she arrived.

Isabella saw her mother, Queen Isabella, dethroned in 1873, and she went with other members of the royal family into exile during the brief life of the republic established then.

Wintry Blasts Again Block Baseball Opener Here

A second postponement of the opening of the baseball season here was forced today by wintry blasts sweeping Forbes Field. At the same time town lot gardeners shivered at Weatherman W. S. Brotzman's forecast of 28 to 32 degrees temperature tonight. Brotzman also predicted frost tonight, but took some of the chill out of his prophecy by forecasting warmer weather tomorrow.

Snow, which in some places in the mountains reached a depth of 7 inches, made road traffic in those districts dangerous. Snow plows were pressed into use in Cambria, Somerset and Blair counties. In Westmoreland and Indiana counties, numerous telephone wires snapped under the weight of heavy snow.

Shortly after 10 o'clock today, officials of the Pittsburgh baseball club decided it would be unwise to try to play, so the big event was put back until tomorrow afternoon. The Chicago Cubs will be the Buccaneer rivals in the contest.

The Pirate officials announced that all those holding opening day tickets could use them tomorrow without going through any exchange formalities.

The inclement weather, general throughout the East, resulted in the postponement of all National League games scheduled today. The New York-Boston and Washington-Philadelphia contests in the American League, and three games in the International League also were postponed.

PARK ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY, GETS JUDGES' INDORSEMENT

SEEKS FULL TERM IN OFFICE

District Attorney Pledges Impartial Enforcement In Outlining Platform

District Attorney Andrew Park formally announced his candidacy for election to a full term in office at a "family" birthday party, which he gave last night in the William Penn Hotel to his assistant district attorneys, county detectives and office staff, with Common Pleas and Criminal Court judges as special guests—about 85 persons in all.

His guests approved a motion by Judge James H. Gray that Park's record warranted his unanimous election.

It was exactly a year ago that Park was elected district attorney by unanimous vote of the judges, after Samuel H. Gardner, then district attorney, had been appointed a Common Pleas judge by the governor. Park's appointive term expires in January, and he aspires to the Republican nomination at the September primaries and election for a four-year term at the November election.

INDORSED BY JUDGES

Addresses indorsing the district attorney's candidacy were made by Judges A. B. Reid, George V. Moore, Samuel H. Gardner, Elder W. Marshall, Joseph Stadfeld, W. Heber Dithrich, William H. McNaugher and Judge Gray.

Judge Harry H. Rowand was the toastmaster.

Judge Gray said:

"I am proud that I helped elect Andrew T. Park district attorney of Allegheny County. He has proved himself loyal and faithful to his office, and has made a record that would be difficult to equal. He should be elected to the full term of office as district attorney by acclamation of all parties, so that he might carry on his work without opposition."

Following the address, Judge Rowand, toastmaster, put the motion before the gathering, and it was unanimously adopted.

INDORSED BY BAR

Park said in announcing his candidacy:

"Recently I have been honored by the indorsement of that candidacy by more than 1,250 out of approximately 1,500 active members of the bar, which, I am informed, is the largest such indorsement ever given to any aspirant for public office in this county. This indorsement I appreciate, because it comes from those who are in close touch with the varied and complex problems of the prosecutor's office and who fully realize its duties and responsibilities.

STANDS ON RECORD

"During my term as district attorney a total number of 8,428 cases have been disposed of by the office. Of the number of cases which were before the courts for disposition, the percentage of convictions was approximately 77 per cent. At this time the total number of unlisted criminal cases remaining in the office is 126, or less than one week's trial work.

Insull Brands Talk Of Power Trust 'Rot'

ALTOONA, Pa., April 23.—(AP.)—Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, addressing the annual meeting of the Altoona Chamber of Commerce last night, termed talk of the "power trust" as "unmitigated rot." He said that such "innuendo" was the only thing wrong with public utilities.

When the captain started out yesterday his idea was to have lunch in Rome and come back here for dinner last night with the Aero Club, but his fuel ran out and he landed at Poilly-Les-Gien, about 85 miles south of Paris.

He stayed there over night, and this morning hopped into Paris in 24 minutes. The French fliers at Le Bourget had just received word of his take-off when he dropped down on the field.

He didn't make his one-day round trip, but he's going to try again before he goes home.

Mrs. Hawks was waiting for him here, and she broke into a smile when the familiar monoplane came into sight.

MORE AND more use the power of gravitation on their way out of life and a majority of us take that power too much for granted. It is very mysterious.

When men fly in thick fog it is said they cannot tell whether they are flying upside down or right side up. Mr. Kettering, brilliant engineer of General Motors, said to a pilot:

WE DECIDE to recognize the new government of Spain. Our ambassador at Madrid made a polite bow at the Spanish foreign office yesterday. Nobody knows how long the new republic will stand, and nobody knew how long our republic would stand when we invited King George out of the country. The least it seems, that one republic can do is to recognize another and try to look happy about it.

NEW BLUE LAW BILL IN HOUSE

HARRISBURG, April 23.—To prevent cries of "unconstitutionality" directed at the Denning local option bill, which will be on first reading next Monday night, Representative Stephen Denning, of Philadelphia, yesterday presented a new bill which will supplant, it is supposed, the previously presented measure.

The first Denning act provided for a county referendum upon whether each county would permit Sunday baseball. The method of referendum was considered by some attorneys as possibly in violation of the Constitution. The new measure provides that municipalities, towns, townships and boroughs be permitted to have baseball games after 2 p. m. on Sunday. Before this could be accomplished, however, the local councils would have to pass an enabling city ordinance to permit the Sunday sport.

The new Denning measure today appeared in print and went to the Elections Committee. It is expected that a hard fight will be necessary before the new act is turned out on the floor of the House. In the event of its emergence from committee, the old bill will be scrapped, it was reported.

O'Neill Wins Writer's Case; New Plot Theft Suit

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—Now that Miss Georges Lewys' $1,250,000 plagiarism suit against Eugene O'Neill over "Strange Interlude" has been disposed of, the courts will presently turn their attention to the charge of Miss Myra Wiren that "Death Takes a Holiday" was pirated from her play, "Most." Miss Wiren's suit was filed while Miss Lewys was awaiting the decision in the O'Neill suit.

Miss Lewys' case, which was tried last month, was dismissed yesterday and she was assessed $17,500 and other costs of the trial. Federal Judge Woolsey directed that she pay $7,500 to O'Neill, $5,000 to the Theater Guild and $5,000 to be divided between Boni & Liveright and Horace Liveright, Inc. The Guild and the publishers were co-defendants.

The judge also said he found George Jean Nathan, who testified on O'Neil's behalf "the most accute and competent of witnesses," and that he accepted his evidence in toto.

After the decision had been made public, Harry Weinberger, defense attorney, commented on "the now apparently well established plagiarism racket in the United States."

Each year's successes bring a new assortment of plagiarism suits. Every song hit is potentially material for an action based on charges of copyright infringement.

That's why the big movie studios return unopened most of the thousands of scenarios so hopefully submitted to them. That's also why Rudy Vallee has to be extremely careful about trying out the songs of amateur composers.

HOUSE PROBERS SEEK ACCORD ON REPORT

Climax Near in Dispute On Whether Utility Views Will Be Made Unanimous

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, April 23.—A bitter battle over the preliminary report of the House committee investigating public utilities was to reach a climax late today.

In between meetings, a final executive session is to be held wherein the committee will decide whether their report is to be unanimous or whether Representatives Elwood Turner, of Chester County, and Frank L. Bowers, of Fayette County, are to submit a minority report.

The fight over the recommendations of the committee center on whether the report should urge the abolition of the Public Service Commission and the appointment of a new commission by Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

MINORITY OBJECTORS

The majority group, of six, headed by D. Glenn Moore, chairman, favors these features, while Turner is said to be the principal objector, aided by Bowers.

The majority feels that the Public Service Commission has not served the public, but rather the utilities, and believes the evidence placed in the records has substantiated this view.

Meanwhile, the committee's plan to scan the political activities of public utilities in Pennsylvania was set back today when the probers decided to clean up testimony concerning action of the Public Utilities Commission in the Scranton-Springbrook Water Company case and heard further details of methods followed in drafting an engineering report on that firm.

SNOW RECALLED

Dr. F. Herbert Snow, chief engineer of the commission, was recalled to the stand and questioned at length as to how the commission's report on the company was compiled, what figures were used, how they were obtained and how the valuation of the company's property was fixed.

Dr. Snow read into the record two lengthy statements, one a letter sent by him to the commission on December 18, 1928, concerning valuation of the Scranton-Springbrook firm, its rates and returns to be allowed it, and the other defining "going concern value" sense of which was that "going concern value" of a company is its value apart from that of its physical property.

Later, the committee plans to examine leading publicity men for the utilities and to present a view of the propaganda work in the state.

UTILITY MEN CALLED

Among those subpenaed so far are F. R. Phillips, head of the Duquesne Light Company, and W. J. Finlay, Jr., of the West Penn Power Company, Pittsburgh. They will not appear until next week. Others called include James Reed, of Hollidaysburg; Cora J. Hicks, daughter of a former congressman; Chester Ray, of Altoona; John V. Sauter, chief clerk to the superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad a Pittsburgh; J. B. Gindlesberger, P. R. R. employe, at Johnstown; Frank Hinneman, utility man of Altoona, and Merle Burringer, of Hollidaysburg.

It is expected the committee will complete its investigations about May 1.

Father Cox Gives Engraved Scroll To Turner

HARRISBURG, April 23.—The Rev. James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh, public representative on the Moore committee investigating public utilities, today presented Representative Ellwood Turner, of Delaware County, a fellow member, with a richly engraved scroll containing Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Engraved by Pittsburgh nuns, the scroll was a reciprocal compliment to Turner, who last week, after the two clashed over utility matters, presented Father Cox with a copy of the Declaration of Independence.

Labor Firm in Fight for Musmanno Police Bill

HARRISBURG, April 23.—Philip Murray, of Pittsburgh, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, and other labor leaders of the state and districts, today expressed anew their approval of the Musmanno coal and iron police bills and their disapproval of the Wilson bill, backed by Gov. Pinchot, which was reported out of committee yesterday, revised as a practically new measure. This bill would set up a protective service organization paralleling the state police, but for industry and labor to call on.

Reflecting his opinions, or similar, were John A. Phillips, state president of the Federation; John Edelman, Philadelphia hosiery union leader; Patrick Fagan, of Pittsburgh, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers; Thomas Kennedy, international treasurer of the mine workers, and others.

Fagan said:

"Our attitude is that the coal and iron police should be abolished and that we are favorable to the Musmanno bills."

Edelman said:

"We are opposed to any delegation of the state police powers, and the Musmanno bills are nearer to our idea of such a measure than any other."

Kennedy said:

"I am opposed to the creation of any industrial police force, and believe the Musmanno bills are nearer my idea."

Murray and a delegation visited Gen. Edward Martin, state treasurer and state chairman of the Republican organization, and discussed the Musmanno bills with him.

Senator William H. Earnest refused to predict whether or not the Musmanno bills would come out of the Senate Committee. He, too, had a conference with Martin.

2 SUITS TEST PINCHOT OATH

HARRISBURG, April 23.—(AP.)—Two suits were filed here today seeking to enjoin Gov. Pinchot from adding a clause to the constitutional pledge now required of all applicants for state positions. The suits were entered in Dauphin County Court by William S. Bailey, Harrisburg, acting in conjunction with George J. Harding and Frank S. Busser, Philadelphia lawyers.

The clause which the complaint says has been added to the regular pledge reads:

"And loyally support the policies approved by the people of the commonwealth in the last election for governor."

The motivating factors in filing suits, it is set forth, was the refusal of Mabel M. Hamilton, Philadelphia, to subscribe to the pledge and the consequent rejection of her application for notary public. She had been commissioned for 24 years.

The suits specifically ask that Gov. Pinchot be enjoined from insisting upon the inclusion of the clause, which is termed a political pledge.

Held Over Lottery, Balks Forced Sale

Furniture in the home of David Olitzky, of 6524 Northumberland street, will not be sold today under the hammer of Constable John F. Henn from the office of Alderman William Scott. Olitzky has claimed the $300 provided by law. His home was recently levied for the non-payment of a $63 candy bill.

Olitzky last week was held for court on a charge of maintaining a lottery when it was testified by the district attorney's office that he was trying to collect $12 by a constable sale proceedings from an Etna storekeeper for a punchboard with candy premiums.

N. Y. Carnegie Hall Damaged by Blaze

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—Two artists' studios on the fourteenth and fifteenth floors of Carnegie Hall were badly damaged by a fire of undetermined origin yesterday. Damage also was caused by water on lower floors. Loss was estimated at $500,000.

SIAM'S RULERS REST IN N. Y.

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The King of Siam sighed contentedly today. He was off duty.

There were no royal responsibilities for King Prajadhipok or Queen Rambai Barni, isolated in their surburban palace of Ophir Hall, lent them by its owner, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

Thanks to the American Department of State and the assistance of the local authorities, their majesties were as isolated as a telephone booth on a desert island.

Secret service men, state troopers and estate guards did sentry duty around the royalized grounds. The King could sing in his royal bath—and no prying cameraman would be the wiser.

Aside from the off-duty feeling of being a monarch, the King was able to satisfy certain appetites which were difficult to satiate back in the kingdom where his word is absolute. His majesty is inordinately fond of the good old American dish called ham and eggs. So ham and eggs were on the breakfast menu for his majesty today.

Big Bank Accounts of Police Revealed

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP.)—A definite announcement was made public by prosecutors today that 12 of the first 17 Chicago police captains, whose finances are under investigation by a special grand jury, have been found to have excessive bank accounts.

The announcement was made by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles J. Lounsbury, and J. A. Farmer, foreman of the special grand jury which is investigating alleged corruption in the police department.

STATE LABOR BODY VOTES FOR BEER

Federation Also Demands $10,000,000 Fund for Relief of Unemployment

HARRISBURG, April 23.—(AP.)—Already on record as urging modification of the national prohibition law to permit manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer, the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor today reiterated its stand for an appropriation by the state of $10,000,000 to be devoted solely to unemployment relief.

In taking this action at its annual convention here, the organization directed its officers to call upon Gov. Pinchot and the members of the Legislature to urge passage of a $10,000,000 appropriation or so much thereof as possible. President John A. Phillips, Philadelphia, and other officers later conferred with Gov. Pinchot on the matter.

The resolution regarding beer, adopted unanimously yesterday, stated that the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law has failed to meet the approval of the people of our country.

The resolution said in part:

"Under date of March 31, 1931, announcement was made by the federal government through the Attorney General and Treasury that medicinal whisky privileges have been extended beyond regular physicians to include dentists, veterinarians, optometrists, osteopaths, chiropractors, chiropodists and spineologists, thus increasing the possibilities of extending the bootleg army of the nation.

"The federal government has given its tacit consent to the manufacture of wine of a strong alcoholic content and extending the scope for the outlet of hard liquors, but has paid no heed to the demand of the great mass of our people for a mild beverage of wholesome beer of low alcoholic content.

EARLY CHANGE SOUGHT

"Labors' National Committee for the modification of the Volstead Law, which has recently been organized for the purpose of waging an aggressive campaign for the modification of the law to permit the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer, in line and conformity with the declarations of the conventions of the American Federation of Labor, therefore be it resolved that the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor indorse the action of Labors' National Committee and pledge its united support to bring about at an eary date a modification of the Volstead law to permit the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent wholesome beer and thereby restore a vast industry employing many thousands of wage earners of all trades and callings."

Representatives of the federation today called upon Gov. Pinchot to ask that he use his good offices to prevail upon judicial authorities not to intensify the labor situation by recourse to injunctions and contempt proceedings.

Coolidge Welcomes New Gardening Enthusiasm

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 23.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

If one of the results of unemployment is to turn more people to planting a garden, some of the loss from the depression will be retrieved. The waste of land and time to which we as a nation are so addicted will be reduced. Many of our foreign-born excel our native stock in raising fruits and vegetables about the home. They are the true disciples of diversification and are not entirely dependent on the pay envelope for supplies.

Mr. Coolidge

The garden has more than economic importance. There is something wholesome and refreshing in tilling the soil. It has a cultural value of its own. The earliest creative impulse of the human race turned in that direction. The record goes back to Adam. Directing the growth of plant life into orderly ways gives us a consciousness of working with nature which we cannot get from mechanics or commerce. There is color and fragrance in our own flower, a texture and flavor in our own produce, a solace and comfort in our own garden which cannot be purchased.

In adversity and in prosperity we are instinctively drawn to the great mother of us all, the soil.

DOPE PROFITS CURB GENEVA WAR ON EVIL

MONEY LOSS HITS DRIVE OF LEAGUE

National Budgets Come First As Each Nation Strives To Place Ban on Others

By WINIFRED BLACK
Universal Service.

GENEVA, April 23.—Is the League of Nations really going to do something at last about the curse of "dope," which is settling over the world like a black pestilence?

The dope committee of the League has been talking and preaching and promising and threatening ever since the League was formed.

It begins to look just now as if the meeting of the opium advisory committee at Geneva in May might possibly turn out to be something besides an agreeable junket to a beautiful country.

The victim nations are tired of being victims—they have called upon America to help them fight this fearful evil, which is undermining the morale of half a dozen different countries.

INTERESTING PEOPLE

America has answered the call. What chance is there of doing any real honest work in the conference?

Interesting people are in important positions on the opium committee.

There is Senor Vasconcellos, president of the committee, for instance. Charming man, suave, smiling, dignified and sweetly reasonable about the opium trade in every country but his own. Dope is such a terrible thing it makes Senor Vasconcellos, of Portugal, shiver from head to foot even to think of it.

Dope should be stamped out of the world once and for all.

BUDGET COMES FIRST

There is nothing too bad to say about those who deal in opium or in cocaine or in morphine or in heroin or any of the rest of the terrible slave-making drugs, but be reasonable, gentlemen of the committee.

Be calm, be sane, be just—when it comes to meddling with Macao, a Portuguese island—where they raise opium poppies enough this very day to put half the world to sleep forever.

Stamp out the drug in China—wipe it out in Germany, get rid of it in France, but in the name of common sense do not disturb the opium fields of Macao.

Any meddling with the traffic that would effect the little island of Macao would disturb the budget of Portugal.

But France and the budget of France must be protected from sentimentalists.

Budgets, money, business, francs, good English pounds, shillings and pence, and bright American dollars—are these things going to chink so loud in the hearing of the delegates to the May opium conference that the groans of the miserable victims of dope cannot be heard?

Will this conference turn out as the others have—full of sound and fury and signifying nothing?

We'll have to wait and see.

GIRL CAPTURES 3 BANDITS

KANSAS CITY, April 23.—(AP.)—Miss Gertrude Harper, 20-year-old waitress out of work, fought with such fury to defend her last $6.35, that three young holdup men fled in disorder, only to be captured later by the irate young woman.

Accosted by the trio, the girl rapped them sharply over their heads with her pocketbook, which one of them finally snatched and ran, with Miss Harper in hot pursuit. Pausing to recruit police assistance, the waitress resumed search for her assailants.

Suddenly the girl leaped from the police car and rained blows upon two youths sauntering along the street. Police rescued them. Miss Harper's $6.35 and her pocketbook and cigaret lighter were recovered, but chagrined at letting her quarry escape in the first place, she explained:

"I'd have caught them, if I hadn't had these terrible high heels. I thought of kicking them off, but there wasn't time."

Moscow Threatened By Raging Floods

Boats were being held in readiness to rescue marooned foreign residents.

30 DIE FIGHTING IN HONDURAS

By MARIO RIBAS
International News Service.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 23.—Bitter fighting between Honduran rebels and government troops in the past 48 hours for mastery of the northern railway section resulted in the death of at least 30 men, in addition to the wounding and capture of scores of others, it was learned today.

Sweeping victories were claimed by the government in three major clashes with insurrectionists at Olanchito, Chamelecon and Guayemas. In an attack upon the latter town, Col. Salvador Canales, rebel chief, was killed along with 14 of his followers. Three federal officers also met death.

In the opinion of authorities, foreigners in the disturbed region will remain unmolested. American women and children as well as other nationals, have been evacuated from the more exposed inland sections to the coastal cities now well protected by the guns of American naval vessels.

Suit Follows Ohio Disbarment Move

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 23.—(AP.)—A $100,000 slander suit was filed by Attorney A. M. Henderson against Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas as a result of disbarment proceedings started by Thomas against Henderson and Common Pleas Judges David G. Jenkins and J. H. C. Lyons.

Henderson charged in his suit that Thomas filed his affidavits against him for the purpose of "humiliating and disgracing" him.

Canada Will Admit Tolstoy's Daughter

OTTAWA, Ontario, April 23.—(AP.)—Miss Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of the late Count Tolstoy, Russian writer, will be permitted to visit Canada if she complies with the laws, Hon. W. A. Gordon, minister of immigration, said in the House of Commons.

He spoke in answer to queries following press discussion of her possible failure to be admitted.

The disturbance that produced the rainfall over this section yesterday is now off the Middle Atlantic Coast. The rainfall was general over the Upper Ohio Valley, the lower lakes, Middle Atlantic states and southward to South Carolina. The rainfall over this river district was evenly distributed and averaged about three-quarters of an inch. The western high pressure now covers the entire country between the eastern and western mountain ranges. It is attended by unseasonably cold weather, with frost over Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Northern Georgia, Iowa and freezing temperatures north of Iowa and over the Northern and Central Rocky Mountain states. It is still snowing in Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska and raining over the remainder of the southwestern states.

N. Y. Diplomas Cut To Fit Apartments

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—High school diplomas in the big city are to be smaller, 6x8 inches instead of 14x17. It is explained the old size took too much space in modern apartments, and the new ones cost $2.56 instead of $4.05.

BOW ARTICLES CAUSE ARREST

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—(AP.)—Arrested on a federal indictment charging him with sending obscene articles about Clara Bow through the mails, Fred H. Girnau, weekly newspaper publisher, was held in the county jail today in default of $10,000 bail.

Rex Bell, the actress' friend, told officers two men, known to him only as Jordan and Rockwell, prior to publication of the articles, had presented a plan to him whereby the stories could have been suppressed. Bell said Jordan and Rockwell had suggested that Girnau's paper, the Coast Reporter, could be bought for $25,000 and that they would put up $15,000 toward the purchase if Bell would raise the remaining $10,000.

The articles about Miss Bow ran in four issues and were preceded by publication of a purported affidavit bearing the signature of Daisy De Voe, saying she had agreed to give Girnau a "true and honest story."

Policeman Shot In Gun Battle Dies

BOWLING GREEN, O., April 23.—(AP.)—Patrolman Ralph Castner, 26, shot in a gun battle last week in which a man was slain and his girl companion wounded, died today.

Castner was shot when he and another officer attempted to arrest William "Billy the Killer" Miller, formerly of Beaver, Pa.; Frank Mitchell and Rose and Beulah Baird. Miller was killed in the fight. Beulah Baird is in a hospital with a bullet wound in the head. Her sister is in jail. Mitchell escaped.

Former Afghanistan King at Jeddah

SIMLA, India, April 23.—(AP.)—Amanullah, deposed king of Afghanistan, en route from Rome on a pilgrimage to Mecca, arrived today at Jeddah, port of the Holy City. The object of the former king in making the trip is not known, but it was thought here that he is anxious to set himself right with orthodox Moslem opinion. The pilgrimage seems effectually to dispose of rumors that he is about to become a Roman Catholic.

DRIVE FOR FULL BONUS PLANNED

DALLAS, Tex., April 23.—(AP.)—Congressman Wright Patman (Dem.), of Texarkana, said here today he would introduce a bill at the December session of Congress to provide for immediate full payment of veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

Patman declared he had received assurance from other members of Congress of enough votes to pass his bill. He was author of the bill passed at the last session under which World War veterans are permitted to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates. This law was a compromise from Patman's original bill which provided for payment in full.

NERVE EXPERT FALLS DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—(AP.)—Dr. Francis X. Dercum, noted neurologist and president of the American Philosophical Society, died suddenly today as he was about to open the annual meeting of the famous scientific organization founded by Benjamin Franklin.

Dr. Dercum, who had been ill, toppled over as he sat in the president's chair surrounded by scientific men from different parts of the country, and died in an adjoining room in a few minutes.

Escobars to Settle $10,000 Suit for Fees

EL PASO, Tex., April 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Concepcion Goelner de Escobar, wife of Gen. Jose Escobar, exiled Mexican rebel leader, said today a suit of two attorneys against her for $10,000 would be settled out of court. The attorneys, C. L. Vowell, Charles Owen and F. C. Vowell, sued for fees in connection with Mrs. Escobar's divorce action against her husband in Canada. The divorce suit was dropped when Mrs. Escobar went to Montreal and was reconciled with the general.

OLD CAR MAKES LAST RUN ON SHORT LINE

CARRIES SAD GROUPS OF PATRONS

Road Passes Into History as Famous Trolley Enters Mars Barn to Be Junked

The Marsonia, car No. 110 of the Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler Railway, stands idle in the Mars carbarns today. Its register has recorded its last fare.

And all along the line is silence because the United States District Court agreed with the railway's receiver that the line was not in condition to operate with a reasonable degree of safety and rehabilitation was impossible from a financial standpoint.

MORE BUSES IN SERVICE

The additional buses were put in service today by the Pittsburgh-Harmony Motor Coach Transportation Company between Mars and Pittsburgh to care for the former patrons of the short line. They will leave Pittsburgh at 7, 8 and 10 a. m., noon, 2, 4, 5, 5:30, 8 and 11:30 p. m.

Officials of the company said the first day's schedule started auspiciously, although some of the patrons complained that the buses were not making sufficient stops. Still others charged that they must pay $33 monthly now for their daily trips to Pittsburgh, where the Short Line fare totaled but $14.82.

The Marsonia, realists will say, can't think. There are those, however, who incline to another viewpoint.

START OF LINE RECALLED

For it must remember the bright day in January, 1908, when it first felt the pulse of electricity as it ran over shiny, new rails from Butler to Pittsburgh, inaugurating traffic on the Butler Short line.

The car must have felt something akin to happiness when it saw Miss Sarah E. Walters, 69, of McCune Station, step aboard, and said:

"I'm just too blue to say anything. I've been riding to church in Etna on the Short Line for 23 years. I saw it built. I rode the Marsonia into Pittsburgh in the old days. I saw homes spring up in the country along the line. And now it stops and I must walk half a mile from my farm to the bus when I go to town."

As the big car passed over the rusty, breaking rails on its way home, little groups cheered it, here and there, from station platforms. As it entered the home yards at the end of the run, volleys of explosions were heard as the iron wheels crunched caps on the rails over which it would run no more.

Cermak Vacation In Florida Ends

Cermak, who recently defeated William Hale Thompson for mayor of Chicago, arrived here late yesterday with a party of 22, and left five hours later for the North.

Mrs. Seton, Writer, Returns to U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, New York City, noted authoress, arrived here aboard the liner Asama Maru from a six-months journey into the wilds of French Indo-China in search for scientific data and literary material. Mrs. Seton is president of the National League of American Penwomen.

finger nails. Similar marks were noticed on the hands.

Police so far have learned this much about the man's past life:

That he was deeply interested in the occult, a "peculiar fellow," with a passion for gambling and a flair for frequenting Chinatown districts.

He worked as a teamster in Los Angeles and spent his time alternately in Los Angeles and San Diego, having taken a course in spiritualism in the latter city.

A stepsister, Rose Scott, and a niece, Louise Scott, who live on a ranch at Salinas, said they had not seen Porcellano for several years. But they recalled his interest in mediums and spiritualists.

Southern California police today announced that blood clots on the neck of the dead girl indicated that she may have been alive, but unconscious, when suspended from the tree.

From the sheriff's office came the intimation that poison or some other clue had been uncovered by the chemists.

Mother, 3 Children Saved From Flames

A Chinese woman, Mrs. Mary Foon, and her three children, Harry, 1 month old; William, 4, and Evelyn, 2, were rescued last night when fire broke out in the basement laundry of the woman's husband, Howard Ngyou Foon, at 711 Sandusky street.

Flames, which started in the drying room from a leaky gas pipe, were extinguished by firemen, who estimated the damage at $300. Foon was burned when he attempted to enter the building for money and his wife's jewelry.

STORM DOWNS BALL IN PLANE

Caught in a blinding snowstorm a six-passenger cabin monoplane, carrying Phil De C. Ball, owner of the St. Louis American League baseball team, and Lloyd McCoy, St. Louis manufacturer, were forced down on the farm of Christian Krauer, two miles west of Hickory, Washington County, late yesterday. The passengers and Pilot Frank T. Dunn, 35, of St. Louis, were uninjured.

One wing of the plane was broken, the landing gear wrecked and the propeller bent, it was said.

Ball, who was in Pittsburgh on business yesterday and McCoy declined to discuss the accident when seen in their rooms at the William Penn Hotel last night. Dunn, who registered at the Washington Hotel in Washington, also was silent, aside from saying he would return to the scene today and dismantle the plane.

Pinchot Proposes Grouse as State Official Bird

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(AP)—Selection of the ruffed grouse as the official bird of Pennsylvania has been suggested by Gov. Pinchot to Ross L. Leffler, McKeesport president of the State Board of Game Commissioners. In a letter the Governor said:

"I think there is no gamer bird. Whether we call it partridge or ruffed grouse or pheasant, as they do in the South, it is a splendid creature. One effect of the adoption of this bird would be to stimulate interest in its perpetuation. It is decreasing in numbers and unless we act quickly, may soon be missing from its Pennsylvania range."

Leffler, in replying to the Governor's proposal, said he indorsed the proposal.

HIT BY AUTO, PASTOR DIES

Funeral arrangements were being made today for the Rev. John B. Easton, 50, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, East Seventh avenue, Tarentum, who died last night in Allegheny Valley Hospital from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile while en route to officiate at a funeral several hours before.

Mr. Easton was struck by an automobile driven, according to the coroner's report, by Jacob Ross, of 1000 Baldridge avenue, New Kensington, when he stepped from a street car in Freeport road, Creighton. Mr. Easton gas going to the funeral of Mrs. Jennie Brown, of Creighton.

ney Evans' witness, to testify against city sand inspectors. Munz said he was with his brother at the time the offer was made and overheard the entire conversation.

The witness was questioned by Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin, who sought to determine if Darney attempted to have Munz testify to an untruth. The witness replied that no such proposal had been made.

Inspectors of the bureau of tests have completed test borings upon only 14 of the improvements made by the Garcia Company, Director Lang said. The original inspection was made by Philip Spann, father of Representative Max Spann. He resigned several months ago.

LAID TOO THIN

Lang said the tests revealed that the concrete in all of the jobs was according to specifications, but failed to meet the required thickness of five inches.

The investigation was ordered by Director Lang following discovery several weeks ago of faulty construction of a sidewalk in Second avenue, Harelwood. The paving is to be relaid at no cost to the city. The sidewalks appropriation for 1930, commonly called a lien appropriation, was $25,000, according to Director Lang.

Attorney Beatty presented a number of exhibits in support of his contentions. A tabulation of 707 city contracts, involving an expenditure of $11,049,028, showed an increase of only 7.4 per cent over the estimates.

Evans based his charges upon 78 contracts completed during the past three years. The increases in these improvements, Evans contends, were $1,100,000 and ranged from 100 per cent to 4,235 per cent.

Beatty said:

"It is now apparent that the real complaint in this case is not increases in costs on the total number of contracts awarded by the city, but increases in cost upon 13 projects, in most of which exceptionally heavy increases occurred. This is true for the reason that after deducting the 13 contracts before mentioned, there remained 694 out of 707 contracts, or 98.2 per cent, which were finished with an increase of only 4.2 per cent in cost over contract prices."

EVANS OBJECTS

Attorney Beatty was frequently interrupted during the presentation of his tabulations by Attorney Evans who objected to the introduction of evidence that did not come within the scope of the investigation. Evans based his charges upon 78 city contracts completed during the past three years which showed increases in the final estimates of $1,100,000, averaging from 100 to 4,235 per cent. Evans said:

"They are all for bridge contracts and for bridge repairs and this investigation confines itself to the letting of street improvements and sewers."

Replying Beatty said:

"If this whole thing goes in Mr. Evans you will have a better idea of the situation.

Evans added:

"There are no contingent items in bridge work. So much steel goes into bridge work and no more. Street work is entirely different and we do not want any bridge figures used in any comparison."

EXCEPTIONS TAKEN

President John S. Herron ruled that Attorney Beatty should proceed with the whole tabulation and that permission would be granted Mr. Evans to file his objections when Beatty had finished.

When the hearing started Attorney Evans asked Council if it would refund expenses paid E. C. Shoecraft, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Newton F. Hopkins, of Wilkinsburg, expert witnesses who testified for Evans in the early phases of the hearing. President John S. Herron said that the matter would be taken care of.

Three inspectors were called by Attorney Evans for examination before the department was to open its defense. The inspectors were Andrew Sauder, William Pennington and Elmer F. Hunlein.

Attorney Colvin this afternoon said to Council that counsel for the M. O'Herron company conferred with City Controller James P. Kerr late yesterday and signified their willingness to submit their books for 1930 to the city auditors for inspection. The demand for the books followed disclosures that the O'Herron records for 1928 had been destroyed because of lack of storage space.

Colvin said that if anything unusual is revealed in the audit of the 1930 records, an effort will be made to obtain further records of the company's operations. Testimony that the records for 1928 had been destroyed was given during a discussion of the removal of spoil from the Boulevard of the Allies improvement.

Policewomen Get Good News, But Arrest Seer

It was good news for Policewomen Nellie McDonald and Sarah McClanahan. Joseph M. Jones, 39, of North Lincoln avenue, North Side, told them they were going on long trips and faced good fortune.

The two women had Jones arrested on a charge of fortune-telling.

In Central Police Court today he was held for court. He said he had three children to support and was without work.

Thugs Take Jewels From Society Women

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP.)—Two robbers held up Mrs. Claire E. More and Mrs. Horace L. Hayward, society women, when their automobile stopped in front of Mrs. More's Gold Coast apartment last night, and stripped them of jewelry valued at $13,200.

The chauffeur was held powerless by the pair until they had torn the jewelry from the women's fingers and wrists.

Polar Expedition Wreckage Found

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, April 23.—(AP.)—A buoy marked "Baldwin-Zeigler Expedition, 1901," was washed ashore among the icefloes at Reykjunes. It was recallled here that this expedition set out from America in that year and spent the winter in Franz Joseph's Land.

Mundelein Assists Unveil Bust of Pope

ROME, April 23.—(AP.)—Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, with other cardinals and dignitaries of the church today unveiled a bust of Pope Pius XI in the central hall of the new College of the Propagation of the Faith. The college will be inaugurated tomorrow.

New York Attorney Plunges to Death

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—The body of William E. Carnochan, 63, socially prominent lawyer and resident of a Fifth avenue apartment, was found early today on the sidewalk. Police said he had jumped from his apartment on the eighteenth floor.

Doctor Believed Kidnaped Sought

CHICAGO, April 23.—(INS.)—Search was instigated in Chicago today for Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, wealthy physician and clubman, who disappeared from his home in St. Louis Monday night and is believed held by kidnapers.

A mysterious telegram from New York, signed "C. O. D.," received at the Chicago Detective Bureau, indicated Dr. Kelley was here.

Stroke Halts Trial of Pilsudski Foe

WARSAW, April 23.—(AP.)—The trial of Gen. Jazwinski, which began here April 20, took a tragic turn today when the general suffered a heart attack, followed by paralysis of the right side of his body.

He was one of four generals remaining loyal to President Wojciechowki when Marshal Pilsudski forced him out of office in 1926, and is charged now with failure to report embezzlements of subordinates to the war office.

Soldiers Guard Jail In Sextuple Murder

WILLISTON, N. D., April 23.—(AP.)—North Dakota national guardsmen today surrounded the Williams County jail here where James J. Bannon, 55, was committed late yesterday to await preliminary hearing on charges of being implicated in the sextuple murder of the A. E. Haven family near Schafer in February, 1930. Bannon is the father of Charles Bannon, 22, who was lynched January 27. The youth confessed the murders and declared that his father was innocent.

Bankruptcy Asked For Hagmaier Firm

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court today against George J. Hagmaier and Louis W. Hagmaier, doing business as the Hagmaier Upholstery Company, 712 East North avenue. Three petitioners with claims totalling $13,266.50 asked that the company be declared bankrupt.

Woman Gets $500 For Goose's Attack

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Amelia Facteau was awarded $500 damages by a jury in District of Columbia Supreme Court today for injuries suffered when attacked by a goose. She had sued Mrs. Rose Regland, owner of the fowl, for $10,000.

Mrs. Facteau testified that as she walked by Mrs. Regland's home the goose flew at her, bit and scratched her and caused her to fall.

EACH HAIR ACTUALLY AS ROUGH AS A CACTUS!

These are the hair spines that hold the dirt. Ordinary sudsy shampoos do not penetrate to the corners where the dirt hides.

No wonder you need this special penetrating shampoo to clean your hair thoroughly

Now you know why your hair is often dull and grimy even though freshly shampooed. All the little spines on each individual hair catch the dirt and hold undissolved soap particles.

When these little points are clean they catch the light and make your whole hair shine and glimmer with new life and beauty. Can they be kept clean? Not with ordinary sudsy soaps and shampoos — no. But they can be kept immaculately clean with this marvelous new shampoo.

Because it has fine-bubble lather

Laco Castile Shampoo has been made with a fine-bubble lather just so it would penetrate to the smallest "nook and cranny" of your hair. It removes the tiniest particle of dirt.

Because it is easy rinsing

And then Laco rinses away thoroughly and completely, leaving each hair shining with new life and color. Your scalp tingles with a delightful feeling of cleanliness. Your hair is soft and lustrous, bright with all its natural beauty.

Pure Olive Oil Castile

Laco Liquid Shampoo is as pure and mild as soap can be. Its chief ingredient is pure olive oil Castile — the soap doctors have recommended for generations, especially for children's tender skin.

Get the big extra-large bottle of Laco Shampoo at your favorite toilet goods counter today. You will be delighted to see how soft and shining your hair can be.

OBITUARY

George R. Ohl.

Private funeral services for George R. Ohl, 55, who died yesterday, will be held tonight at his late residence, 269 North Balph avenue, Bellevue. Other services will take place at his birthplace, Lock Haven, Pa., where he will be buried.

Mr. Ohl throughout his life was associated with the dairy and food products industries, and was well known for his health talks to students of public schools both here and at Lock Haven. He was for 10 years production manager for the Continental Condensed Milk Company, Lock Haven, later becoming associated with Harmony Creamery Company in Pittsburgh. At the time of his death he was assistant production manager of Liberty Dairy Products Corporation.

Mr. Ohl leaves his wife, Mrs. Carrie Ohl, and a son, Paul, of Bellevue; his mother, Mrs. Carrie Ohl; two brothers, Edward Ohl, of Lock Haven, and Roy Ohl, of Greensburg, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Fransue, of Philadelphia.

Simon J. Codori.

Simon J. Codori, 56, a druggist, died in his home at 5 West Prospect avenue, Ingram, yesterday. He was born in Gettysburg, Pa., and was educated at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., and the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. He had been proprietor of a pharmacy in Ingram for more than 25 years. He was a member of the Ingram Board of Trade, the Ingram Building and Loan Association, the Knights of Columbus and St. Philip's Catholic Church. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Winifred Matthews Codori; five sons, Thorndike A. Codori, of Miami, Fla., and Albert, Stanley, Richard, Jerry and Simon J. Codori, Jr., all of Ingram; four daughters, Mrs. Winifred Wyman, Elizabeth, Regina and Sarah Jane Codori, and two grandchildren, all of Ingram.

Lisensky Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for John Lisensky, 88, a resident of Millvale, who died Tuesday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Borres, 625 Farragut street, Millvale. The services will be held in St. Anthony's Catholic Church and burial will be in St. Anthony's Cemetery. He was born in Germany and had resided in Millvale 60 years. He was a member of Branch No. 4, Knights of St. George. He leaves his daughter, a son, Stanley Lisensky; 19 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Vitte Funeral.

Funeral services were held yesterday for Ferdinand H. Vitte, president of the Mt. Lebanon Board of Township Commissioners, who died Monday in his home in Lockwood avenue. The services were held in the Emanuel Lutheran Church, Castle Shannon, and burial was in Mt. Zion Cemetery in Baldwin Township. Police and firemen of Mt. Lebanon and Castle Shannon formed an escort from the church to the cemetery. Six of Mr. Vitte's nephews were pallbearers.

Emma C. Artz.

Mrs. Emma C. Artz, 53, of 3105 Shadeland avenue, North Side, died last night. She was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, the daughter of John Popp, one of the early settlers of this district. She was a member of the Lutheran church. Besides her husband, John Artz, she leaves two sons, Raymond R. and John Artz, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Marie White and Mrs. Emma Kleine, all of Pittsburgh. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Have Color in Cheeks

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

Ugly Yellow and Stain Easily Brushed Away

Teeth Whiten

3 Shades in 3 Days

There's no reason now why your teeth should be stained, yellow, discolored or prey to decay—why your gums should be spongy and tender. For science has discovered the way to remove the cause of 95% of all tooth and gum troubles—the millions of germs that swarm into the mouth with every breath—and make teeth gleaming white. It's called the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique.

Start using this technique—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush. Overnight you'll note an improvement. In just 3 days your teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer and look healthier. Breath and taste will be clean and sweet. Kolynos is unique.

The very moment it enters the mouth, this highly concentrated dental cream becomes a refreshing FOAM which permits the use of a dry brush, thus making Kolynos 10 times more effective.

This penetrating FOAM gets into and cleans out every tiny pit, fissure and crevice. Kills millions of destructive mouth germs, 190 million in the first 15 seconds. Erases tartar and stimulates the gums.

THUS TEETH ARE QUICKLY AND EASILY-CLEANED AS THEY SHOULD BE CLEANED—RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY.

Now if you want sound, dazzling white teeth and firm, coral-pink gums start using the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique. Buy a tube of Kolynos.

ASK $150,000 FOR MISSIONS

The centennial of the Western Foreign Missionary Society will be one of the features of the Presbyterian General Assembly, to be held May 28 to June 3, in Syria Mosque.

The committee has expressed its hope that there will be a centennial memorial offering of $150,000 or more raised in Pittsburgh and neighboring presbyteries. Of this amount it has been suggested that one-half be used to erect missionary apartments at Western Theological Seminary and that the other half be divided between the Presbyterian missionary interests in North India and Western Africa, where the Foreign Missionary Society began its work.

Thomas C. Pears, Jr., secretary of the centennial committee, has been perfecting arrangements for the centennial.

STUDENT DIES, 7 HURT IN CRASH

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 23.—(AP.)—One student from Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan., was fatally hurt and seven others injured, none seriously, in a bus accident near here yesterday. The dead boy is Ellis French, 20, of Pretty Prairie, Kan. He suffered fractures of the skull.

The Southwestern College party, members of a choir, was in this section on a tour when the wreck occurred. All the injured were brought to a Greensburg hospital.

The choir of 60 members was riding in two buses. One of the big machines skidded on a hill as the driver attempted to avoid a collision when the driver of a smaller car passed the bus. The bus rammed backwards into a culvert. Those hurt were riding in the rear of the wrecked vehicle.

Meeting to Protest Doom of Negroes

REAL ESTATE

A modern brick home of nine rooms and two baths, 6953 Edgerton avenue, East End, has been purchased by Edward P. Goetz from Harold Doolittle through the offices of the Kelly-Wood Real Estate Company. The lot measures 80x145 feet. A two-car garage is on the property.

NORTH SIDE SALE

A new home at 2424 Wilson avenue, North Side, has been sold by Clement J. Miller to William H. Richardson, according to W. B. Dawson & Co., North Side brokers. The purchaser is occupying the house.

August Roelle has sold to E. F. Selander a six-room home in Crosby avenue, Dormont, for $8,500. Avey & Irish, downtown brokers, consummated the deal.

BUY BUILDING

A stone building of brick construction and a two-car garage, 5818 Ellsworth avenue, has been purchased by Richard C. Buerkle from Sam Gelman. The lot is 30x150 feet. Frank White of White & Co., realtors, made the sale.

The same brokers have sold for the McGaw heirs to Susanna Maloney a six-room dwelling at 1226 Rush street, North Side.

CONSTRUCTION DROPS

Reports received at the State Department of Labor and Industry from building inspection offices in 43 Pennsylvania municipalities indicate a decline in building construction for March of $8,254,635, or 69.4 per cent, as compared with the total for the corresponding month of 1930.

During the past month, according to the department, a total of 2,396 building permits were issued for work to cost $3,637,611 as against a total of 3,261 permits for work costing $11,892,246 issued during March, 1930.

HOMESTEAD GAINS

Building increases for last month over March, 1930, were reported by five municipalities, while 38 showed declines. The greatest building gain was in Erie, Johnstown, Scranton, Homestead and Jeannette also reported gains in construction activity for March.

The total volume of building construction for March registered a seasonal gain of $790,618, or 29.3 per cent over the total for February. Residential construction declined $351,711 below the February total and non-residential building boasted a gain of $1,002,651.

Parents Ask $35,000 For Boy's Injuries

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Kiefer, of Mt. Lebanon, asked $35,000 damages for injuries to their son, Arthur Jr., 10, by an automobile, in a suit against the Pittsburgh Coal Company, filed in Common Pleas Court. The boy was standing on the sidewalk on Cochran road between Baywood street and Atlantic drive, March 10, when an automobile owned by defendant company and driven by an employe ran on the sidewalk and struck him, inflicting serious injuries, according to the suit.

CITY HELD SAFE IN AIR RAIDS

Anti-aircraft defense, in sufficient strength, would be more than a match for an air attack on Pittsburgh, Maj. Hollis Leroy Muller, instructor of Coast Artillery Reserves here, told the Kiwanis Club today at Fort Pitt Hotel.

Maj. Muller was in charge of the first American aircraft bombing tests and at one time held the American altitude record. After the World War he entered the artillery branch of the service.

He said that with 48 modern anti-aircraft guns and approximately 450 machine guns and 48 searchlights, Pittsburgh would be secure from an air attack.

Altoona Company Files as Bankrupt

The Gettman Motor Company, of Altoona, Pa., filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court today, listing $202,058.68 in liabilities and $224,819.31 in assets. Of the liabilities $165,717.06 was described as secured claims.

Rudy Vallee Longs For 'He Man' Role

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—Rudy Vallee has an ambition to play two-fisted, he-man roles in the movies. Back from a tour in which he and his orchestra grossed $22,000 a week, he says he is tired of being known as an effeminate kind of crooner.

Medicine Show Man Hurt by Auto Dies

ALTOONA, Pa., April 23.—(AP.)—Alvin "Doc" Murdock, 77, of Claysburg, owner of a medicine show, died of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile while he was walking along a highway.

Dead Is Hint Written By Missing Woman

PARIS, April 23.—(AP.)—The Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune said that the police have revealed that Mrs. Gertrude Wallace, 53, San Francisco, Cal., who has been missing from her hotel since April 10, has sent a letter to the American Embassy, reading in part:

"I wish my body cremated and the ashes scattered among the trees in the forest."

The note also said, according to the Herald-Tribune, that "she was being persecuted by an American."

City Offers Attractions For Hospitality Days

A partial list of the many features which Pittsburgh has arranged for the entertainment of out-of-town visitors on Hospitality Days, Friday and Saturday, follows:

CUT RATES IN TRANSPORTATION

Reduction in rates to and from Pittsburgh beyond the 25-cent zones will be made by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, Harmony Short Line and the Blue Ridge Bus Company, and all-day passes on street car lines will be sold at 25 cents in first zones, and 40 cents in second.

BARGAINS IN SHOPPING

Department stores, men's and women's establishments will offer special inducements to visitors.

AMUSEMENTS

Special offerings will be made by theaters as follows:

Nixon—"What's Up," musical comedy by Pitt Cap and Gown Club.

Pitt—"Death Takes a Holiday," by George Sharp Players.

FOR THE SPORT LOVERS

Polo—Three Hundred and Eighth Cavalry vs. One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery, Hunt Armory, Saturday, 8:45 p. m.

Volleyball—Eighth annual Pennsylvania Y. M. C. A. championship, Downtown Y. M. C. A., Friday night.

CONVENTIONS AND MEETINGS

Convention of Young People's Christian Union of the Allegheny Presbytery in Sixth United Presbyterian Church, Chateau and North Franklin streets, Saturday and Sunday.

Open Forum on stream pollution by Civic Club of Allegheny County, William Penn Hotel, 3:30 p. m. Friday.

OPEN HOUSE

Radio stations—Through arrangements made by the Sun-Telegraph visitors may obtain by mail or by calling at the Sun-Telegraph offices cards for admission to radio stations KDKA, WCAE, WJAS and KQV.

Civic Club of Allegheny County—Clubrooms in William Penn Hotel open to visitors each day.

Carnegie Institute of Technology—Buildings open with students at work in shops, laboratories and studios, 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. Musical recitals and scenes from plays to be given by College of Fine Arts.

H. J. Heinz Company—Tours of inspection in all plants. Women visitors will receive souvenirs each day.

SIGHTSEEING

HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS

"HOSPITALITY LUNCHEONS"

GIRL INSTITUTE TO MEET HERE

The Girls' Conference Institute will hold a two-day meeting in the Schenley Hotel Monday and Tuesday. The theme of the meeting will be "The Responsibility of the Community to Youth."

Speakers will be Mrs. Ralph W. Harbison, president of the Girls' Conference; Mrs. Harry Sadler, of Pittsburgh; Dr. Howard Nudd, of the Public Education Association, New York; Dr. Margaret M. Gerard, of the University of Chicago; the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, of Shadyside Presbyterian Church; A. L. Wills, superintendent of the Juvenile Detention Home, Pittsburgh; Wilton A. Barrett, of the National Board of Motion Picture Review; Prof. Brent Dow Allison, and Prof. Henry M. Busch, of Cleveland College.

Dr. Hughes Mearns, of New York University, will speak at a dinner meeting Monday night, and Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, of the Temple, Cleveland, at a luncheon meeting Tuesday.

Misfortune Again Hits Family as Boy Is Shot

Misfortune still pursues the family of George Greok. Yesterday, Nick Greok, 17, of 100 Grand avenue, Wall, was shot through the left hand while examining a revolver, which a companion handed him while they were collecting loam in a woods near the Greok home. Two years ago the boy's father was taken to a sanitarium and a short time later a brother was killed in an accident in McKeesport.

Kellogg to Receive Social Science Honor

NEW YORK, April 23.—(INS.)—Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, will receive the gold medal of the National Institute of Social Science, according to announcement today. The honor will be conferred here on May 7, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Grace Abbott and Richard Clarke Cabot receiving the same honor with Kellogg.

Eddie Guerin Gets Three-year Sentence

LONDON, April 23.—(INS.)—British law dealt today with Eddie Guerin, spectacular international underworld figure of 20 years ago, when it found him guilty on all counts and imposed sentence of three years penal servitude in old Bailey prison.

Arrested in West End, London, several weeks ago, the criminal pleaded not guilty to charges including theft and forgery. He was granted two hearings.

clared of vital importance to every community in the state.

Among the associations concerned in pending legislation intended to correct the pollution evil are the State Association of Townships, representing about 1,250,000 people in 60 communities of the state; the Allegheny County Association of Townships, representing another 165,000 people; the League of Borough Townships and Third Class Cities of Allegheny County and the Izaak Walton League.

Hotels in the city are extending their special travelers' week-end rate to cover the three-day period, offering gratis accomodations to wives accompanying their husbands to the city for the hospitality visit.

Special luncheons are being arranged and elaborate programs of entertainment have been planned for Saturday night.

Many requests have been received by the Sun-Telegraph for radio passes, giving the holder special privileges at local broadcasting stations, meeting radio stars in person and witnessing the actual broadcasting of their favorite programs. Several hundred passes still remain for distribution, it was announced.

The Greater Pittsburgh Inter-Club Council, composed of representative Negro citizens of this district, will make a contribution to the program by presenting the national radio favorites, Zach Whyte and his Chocolate Beau Brummels, at a ball tomorrow night in Duquesne Garden, Craig street and Fifth avenue.

"Hospitality Days" Visitors Welcome

Please Bless Our Landlord

HE has given us a new lease on life—and business. After considerable deliberation he has agreed to accept a "rent" that we are able to pay. He knows as well as you do, that we cannot pay this "exorbitant rent" while selling clothes at such low prices.

All Pittsburgh can thank him. You can now continue to buy clothes here at the prices which have saved the public thousands of dollars.

Immediately upon the close of our new rent arrangement, we arranged for hundreds of those famous suits. Manufacturers still have them—for the merchant who can go in and pay cash. Our big store is being refilled with these wonderful clothes. They're here—hundreds and hundreds of them. All the newest Spring styles—beautiful fabrics—smart, snappy models—clothes that other stores sell at $22.50 and up. Those who bought before will be back for more—those who have NOT visited our store should come at once, and see for themselves.

Shop Kaufmann's And See the World!

Your Passport to Paris! Your Passage to India! They're HERE—Waiting for You—at Kaufmann's!

PAINTED by the great Boardman Robinson, and taking two whole years to complete, the ten vast mural canvases on our beautiful new Main Floor are a sight to be seen nowhere else in the world. They depict the history of commerce, from the earliest times up to the present, in a style so vigorous and imaginative that they won the highest award of the New York Architectural League for 1930. Viewed by students of art from all over America, and from many foreign countries, the murals are the delight of all who share the belief that Art belongs in Industry.

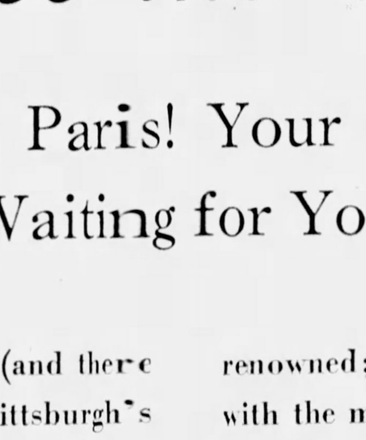
Fourteen Floors of Moving Stairways

At Kaufmann's is the world's largest retail installation of escalators, which, together with twenty elevators, make shopping here the fastest as well as the most profitable. Sixty-six "winged stairways" in all—from the Downstairs Store to the Thirteenth! Bring the children.

Cut the Corners On Our Main Floor

In all the world no floor like this! Every aisle a traffic artery—laid out "on the bias," like the spokes of a wheel—saving you countless steps, and clipping many minutes from your shopping time.

Just a step through our portals (and there are EIGHT large entrances to Pittsburgh's largest store)—and you're on your way! On a sight-seeing tour that takes you to the markets of the whole blessed world, from Samarkand to Stockholm, from Naples to Nanking. From fastnesses of the Himalayas, you'll see wondrously-woven carpets; from the Grand Couture of Paris the models which are making the mode; from Vienna, the marvelous knitted sports things; from Burslem, and Stoke on Trent, china world-renowned; from France and Italy, silks with the magic names of weavers to royalty . . . every country on the globe passes in review before you and for you, at Kaufmann's, the store of world-wide assortments. And remember—quality for quality, prices are now at the lowest in ten years, so that your visit to this establishment will be not only pleasurable but exceedingly profitable. We cordially invite you, one and all. Pittsburgh's greatest retail institution will be honored by your presence.



Detail of the Murals

ON the walls of The Galleries (Eleventh Floor) our visitors will see a sight for which the Dresden Chateau is famous—the four Gobelin Tapestries, said to be the finest in existence. They were woven at the command of Louis XVI, bear his coat of arms, and were said to have been stolen from the room of Marie Antoinette at Versailles. These hangings, valued at $150,000, have never before been shown in America.

Partridge's Silver

Cecil Partridge, of London, presents for you one of the world's most valuable collections of Antique Silver—also in the Galleries, Eleventh Floor. Pieces dating all the way back to Queen Anne.

Cool, Washed Air

If the day is warm, you'll linger long on our Main, Arcade and Downstairs Floors, where the air is cooled and washed until it is as bracing as a breeze from the ocean.

Lobster Luncheon

Our Eleventh Floor Restaurant will serve a special lobster luncheon Friday at 70c. Express elevator from Main and Arcade Floors.

FRANK & SEDER BIRTHDAY SALE

REAL HOSPITALITY . . . . By Quin Hall

COURTESY DAY FRIDAY

YOU WILL SAVE ENOUGH MONEY TO MAKE MANY TRIPS TO PITTSBURGH

If you will take advantage of the Birthday Bargain prices featured by Frank & Seder on Friday and Saturday you will save enough money to pay for many trips to Pittsburgh. We cordially welcome our out-of-town friends, and when they see for themselves just how much less it costs at Frank & Seder for wearing apparel and home furnishings they will understand why we have achieved such a nation-wide reputation for value-giving.

Now Is a Good Time TO OPEN A CHARGE ACCOUNT

We know that because of the extraordinary values during our Birthday Sale, thousands of new customers will be attracted to our store. Many of them may desire the convenience of a Charge Account and our Credit Manager, Col. Blackstone, will receive their application in the new credit offices on the Third Floor.

REFRIGERATORS, RANGES, KITCHEN CABINETS, ETC. NEW DEPT. at FRANK & SEDER

Frank & Seder have opened a new department on the Sixth Floor of Refrigerators, including the famous Copeland Electric Refrigerator, as well as Stoves, Ranges, Cabinets, etc., and the values are sensational. Visit that department and take advantage of this Birthday Sale. Come to Courtesy Day.

THOUSANDS OF STRANGERS TO BE IN PITTSBURGH

Hospitality Days Offer Opportunity to Take Advantage of Frank & Seder Birthday Celebration.

While the opening day of the Frank & Seder Birthday Sale is Saturday, in order to give the thousands of out-of-town visitors who will be here tomorrow an opportunity to make selections we have planned to make Friday a Courtesy Day, offering all the Birthday merchandise at Birthday prices. The public is again reminded of the extraordinary opportunity to save money on needed Spring and Summer merchandise for personal and home use. In many instances items will be offered at cost and a trifle above cost.

GIVE YOUR DOLLARS A RUN FOR THEIR MONEY

Now is the time when every dollar has to count. And now is the time when you can prove to your satisfaction just how much more you can buy for your dollars at Frank & Seder. This store has been famous throughout the entire country for its phenomenal values. In fact the reason of its sensational success is due to the sensational values that have been given through the years. So you imagine what surprises in store of Bargains are waiting for the public during this Birthday Sale. Come to Courtesy Day Friday.

NEW SPRING AND SUMMER MERCHANDISE OFFERED AT RECORD LOW PRICES

This is more than a Pittsburgh event . . . it belongs to all communities of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia. They participated in the upbuilding of this great retail institution, and they are entitled to share in whatver benefits we can offer them. Thirteen years ago we moved into our present building, and as a result of the continued loyal support of the public we have developed into one of the outstanding units in the Pittsburgh retail district. And to express our gratitude in a practical way we have planned, beginning Saturday, and continuing for two weeks, to distribute over a million dollars' worth of the very newest Spring and Summer merchandise of proven quality at the lowest prices quoted in a generation.

These are times when families are not interested in trivial souvenirs but in trying to make their dollars reach as far as possible in purchasing things they need. So we have decided to make this a practical celebration and to share with the public all the savings we obtained on the vast quantities of merchandise purchased for this Birthday event. And to further increase their savings we have sacrificed a part of our normal low profit. Thus is offered an opportunity to the economical families of the Tri-State territory to supply their personal and home needs at prices that mean extraordinary cash savings.

We have not only invested our time in preparation of this event but back of it all we have been inspired by a sentiment to do everything possible, with all the resources at our command, to make this an outstanding demonstration. And we are thankful to the manufacturers with whom we have done business all through the years for their fine co-operation in contributing a share of their profits in order that we might be in a position to offer our customers values in desirable merchandise that would be real Birthday presents.

We wish that we could personally invite every one of our old customers to attend this celebration sale. But we ask you to take the spirit for the deed and to come and see us. It will be a profitable visit for you and for your neighbors.

EVERY ADVERTISED ITEM EXAMINED AND APPROVED BY A STORE COMMITTEE

We wish that we could invite the public behind the scenes and show them the enormous activities involved in preparing for such an event as this. But we hold meetings of the major executives to plan the general policy of the sale; then we hold meetings with the buyers to impress them with the importance of a Birthday event, and to inspire them to go into the markets and to assemble merchandise of style and quality at savings that may be passed along to the customer. After the merchandise is in, before it can be advertised samples must be submitted to a store committee of three Merchandise Managers, who "know their stuff." Every item is carefully examined; then an expert shopper is sent out to see what merchandise of similar character is being sold for in other stores; then this is checked with the Buyer's Sale Price. If it stands the test of being the best value in Pittsburgh it is then passed to the advertising department to be included in the advertisement so you can readily identify the every Buyer has put mettle and unlessness into to produce values about which the ordinary high standards of department can function properly. That we are able to offer almost unbelievable values by this Birthday offering is a result of making their purchases at the bargain hours of Frank & Seder. During the Birthday Sale an opportunity is offered every family in the Tri-State district to buy Furniture at the lowest prices quoted anywhere in the past ten years. And remember, every piece of furniture is the newest because we have been in business long enough to accumulate odds and ends of unsalable lines.

We, the undersigned members of the Store Committee of Frank & Seder, after personally examining the merchandise to be advertised in the Birthday Sale, do approve the offerings as of exceptional worth and to be up to the high standard of value-giving identified with this event.

J. H. FRANK, Chairman
A. A. SEDER,
S. M. GORDON,
Committee.

Hundreds of Extra Help During Birthday Sale at Frank & Seder

Frank & Seder have engaged hundreds of extra people to take care of the crowds during the Birthday Sale. That's the way to promote bettered times. We are offering prices that will unleash buying power of the public. This will enable us to secure merchandise in turn enable us to buy from the manufacturer, which will further employment, even while at a time like this in this spirit the whole country will be less unemployment in this country.

FRANK & SEDER FURNITURE DEPT. THE TALK OF PITTSBURGH

Frank & Seder opened their Furniture Department a little over a year ago, but one would think from the enormous volume of business they are doing that it had been selling furniture for thirty years. All due to the every Buyer and Salesman put into it, coupled with unlessness in the departments. Economical hours of stockholders find they are able to furnish their homes almost unbelievably by this Birthday offering. Remember, making their purchases at the bargain hours of Frank & Seder. During the Birthday Sale an opportunity is offered every family in the Tri-State district to buy Furniture at the lowest prices quoted anywhere in the past ten years. And remember, every piece of furniture is the newest because we have been in business long enough to accumulate odds and ends of unsalable lines.

PITTSBURGH'S GREATEST ANNUAL RETAIL [EVENT]

This is your sale. It belongs to the public which has made it possible the phenomenal success of Frank & Seder! It has been planned that you may assemble merchandise bargains for you! Every dollar we save on our purchases belongs to you! And we urge every family in Western Pennsylvania that can possibly use apparel or home furnishings, to buy every dollars' worth during the Birthday Sale!

Friday, April 24, will be Courtesy Day

ALL ROADS LEAD TO FRANK & SEDER BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

A Million Birthday Bargains as a Practical "Thank You" to the Public

Two young Pittsburghers, Jacob [Fr]ank and [Se]der, opening a small wholesale store out [in] 1908, decided to venture into the retail business, opening a small store on the site of their present building. They did not have much money but they had a lot of faith in their ability and in the future of Pittsburgh.

At first the confines of the [st]ore limited the sale of men's Suits, Dresses, Coats, Millinery, Furnishings, as an important line of apparel. But the quickest and quickest way to win public confidence and patronage was to offer some unusual good values for less money than believed possible. It is said and economics is strongly developed in the average [per]son that wage earners are interested in getting the most possible value for their money. As a result of the Frank & Seder policy of Style, Quality at Lower Prices proved sensationally successful. And in a short time the name of Frank & Seder was on the lips of the public. Then began a series of expansion movements necessary by the ever increasing pressure of public demand. Other departments were added as the store was enlarged, when finally they took possession of their present building. Not only were the leaders in apparel lines, but they enjoyed a large following in such departments as Rugs, Draperies, Blankets and Down Silks, Cashmeres, Lamps, etc., etc. Whenever the [pu]rchase of fundamental policy has been the highest Time [Pa]yments and Courtesy to customers is satisfied no matter what conditions [ex]ist.

Extraordinary Birthday Feature!

An outstanding offer even during our Birthday Sale! Worsted Wiltons—the aristocrat of domestic rugs, in all the gorgeous beauty of real Orientals. Actual $115 Kirmins, Sarouks, Antique Bejars, Antique Kashans, Antique Tabriz, Caucasians, Indo-Ispahans, and Antique Faraghans, at $59.75.

LOOK UP YOUR TRAIN SCHEDULES FOR FRIDAY

We are very anxious to have our great army of Suburban customers take advantage of this Birthday Sale. It is the one time when we have an opportunity to show our out-of-town friends just how much we value their patronage and to what extent we appreciate the part they have played in building up the big Frank & Seder business.

The savings will repay many times the cost of a trip to the city. Arrange your home affairs so you can come.

USE FRANK & SEDER BUDGET CLOTHING PLAN

Men's Clothing Sold On Payment Plan

Lang Submits Figures to Disprove Charges Against Works Department

Attorney Lee C. Beatty, counsel for Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, today replied to charges against the Department of Public Works, made by Attorney Henry Oliver Evans. The following statement by Attorney Beatty covers a study of 13 improvements which Attorney Evans claims were illustrative of the unusual increases in final estimates.

Bellaire Street

Final estimate, $28,635.42—or 17 per cent increase.

The increased cost to the extent of $3,534 was due to extra work and some additional work due to a change of grade made by ordinance of Council on petition of abutting property owners. Other additional work in the amount of $954 rose from the necessity of adjusting sewers which had been improperly constructed in the first instance by a land development company. None of these changes could be contemplated at the time the contract was advertised.

Allegheny Cemetery Sewer

Final estimate, $66,523.10—an increase of $9,872, or 17½ per cent.

Incrased costs are due to three causes.

(a) $2,275 was spent for additional catch basins and connections at the instance of Allegheny Cemetery Association with the approval of Council in order to accord with a road layout which the Cemetery Association adopted after the award of the sewer contract. This change modified the assumptions on which the contract plans were prepared and was outside of the control of the department.

(b) $3,634 was spent for additional work for extra construction due to the passage of the sewer through some old coal workings, the location of which was not known at the time the contract was let, and for additional concrete in cradles where extra support of the sewer became necessary.

(c) $3,789 was paid as extra work for the construction of a tile drain underneath a portion of the sewer, because a porous and saturated stratum of underlying material was found, which was not shown by test pits dug in dry weather.

These items account for the total increase within $200. None of these changes could be reasonably anticipated at the time when the contract was advertised.

(See Exhibit D-2 for further details.)

Allies Boulevard

Final estimate, $206,536.13—an increase of $71,380.75.

This contract was one of 15 which constituted the extension of the Boulevard of the Allies from a point near Brady street to Schenley Park, the aggregate estimate cost of which contract was $954,200; aggregate contract price $684,317.68, and aggregate of final estimates $769,402.89. The particular contract here discussed did increase in the neighborhood of $71,000 yet the net increase in cost on the whole 15 contracts constituting the project was only $84,085, or 11⅛ per cent. The contract under discussion was an especially hazardous and difficult one, as a matter of fact the other 14 contracts which had an aggregate contract price of $549,164.30 and an aggregate final payment of $562,866.76, a net increase of $13,633.06, or about 2½ per cent. This simply goes to show that unless unusual, difficult or unforseen conditions arise that this whole project was carried out with remarkably small increase in cost over the contract price.

CONDITIONS HAZARDOUS

Notwithstanding extensive preliminary investigations and very adequate topographical and other data, the conditions affecting this contract were such as to make it extremely hazardous and very difficult to estimate the quantities of work required prior to the doing of said work. The ground was treacherous, the stability of Fifth avenue on the high side was questionable, the sub-soil conditions had been fully taken into account, but certain difficulties not completely revealing conditions could not be overcome by reason of the fact that the site was occupied to a very great extent by buildings and paved courts. It was thought at the time and very serious attention was given to the same by the staff of engineers of the department and of the bureau of engineers, that reasonable allowance had been made for the conditions and provision was made for the unusual conditions obtaining both in the design, in the special specifications and the estimate of quantities.

We believe that this contract was a very unusual and extraordinary one and whatever increase of cost there was, was due not to the form of contract or method of taking bids, but to the inherent difficulties and conditions.

(a) After construction had begun the evidence of material on the ground led the engineers to the conclusion that the greater part of the material to be excavated in grading operations was unsuitable for the placing in the fills, and that it therefore had to be removed from the job and the anticipated filling material so removed had to be replaced with granulated slag, which was regarded as the only acceptable filling material in this situation. This change resulted in an increase of $40,912.

TRENCH WALLS

(b) The treacherous nature of the ground at the easterly end of the contract led to decision to construct all the retaining walls on the north side of the street in trench before completing the grading operations. This program had been contemplated in the contract plans for a part of the proposed walls, but the decision to build all the walls in order to prevent sliding or slipping of the ground carried an increased expenditure of $11,691 under the proper item of the contract. Additional costs for sheeting and bracing in the amount of $2,630 and extra work costs of $3,255 for gravel filling and other uncontemplated work in this vicinity increased the cost due to necessary changes in the method of construction of retaining walls to a total figure of $17,576.

(c) There was an error in the Division of Design in the computation of estimated quantities in retaining walls, which increased the cost by $6,671.00 and there were extra work costs of $3,184 due to omissions on the contract plans and changes made to accord with the general development of plans on the whole boulevard project. The increases above recited amount to $68,343 and substantially account for the increase on this contract. It will be observed that the two principal items of $40,000 and $17,000 were due to the necessity of taking care of treacherous ground threatening to slide and the measures taken were necessary to prevent damages which might have been many times this extra cost.

Bates Street

Final estimate, $41,464.54—increased cost, $5,077.22 or 14 per cent.

(a) Sub-grade conditions after the old paving had been stripped, rendered it advisable and necessary to thicken the concrete paving base at the intersection of Bates street and Second avenue and to add steel reinforcements to the same. The area of base treated with broken stone was also increased over that originally contemplated. These extra costs account for $2,825 of increase.

(b) Heavy rains occurring during the construction gave evidence that insufficient drainage had been planned and additional catch basins and connecting sewers were therefore installed at an increase in cost of $1,126.

(c) Changes in sidewalks made necessary by the drainage modification amounted to about $665 and other sidewalk reconstruction required by conditions which developed farther up the hill when certain sidewalks were found to be undermined, account for about $540 of additional cost. The extra cost on the contract is substantially accounted for in these three headings.

Mt. Washington Roadway

Final estimate, $535,479.55—increase, $160,445, or about 43 per cent.

This contract was one of several constituting the entire Mt. Washington roadway project from the Liberty Bridge to Merrimac street, and covered the grading, paving and curbing between the concrete bridge over Sycamore street to Merrimac avenue. The contract in point was the largest one on the project. The balance of the contracts, eight in number, with aggregate contract price of $419,632.25, and aggregate final payment of $422,819.25, increased by $3,185 over the original contract price or about three-quarters of one per cent. It is another example where unusually difficult conditions affect the cost of an occasional contract and the fact that the other contracts were finished for a very small increase show in general the contracts on the project were planned and executed satisfactorily with respect to additional cost.

In the case of this contract as in the Boulevard of the Allies, very extensive data in the way of plans and sub-soil excavation and tests were obtained and the utmost effort used to estimate the quantities as closely as conditions would permit.

DIFFICULT GROUND

This contract covered very difficult ground on a precipitous hillside. The location traversed a series of clay, shale and coal strata lacking in lateral stability in various degrees with a steep descent to the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and a steep slope up to Grandview avenue on the southerly side. This contract was very difficult to estimate and difficult to construct.

(a) Where the roadway traversed the Pittsburgh coal seam, extensive slides developed upon disturbance of the ground in grading operations and heavy additional costs were incurred in meeting this situation, not only to protect the new roadway from sliding ground, but also to prevent Grandview avenue from sliding down the hill. The total costs of meeting the conditions at this coal crossing were $93,000, including both additional work and extra work.

(b) The instability of the hillside at other points than the coal vein crossing led to additional trimming costs for increasing the slopes beyond those originally planned and for redressing the slopes later on in the amount of $48,882.

(c) Sealing up the coal mine and various modifications in structure to meet foundation conditions on the north side of the road as they developed, substantially account for the remainder of the additional costs, or about $18,000. Modifications of structure referred to involved in general the substitution or extension of certain types of structures shown on the contract plans and the reduction or elimination of other types. Foundations in certain cases had to be carried deeper than shown.

(d) The extra costs on this project were due to the hazardous nature of the ground and the necessity of taking extraordinary measures to meet these hazards as they developed.

Grizella Street

Contract price, $30,061.30.

Final estimate, $67,199.94—increase of $37,147, or about 123 per cent.

Grizella street is on the North Side near the city line. The extra costs in this contract arose because heavy slides developed when the grading operations began. It became necessary, in order to hold the street and to prevent property on the upper side from slipping into the street, to build two retaining walls at an increase in cost, including trench excavation and reinforcement of about $25,600, all of this under the items of the contract.

The items of grading and spoil were increased in the amount of $4,707 by the necessity of removing ground which had slipped upon the street, and by doing extra grading of material placed for a temporary roadway to keep the street open during the winter.

Broken stone sub-base was increased over a part of the street to the extent of $1,253 and several items of extra work were incurred for the purpose of preserving the use of the street both for vehicles and pedestrians during the winter of 1926 and 1927 while the wall construction above described was being executed.

This job illustrates the extra costs which are rather frequently met in this region when conditions of lack of stability in the soil are found and have to be met.

Bond and Herron Street Sewers

The net additional work on this contract was rather small, amounting to about $1,289, or about 5 per cent, but the chief increase was due to extra work as outlined below in the amount of $26,548.97.

The plans covered a sewer on Bond street, and certain connections, and the contract work was carried out substantially as planned, but, as the construction progressed, it was found that the outlet sewer into which the sewers under contract would have to discharge were clogged and not functioning. The work of opening and reconstructing this sewer, which was outside the scope of the contract, was performed as extra work, the funds being partly taken from the unexpended balance of the appropriation for the Bond street sewer, and the balance being appropriated by Council under an emergency declaration by the Mayor and Controller. The bulk of the extra work was done on cost plus 15 per cent basis, in the same manner as an emergency contract to be carried out, and the work was entrusted to the contractor on the Bond street sewer because he was at the time on the adjacent job and was equipped to proceed with the emergency work.

Riverview Park Retaining Wall

Contract price, $15,095.50.

Final estimate, $21,598.14—increase, $6,502.63 or about 43 per cent.

This contract was performed under an emergency appropriation ordinance after certification of the Mayor and Controller that an emergency existed. A large slide had taken place in Riverview Park carrying out a piece of an important road and access to the park was thereby much curtailed.

It was determined that a retaining wall would have to be built and the ground refilled before the street could be restored. In order to get this done in the shortest time and yet obtain bids to do the work on unit price basis rather than on the cost plus 15 per cent plan, plans were drawn up for a wall, the location and final depth of which would be determined after test pits had been dug under the contract. After several pits had been dug the location was decided upon which was not the tentative one shown on the plans and the wall quantities are those covered by the final estimate.

If the contract had not been let until after the test pits had been dug, the total cost of the contract might have been less but much more time would have been required and the road would have been out of service for a correspondingly longer period.

Lincoln Avenue Widening

Final estimate, $170,885.92—same being net increase of $23,094, or 16 per cent.

This was an extensive contract extending about one and one-quarter miles, involving the widening of the street by setting back the curbs, regrading, repaving and recurbing the street. There was very little change in the grading on this widening, but there was a very material increase in broken stone sub-base and the excavation of the same. This was due to the character of the sub-soil, which was not in evidence or recognized when the contract was made. The price for excavation provided in the contract was $1.50, which was a very reasonable price, and the price for broken stone sub-base was $1.75, which was much below the then prevailing price. This change in specifications increased the cost of the work at unit price by $5,299.62.

There was a slight increase considering the quantity of concrete paving base amounting to $1,008.09; more reclipped blockstone was placed at $1.60 and less new blockstone at $3.65 a yard was placed. The result of all the changes was that the various paving items was increased a net amount of $1,571.09, the greater part of which was due to a reconsideration as to the width of the roadway on the Lincoln Avenue Bridge. It was originally proposed to repave the bridge to the existing width of 30 feet, but the new roadway of Lincoln avenue was to be 34 feet and this made an ugly job at each end of the bridge. The Bureau of Bridges was finally ordered to take off the old parapet and substitute a fence, and this made it possible to widen the roadway and still leave room for sidewalks. This added a total of four feet on the bridge for a distance of 900 feet, and in addition to this some curb had been placed before the above decision had been reached and this had to be taken out and replaced.

MANHOLES CHANGED

The necessary increase was made in a number of catch basins to provide adequate drainage at Lemington avenue and the necessity to roll the sub-grade of the street car track railways area made necessary the alteration and adjustment of 21 more manholes. These several items increased the cost by $3,524. The cost of curb is increased $1,766.24, largely on account of the situation on the Lincoln Avenue Bridge. Some of the sandstone curb that we counted on recutting and resetting was found to be unsuitable and new curb had to be substituted.

The lumnite concrete was increased from 100 yards to 227 yards. This had to do with keeping intersections open and in the course of which Chief of the Fire Department made certain requests. This increased the cost $2,798.62.

The cost of lumber for temporary vehicle and foot crossings was very materially increased on this job. The contract was a long one with numerous street crossings and the demands for the maintenance of the traffic, and we must admit that the requirements were under-estimated. These public conveniences, however, had to be maintained and increases in cost under the contract were sustained.

Very careful attention was given to the job to see that there was no mixing of new and old block stone and with reference to the quantities of materials actually used. We feel that whatever increases in quantities were made were absolutely necessary.

Norwood Avenue Sewer

Final estimate, $7,514.50—increase, $5,893.50.

This contract was in the nature of an emergency matter. A sewer at the corner of Norwood avenue and Kennedy avenue became stopped, producing flooding of the streets in the vicinity. The sewer was very deep and actual inspection of the stopped portion was impossible. The contract was let to take up and repair a certain portion of the sewer, but when the excavation was opened and the sewer reached it was found that the damage had been much more extensive than had been supposed and it was necessary, in order to complete the repair work, to increase the quantity of work originally contemplated and to do extra work to an extent greater than the original contract contemplated.

The event proved that the contract might have been more properly done on a cost plus basis throughout, but it was felt prior to letting the contract that some economies might be obtained by competitive bidding.

Greenway Drive Sewer

Final estimate, $45,461.52—increase, $6,146.12 or 15 per cent.

This was a contract for the construction of about 9,000 feet of sewer in varying sizes up to 42 inches. The increases are accounted for chiefly in two ways. In the first place the number of catch basins was increased, together with the catch basin connections. This contract was let early in 1926 and it had been the practice at that time to fix the number of catch basins in the field after the contract was let. This practice since that time has been largely eliminated but resulted in an increase in this contract of $2,632. The other principal increase, amounting to $3,358, was incurred for extra concrete and extra trench excavation for supporting the sewer near a certain run where soft ground was encountered. This work would have been definitely planned if test pits had been dug in advance of the construction, but it would not have been avoided. The department has been endeavoring to spend more money on test pit work for sewers, but at the time of this job had not accomplished very much.

The items mentioned amount to $6,000, which is substantially the increase in the contract. With more adequate preliminary information the increase in work would have been included in original contract and no increase in cost would have been apparent. The same work, however, would have been done and paid for.

Hart Schaffner & Marx know how to hang sleeves

Only the most skillful tailors can do this job. It requires hand work of the most difficult kind. When you buy a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit you know the sleeves hang right, the coat fronts wont curl or pucker, lapels wont sag, your coat collar will hug your neck, the shoulders are shaped to your figure and the fabrics have passed through six severe tests for wear and quality

P.S. The next time you send your suit to the tailor to be pressed tell him not to press a crease in your sleeves. It makes them look too much like a trouser leg. They hang better and look more stylish without the crease

LANG DEFENDS WORKS COSTS

The increase was all in item No. 2 for extra binder in sheet asphalt surfacing.

The contract plan and estimate was based on the plan of record in this bureau; namely, the contract plans for the construction of the floor in 1912. These plans called for a wood block surfacing 3 inches in depth with a sand cushion varying from ¾-inch at the curb to 1¼ inches at the rail, averaging 1 inch and requiring an average thickness of 4 inches of asphalt.

Three inches of asphalt were included in the unit price for asphalt resurfacing. Item 1, the additional inch of binder being the estimated quantity of 132 cubic yards in item No. 2. The increase was due largely to scuppers being placed in the gutter, under some previous contract, which raised the surface of the paving at the gutter 1 inch. The remainder was due to the irregularities of the wooden floor on which the asphalt was laid.

Due to vibration, it was impossible to obtain accurate levels on this bridge and, therefore, the binder was measured by weight. This weight was reduced to cubic yards on the basis of one cubic yard equal 3,600 pounds. From this the 1½ inches of binder paid for in item No. 1 was deducted and the balance, namely, 283.75 cubic yards, paid for under item No. 2. We have, in this bureau, the original shipping weights of the asphalt binder. The Thomas Cronin Company would still have been low bidder with the final estimate quantities by approximately $900.

Ellsworth Avenue Bridge Repairs

Final estimate, $67,126.88—increase, $8,971.13.

This job is a typical bridge repair job. The full extent of necessary repairs can not be determined in advance. The visible portion can be inspected but behind these parts there is always concealed work which can only be inspected when the covering material is removed in the course of the contract. In this contract additional steel was required to be replaced under the above circumstances to the extent of about $4,400.

Certain other steel was required to be placed at the distance of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which company, although having liberal notice, failed to make its needs known before the contract was let. This resulted in an increase duly authorized by Council of about $3,900. During the execution of the contract it was also necessary to provide a foot walk and to lay some special concrete all under extra work arrangements to the extent o $2,400. These items more than account for the net increase, but they were offset by reductions in contingent quantities which were not used.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Brides Name Wedding Dates

Plans for two spring weddings of note are being made known today. And the two brides-to-be added to the list of spring brides are two popular members of the younger set, Virginia English Furey, daughter of the William Morris Fureys, of Wilkins avenue, and Mary Barbara Shiras, daughter of MacGilvray Shiras, of Aylesboro avenue.

Virginia will be the very first bride of June, for she has selected Monday, June 1, as her wedding day. Her engagement to Dr. David Alexander Cooper, of Philadelphia, son of Mrs. John D. Cooper, of Henderson, S. C., was announced recently. Her wedding will take place at 5:30 o'clock.

Mary Shiras will become the bride of Karl Adams Dietrich, son of the Gustav Dietrichs, of Detroit, on Saturday, May 23. And the ceremony, to be attended by members of the two families, will take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the Shiras home, with the Rev. Dr. Davis Lang, pastor of the Shady Avenue Presbyterian Church, as officiant. A small reception is to follow the wedding.

Mary's roommate at school, Mrs. George Stevenson Fenton, of Buffalo, will be matron of honor, and her little cousin, Jane Shiras, of Cleveland, will be her flower girl. Serving as best man will be Tedford Bachman, of Sharon, Pa.

Yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Eleanore Marie Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William James Martin, of Bradford Woods and Brighton road, to Harold Dietrich Cochrane, son of Mrs. Louis H. Cochrane, of Brighton road, North Side. Officiating was the Rev. Robert H. Allen. After the ceremony there was a reception in the church and a dinner in the Highland Country Club for the bridal party, immediate families and out-of-town guests.

Church Wedding

The bride wore a gown of white lace, with a bolero jacket having flowing sleeves, and a picture hat of white horsehair. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, gardenias and lilies. Miss Margaretta Martin, as her sister's maid of honor, wore a frock of orchid organdy with a hat of natural horsehair and carried spring flowers. The two bridesmaids included another sister, Miss Dorothy Martin, who wore coral organdy, and Miss Gladys Cochrane, who wore green organdy. Both wore natural horsehair hats and carried spring flowers.

Louis H. Cochrane, Jr., of Evanston, Ill., was his brother's best man, and the ushers included Robert Dixon and Jack Daub, of Pittsburgh, and Jack Merker, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Martin wore a gown of blue lace with a matching hat of straw and a shoulder corsage of roses, and the bridegroom's mother wore powder blue crepe Elizabeth with a corsage of roses. Mr. and Mrs. Herman S. Merker, of Rochester, aunt and uncle of the bride, attended the ceremony, and Mrs. Merker wore hydrangea blue lace with a matching hat, and a spray of roses. Miss Anna B. Dietrich, aunt of the bridegroom, wore wood brown chiffon with a matching hat and a corsage of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane left for a cruise of the West Indies and will return the latter part of May to make their home in Gerber avenue, North Side.

The wedding of Miss Ann E. Farber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Farber, Center avenue, to Louis Garson, of Ellwood City, son Carl Garson, of Pittsburgh, took place in the El Tower Apartment Hotel on Thursday, April 16, at 8 o'clock. The ceremony took place before an altar banked with ferns and roses.

Wedding Thursday

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pale peach satin, with a matching hat having a smart veil. She carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Irvin Juman, as her sister's matron of honor, wore a gown of orchid net, and Miss Sylvia, another sister, as maid of honor, wore yellow net. Both carried spring flowers.

Harry Garson, of Rochester, was his brother's best man, and Lester Kaplan, of Conway, was an usher.

There was a reception for 200 guests after the wedoding.

Mr. and Mrs. Garson left for Atlantic City and New York and later will sail for Bermuda. They will live in Ellwood City.

An Apartment Ad. Warranting This Special Display

Unexpectedly, Schenley Apartments is able to offer, for lease as of May 1st, an elegantly furnished eight-room apartment—one of the most desirable in Pittsburgh's foremost residential group.

Description does not convey an adequate picture of this beautiful suite, but for those contemplating a change in apartments, or from house to apartments, the following specifications may be applied to the family's requirements.

This suite has windows on both Fifth avenue and the interior court. A large reception hall leads into the spacious living room, the latter being 25 feet in length and 18 feet in width, with windows on three sides.

Extending from the living room is the dining room, which connects, also, with the butler's pantry, kitchen and servants' quarters. The last consists of two rooms, with connecting bath.

The two master bedrooms are large and airy, each connecting with its individual bathroom.

The apartment is comfortably and tastefully furnished, with expert regard for the requirements of occupants and rooms. In short, here is a spacious home in an exclusive community, with as much and more actual living space as is usual with the large, individual residence.

With the matchless service the management furnishes, this apartment provides at once a fashionable home and a mode of living, simplifying expenses and producing important economies. Phone the rental office, MAyflower 5800, for inspection appointment.

There are other rental availabilities—suites of 3 rooms and larger—now on inspection.

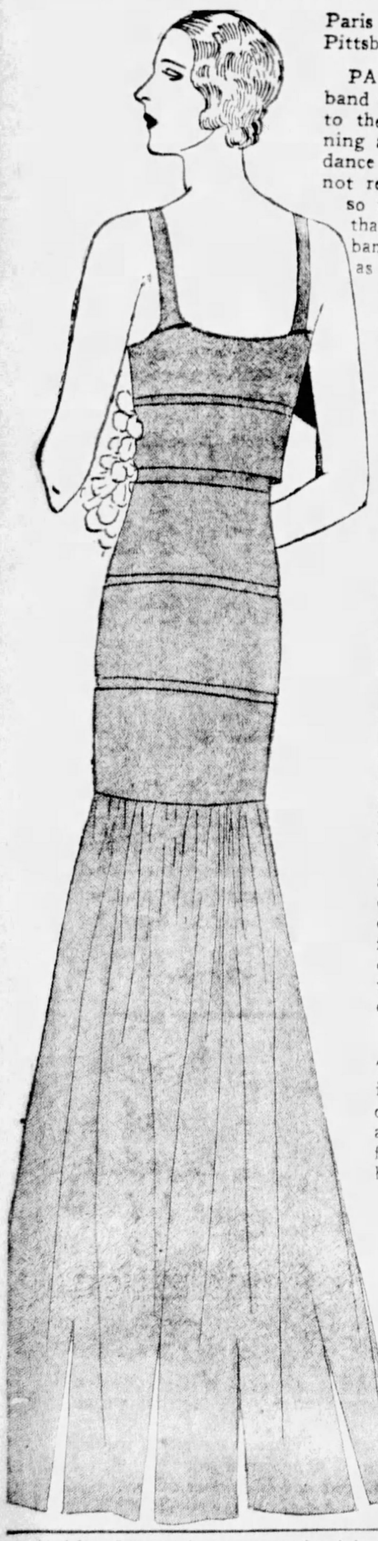
THE NEWEST VOGUE IN EVENING FROCKS

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 23. — The band seems to be necessary to the success of any evening affair whether it be a dance or a dress. We do not remember having seen so many evening frocks that utterly rely on the band for their decoration as well as for obtaining the desired silhouette. The banded line is certainly much softer than the princess line that was part of the sartorial formula of last spring, and which is not seen so much this year, although the silhouette is little changed in its main essentials.

* * *

THE BODICE, save for the bands, tucks or folds, is still fairly moulded to the figure, while the skirt is demurely wide, the width achieved by a flare or a low-placed flounce. Ankles are sniffing the night air, for many frocks have a deep transparent hem, while others have skirts slashed at various intervals around the hem. One can take one's choice of the more elaborate frock or the simpler one, the main thing is that it be beautifully cut and detailed.

* * *

THE ATTRACTIVE evening frock is by Lanvin and is of black georgette, an always good choice for a smart frock. The bodice and upper part of the skirt are composed of flat, appliqued folds of the fabric. The lower part of the skirt consists of a deep flounce, shirred at the top and slashed at intervals all around the lower edge. A large bouquet of white flowers is worn at the left side of the self belt.

Mayor, 4 Aldermen Get $1.50 a Year

HOOPESTON, Ill., April 23.—(AP.)—So far as his salary as mayor is concerned, Emory Richcreek, elected Tuesday, won't have to worry about the government income tax. Neither will the four aldermen elected at the same time.

The mayor is to receive 50 cents a year and the aldermen 25 cents each. That will make it $1.50 a year for the five of them to spend as they see fit.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, April 23.

ONCE UPON a time, reports Mr. William Faro, there lived a Very Wise Wife. She lived in the city of New York, where it is extremely necessary for a woman to be a Wise Wife. But this lady was just a little too wise. And that, as the waitress murmured when she plucked the nail from the rice pudding, makes all the difference in the world.

Now it so happens that the Very Wise Wife had a husband of whom she was very jealous. He was a good looking gentleman, which had something to do with the jealousy. He also had a great deal of money, which had even more to do with it.

When the Husband was in the late forties he suddenly kicked over the traces. He sent his Very Wise Wife to Europe for a vacation while he stayed at home and had a better vacation. When she returned to town it didn't take long for her to discover that much damage had been done in her absence.

Her Husband had been making merry in the night clubs. As much, that is, as one can be merry in the night clubs. The Wise Wife made a thorough investigation. This investigation was much different from any of our state or national investigations. This one actually got somewhere.

The Wife learned that Friend Husband had been travelling about with four women. Two of them—horrors of horrors—were women of the stage, and I don't mean the Fifth Avenue stage. The other two had been employed by the Husband in his place of business as secretaries.

With all this knowledge in her possession, the Wife sat down to think things over. Outwardly, she was the same to her Husband as she had always been. But inwardly, as Shakespeare or Winchell once said, she was boiling with rage.

It took her three or four days to hit upon a plan. But once she struck it she certainly caught a lulu. She stepped out and looked around for the homeliest secretary in all New York. That's a big job for any woman — even a Very Wise Wife. The candidates must have numbered in the tens of thousands. But the Wife finally found the ideal damsel.

This Very Homely Secretary would have made the late Lon Chaney turn over in his grave. She had a face that even a mother couldn't respect. And the Wise Wife regarded her with a grim smile.

"I am going to have my husband engage you as his secretary," she said. "Your job will be a most unusual one because you are going to draw two salaries. I will pay you one and my husband the other.

"Accordingly, you will have two employers. As far as my Husband is concerned, you will do the same work as any other secretary. And I know you will do it well.

"As far as I am concerned, you are in that office to watch my Husband. While I was away in Europe recently, he stepped out of character and began to chase around like an old fool. I don't think he will dare to do it while I am around—but I am taking no chances.

"You will watch him carefully. You will make notes of his appointments and see that he makes no dates with any hussies. If anything happens, you will report to me immediately. Do I make myself clear?"

The Homely Secretary nodded.

"Quite clear," she replied. "I understand perfectly. As a matter of fact, although I don't quite understand why, I've had several of these positions."

After this new secretary had been sold to the Husband by the Very Wise Wife, everything worked like a charm. He kicked a little at first, but when his Wise Wife intimated she had heard a few things, he quickly decided to say nothing more. Whereupon the Very Homely Secretary began work in the Husband's office.

For five long years, the arrangement was one grand and glorious success. When the Husband phoned and said he was detained at the office, the Homely Secretary called immediately after and told the Wise Wife it was all quite true. The same idea followed in all directions and the Wise Wife was quite contented.

Her friends would wonder at her great power over her husband.

"You are magnificent," they told her. "How do you manage to know about everything he does? How have you ever been able to hold him down in this fashion for the last five years?"

And the Wife would smile very cryptically.

"It is nothing very difficult," she would reply. "The secret is no secret at all. All one has to do is to become what I am. Just a Very Wise Wife." . . .

The Husband died a few months ago. When his will was filed, it was discovered that he had left his entire fortune to the Very Homely Woman. He had been madly in love with her—and she with him—ever since the wife had sent her to work for him. And they had double-crossed the Wise lady all along the line!

Just a Very Wise Wife . . .

FOR A NUMBER of years the team of Clark and McCullogh has been recognized as one of the greatest laugh combinations in show business. Bobby Clark is the head man of the team and has been offered great sums of money to work alone. He has always refused.

An American musical comedy producer recently wanted the team for a new show. He cabled to London, where Clark and McCullogh were playing, and offered them the extremely low salary—for them—of $1,500 a week to star in his new show.

A few hours later came Clark's response.

Relatives to Claim Body of Actress

NEW YORK, April 23.—(INS.)—Relatives of Lillian Page Greer, stage beauty who leaped or fell to her death from the twenty-second story of a hotel, will arrive here today from Stone, W. Va., to claim her body. The 27-year-old show girl had appeared with a road company of a hit show and formerly lived in Chicago.

Police said she was despondent because she had not received money which was to have been sent her from Chicago.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

NEW RAIL TIME ANNOUNCED

Announcement of the change in schedules of many trains were made by the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads today, changes to be effective with the adoption of daylight saving time at 2 a. m. Sunday.

Running time of many of the fast trains of both railroads will be advanced one hour, as will be practically all commuter trains.

In some instances running time of the fast trains will be shortened between eastern and western points.

The Baltimore and Ohio will eliminate several commuter and local trains, permission having been granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

BROADWAY COMEDIAN, SINGER ON RADIO TONIGHT

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, April 23.—In spite of radio's vast aid in popularizing the songs of the day music publishers are, according to our spies, deep in the doldrums. They see in the microphone a persistent and growing menace.

So ceaseless is radio's demand for music that the wells of popular song compositions are rapidly being dried up. There is not enough material to feed the microphonic mills—600 of them—grinding day and night throughout the republic.

* * *

Repetition has become the order of the radio day so far as the broadcasting of popular music is concerned. Any tinkly tune that comes from the songshops is pounced upon by an army of singers and instrumentalists in all parts of the land and dinned repeatedly into the ears—dinned so repeatedly that it exhausts its appeal in less than a month.

* * *

What would seem a tidal wave of prosperity for the publisher of the hit is in effect but a puny eddy of popular approval. For in spite of the tremendous audience that hears the tune, and becomes familiar with every note and word of its refrain, there is little demand for printed copies of the number. Sheet music is not at present among the healthy businesses of the nation. It owes its anemia solely to radio.

* * *

The broadcasters appreciate the situation. Right now they are engaged in a plan—a quixotic plan, it seems to us—to revive the lost art of piano-playing in the American home. And by reviving it to stimulate anew the sales of sheet music. They are calling upon gifted amateurs who are good news copy to tickle studio keyboards with chords or with their own versions of popular tunes. They profess to have interested 60,000—or is it 600,000?—listeners, most of them children, in a desire to be as skillful at the piano as the gifted amateurs whose names are such good news copy.

* * *

But the music publishers are pessimistic, according to our particular system of espionage. They are firm in the opinion that radio has put a definite stop to piano-playing in the home as well as the study of the piano, once so prevalent in middle-class America.

* * *

So much music tumbles out of the loudspeaker in the course of a day, music of all kinds, interpreted for the most part in a high-class style, that the piano has come to be regarded more as an ornament than a necessary instrument of entertainment. The feeling that there is no longer a need for individual piano-playing has become general, when, at the turn of a dial, one can hear excellent orchestras and pianists.

The desire to keep up musically with the Jonses is no longer apparent because the Jonses themselves have not set any musical example.

* * *

The music publishers, however, have a solution—a reasonable one; it seems to us—if the part of musical expression in the home is to be revived.

It consists of nothing more nor less than a plan for the broadcasetrs to observe one day a week of musical silence. On this day not one bugle is to sound, not one note of music is to echo through the air. Such a day would be given over entirely to talk.

Deprived of any opportunity during 24 hours to hear any kind of music listeners—the great American home public—if they wanted musical entertainment would be forced to provide it themselves.

So desperate might be the need of people for "The Peanut Vendor" that they would have to buy a copy of the number. The demand for music of some kind, of any kind, would be like the demand of a dope fiend for his heroin.

How She Gained 10 Pounds in 22 Days

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

As chock-full of vitamins as the nasty, fish-tasting cod liver oil itself, but these sugar-coated, tasteless tablets are as easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in twenty-two days. 60 tablets, 60 cents. Ask any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets and if you don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid them.

A Poor Tube Will Spoil a Good Radio

Your radio may sound all right. But if it's over a year old you need new tubes to make it as good as ever. This is National "RETUBE WEEK." Get a new set of tubes and enjoy the summer broadcasts. See your radio dealer, today!

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

How many remember "The Jazz Singer" when it played downtown? George Jessel's dramatic tears live with us yet. But sentimentality is not his forte. No sir. Hear him wise-crack with Rudy Vallee on WCAE at 8 o'clock tonight. Jessel with Fannie Brice and James Barton are making the customers fall into the aisle in the Broadway show, "Sweet and Low," which boasts such tunes as "Howdja Like to Take a Walk" and "Overnight."

NBC press agents are convinced that John Fogarty is another John McCormack . . . the proof in the pudding is his KDKA performance at 9:30 when he does "Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Fogarty enlisted with the Expeditionary Forces when only 16 and saw two years' service "over there."

* * *

DO YOU KNOW—

THAT Ben Bernie's mother is a shut-in in New York and Ben always signs off his Columbia network broadcast by greeting her in Jewish? And hearing him talk, she goes to sleep happy.

THAT Billy Hines, the boy actor in WCAE's "Hamberger Family" and co-actor with Dave Olsen in other radio sketches, has a voice identical to that of "Rollo" in "Daddy and Rollo"? And as much ability, also.

THAT Dave Olsen is perhaps the most versatile of all Pittsburgh radio actors? He can impersonate 16 characters skillfully, plays trumpet, saxophone and piano. We want him to try New York.

THAT Claude Morris has a weakness for sardine sandwiches?

THAT Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the famous British statesman, is to speak over Columbia-WJAS on Sunday, May 3?

THAT Zoel Parenteau directs the KDKA orchestras from a podium not unlike that of a pastor's pulpit? Zoel is a great favorite among artists and announcers. He has a princely mien that inspires and commands respect. Yet, as a man among men he's unexcelled—like his music. We think his Rondolier concert, KDKA at 6, one of the most impressive things on the air.

THAT Kay Kronick, blonde crooner of WCAE, is better known as "Alice" among her senior classmates at Peabody High?

THAT Columbia announcers take all coins away from Morton Downey when he enters the studio? Morton has a habit of jingling spare change in his pocket. And over the radio this sounds like steel girders being tossed about.

THAT Ezra McIntosh, 23-year-old announcer of NBC, cannot marry until he sells a ranch house in Southern Colorado? Stipulated in the will of an uncle. A "for sale" sign is up. Meantime Miss Ruth Wetherell of Omaha, Neb., wears an engagement ring.

THAT a New York inventor has devised a radio photocell which, mounted on a church collection plate, can automatically detect a pants-button or penny and instantly toss it back to its donor?

* * *

STUDIO LIGHTS

Senator James J. Davis is to speak on KDKA this Sunday night at 10:30 during the Slumber Music concert . . .

Frank Black, of the Revelers, has granted Frank Weis and the Red Arrow Quartet special permission to use his arrangement of Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" on KDKA Saturday night at 11:15 . . .

You may wonder about Rin Tin Tin's bark on KDKA tonight at 8:15 . . . while Rin is in Pittsburgh doing a theater engagement, his bark will come from Chicago via an electrical transcription . . .

Dave Boyd, Pittsburgh musician, is to be heard in a new WJZ series, "Ragamuffins," starting Friday, May 1 . . .

Pryor's Band comes to WJAS fans at 8 o'clock instead of 11:15 starting next Monday night..... and the "University of Dayton March," composed by a Pittsburgher, Louis J. Panella, is on the first early program.

Here's a way to get children to eat nourishing, energy making food. Serve Mueller's Elbow Macaroni. It is made from farina —the heart of the wheat. It's marvelously delicious, too—light, fluffy and tasty. It cooks in 9 minutes' boiling—though 1 or 2 minutes more may be allowed for extra tenderness.

Ask your grocer. He has Mueller's or can get it for you.

Another King Goes Forth

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The new republic of Spain announces it will not change its popular dance music now being broadcast for the American public.

Fernando de Los Bazoo will be minister of the little Spanish towns on a night like this. That's good, because we cannot get along without our little spanicola village.

We knew that the Spanish monarchy didn't have long to go because Spanish music has been Democratic for a long time.

But in spite of the Democratic music the Republicans won. The peanut vendor must have bolted the party.

The world has been getting effeminate since the war. We have nine new sister republics.

We like the way Alfonso took the rap. No squawking or demanding a recount. He just reached for his hat without the red feather, grabbed his overnight bag and strolled forth like a king.

We wish him the best of good fortune. Or as they say in our Spanish set—health and pesetas. We could merely wish him the pesetas, for if you have the money you can go where the health is.

It's rather embarrassing when you lose a king job because the field is getting restricted. But we don't imagine that Alfonso will have any more trouble adjusting himself in another velvet office any more than the motorman who bobbed up as a conductor.

Health and pesetas, oldtimer; you were born a king and lived a king. You're on your own now.

CENTER OPENS CONTEST

A varied program has been announced by the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, which will begin tomorrow afternoon with an Arbor Day celebration. A special program has been planned for the celebration, which will include a play.

The better neighborhood contest will also open tomorrow. Awards have been offered by the Settlement for pupils of the Hill district who plant and take care of the best gardens throughout the summer months.

Boys' Week will open Saturday with a special sports program planned by the physical education department of the Settlement.

Library School in Tech Exhibition

Carnegie Library School of Carnegie Institute of Technology will, for the first time, take part in the annual exhibition which Carnegie Institute of Technology will hold tomorrow night. The Library School, located in the Carnegie Library Building, will be open from 7 to 10 p. m. A demonstration of the training facilities and work done in the school will be presented.

Clan-na-Gael to Hold Celebration

Pittsburgh's celebration of the anniversary of Easter week, 1916, will be held tonight at the Moose Temple, Penn avenue, under the auspices of Clan-na-Gael, of Pennsylvania. Frank E. Shaughnessy will be the principal speaker, and film views of the Irish counties will be shown. A musical program has also been planned. John J. Gibbons will be general chairman of the affair.

LAWS FOR RAILWAYS UPKEEP URGED

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

Jack Rhodes,
State Legislature,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Jack: You could have knocked me over with a hammer, Jack, when I read that vote on the Sunday baseball bill. I thought it was a typographical error when I saw your name listed voting against it, so I turned to my best critic and severest friend and piped that the papers were wrong.

William Pfarr

But they weren't, and I can't figure it. What's the idea? You don't mean to tell me that you are one of those conscientious defenders of the blue laws? Or that your friends out in McKeesport who put you in the Legislature are blue-lawers.

I'll bet a penny against two homely pennies that you're weeping today, when you see that if you had voted for that bill, the vote would have been a deadlock. . . . That's two homely pennies you owe me.

Well, there's another bill much the same, coming up, Jack, and if you vote against that 'un, too, I'm going to start telling the customers about that terrible outcurve you used to throw 20 years ago. SIDEWALKS.

Ray Sisley, the artist who illustrates stories for the magazines, came to town to tell the story of the steelworker on New York's newest and tallest building, the Empire State.

From the top of the steelwork the worker was watching an airplane flying overhead. Suddenly the aviator jumped out, loosened his parachute and sailed towards the earth.

The aviator dropped gently by the workman, who became so excited that he toppled off the steelwork and was falling to the ground and destruction. And as he passed the parachuted pilot, he piped, "Get out of my way, you big sissy!"

It appears that in their Paso Robles hotel one night Wertenbach tired of hearing the piano practicing of a tenant who had the adjoining room.

Finally he telephoned the management and complained that if all that noise weren't stopped pretty soon, why—

The noise was being made by a fellow guest, one Paderewski.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

NEW YORK, April 23.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The King and Queen of Siam are here. Now we will get a real test of our wisecrackers' ability. See who can say something without referring to the Siamese twins. I am licked already and withdraw. Pat Hurley, secretary of war, left Washington for Oklahoma in a Navy plane. Was the one the Army owns broke down? Mayor Walker's opponents have wisely decided to withdraw any reference to his private life. They had to withdraw it on account of a Biblical quotation. "Let him without sin cast the first stone". So they would have to import somebody into New York to make the accusation.

Yours, WILL.

Miss Erk, daughter of Congressman Edmund F. Erk, and two other Washington Girl Scouts, three of the six who today prepared and served Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover and four guests a meal that cost only 23.6 cents for each diner! The affair opens the celebration of Better Homes Week in America. Miss Schafer is the Wisconsin congressman's young daughter.

HOOVERS ENJOY 23-CENT MEAL

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(AP.)—A 25-cent-piece with the edge shaved off covered the cost of a luncheon cooked today for President Hoover. The meal for a party of eight, prepared in honor of President and Mrs. Hoover, cost $1.89, or 23.6 cents for the presidential plate.

The service followed approved White House etiquette. Louise Erk, tall Girl Scout daughter of Representative Erk, of Pittsburgh, had been instructed to serve the President first, with Shirley Schafer, small Girl Scout daughter of Representative Schafer, of Wisconsin, waiting to place the food before Mrs. Hoover just a second later.

The primary purpose of the low cost meal was the launching of better homes week. The menu was:

Split pea soup, 18 cents; Melba toast, 5 cents; meat and rice in loaf, 40 cents; brown sauce, 3 cents; baked potatoes, 9 cents; cabbage, lettuce and carrot salad, 29 cents; butter, table and cooking, 18 cents; lemon bread pudding, 30 cents; tea, 8 cents; lemon, sugar, milk for tea, 8 cents; whole wheat muffins, 21 cents.

Club Supports Bill To Aid Motorists

Passage of a bill to permit the State Highway Department to trim hedges which interfere with the vision of drivers was urged here by the Pittsburgh Motor Club. The bill was introduced in the Legislature by Representative G. D. Sheeley, of New Oxford, Pa. The proposed law provides that the state may charge property owners for the cost of trimming hedges. It also provides that hedges may not extend more than 18 inches beyond the border of state highway land.

Brilliant Offensive Along Ourcq Started Hasty Enemy Retreat

In yesterday's instalment Marshal Foch told how he directed the defense against the new German drive that started on July 14, 1918, at the time when his plans for the great Allied counter-offensive of July 18 were nearing completion. In today's instalment he tells how the counter-offensive got under way.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

CHAPTER XXVI.

On July 19, 1918, our advance was continued on the whole of the front without undue difficulty, while, at the same time, our air squadrons bombed the passages over the Marne and the enemy concentrations reported at Oulchy-le-Chateau and Fere-en-Tardenois. These concentrations seemed to indicate that the German Supreme Command had decided to defend the valley of the Ourcq, for an Allied advance there would gravely compromise both the possession of the Soissons plateau and the bridgehead south of the Marne.

It was, therefore, to be anticipated that a big battle would take place in the Tardenois country. Accordingly, after seeing Gen. Petain on the morning of the 19th, I addressed him the following instruction:

"The battle now in progress should aim at the destruction of the enemy's forces south of the Aisne and the Vesle.

"It must be pursued with the utmost energy and without any loss of time, so as to exploit the surprise we have effected.

"It will be carried on by:

"The 10th Army covering itself by the Aisne and subsequently by the Vesle, and seeking to conquer the high ground north of Fere-en-Tardenois, its right at Fere-en-Tardenois.

"The 9th and 5th Armies, resuming a vigorous offensive as early as possible; the 9th Army in order to drive the enemy to the north of the Marne; the 5th Army in order, first, to recapture the front Chatillon-Bilgny; and subsequently, the road from Ville-en-Tardenois to Verneuil."

Germans Withdraw

On July 20 the enemy's resistance hardened. That day, the 10th Army remained pinned on the high ground west and southwest of Soissons. Its right alone gained some ground in the direction of Oulchy-le-Chateau.

WESTINGHOUSE TO EQUIP BUSES

Twenty-one trolley buses, with electrical equipment to be built by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at East Pittsburgh, have been ordered by the Chicago Surface Lines.

The new buses will be built by the Twin Coach Company, of Kent, O., and the J. G. Brill Company, of St. Louis. The units will weigh about 17,500 pounds each, and will have a seating capacity of 40. The order will increase the total number of these buses operating on the Northwest Side of Chicago to more than 100.

Girl's Caller Mysteriously Hurt While on Errand

Staggering into the home of a young woman acquaintance he had been visiting, William E. Frane, 29, of 1122 Winston street, collapsed and was removed to the Presbyterian Hospital this morning, suffering a fractured skull and severe bruises.

He had been calling on Miss Cardie Kruse at 917 Union avenue and had left the home for 15 minutes to purchase refreshments at a nearby store.

Frane announced his intention of going to the store, returning a short time later injured. He was unable to tell police or hospital attaches how he had been hurt.

Miss Kruse said he might have been in an accident, inasmuch as he had his automobile parked outside and might have used it in traveling to the store. No automobile accidents had been reported from the vicinity.

DEATH SUSPECT CAPTURED

Arrested in the Hill District early today, John H. Cobb, 23, Negro, of 313 Overhill street, is being held by city detectives in connection with a murder which occurred nearly a year ago.

Capt. John Schnurr arrested Cobb, who, the captain said, had been out of the city since the death of Charles Burdette, 38, of 712 Roberts street. Burdette died from a fractured skull, suffered when hit by a brick. Capt. Schnurr said that Cobb returned to Pittsburgh last week.

TWO HOLDUP SUSPECTS CAUGHT

Ex-Fire Captain Routs Burglars; Gun Battle Follows Store Robbery

Detecting two burglars leaving the home of a neighbor early today, Charles Atkins, 74, a retired city fire captain of 74 Edenvale street, chased the men more than a block and fired a shot at them as they drove away in an automobile. The men had robbed the home of Miss M. Miller at 73 Edenvale street, obtaining $25 in cash.

Atkins noticed a light moving in the Miller home and he obtained a revolver and went to the first floor of his home. When he saw the two men emerge, he called to them and they fled. Following them up the street he fired at them as they stepped into their machine and drove off.

Two suspects were being held by South Side police today in connection with the holdup of a chain grocery store in South Eighteenth street, late yesterday. The pair were arrested a half hour after the robbery, by police who fired several shots at them to force them to halt. The suspects identified themselves as Sylvester Baltos, 22, of 1612 St. Patrick street, and Michael Berry, 22, of 1900 Huron street.

Merle Meeder, of 978 Gladys avenue, manager, and Miss Lucille Lowe, of 222 East Agnew avenue, Carrick, a clerk, were in the store when two bandits entered. The two employes were locked in a rear room and $30 was taken from the cash register.

A short time later, police, searching the neighborhood, sought to question three young men. The trio fled and police followed, firing at the men. Berry and Baltos stopped, but the third man escaped.

Birthday Ceremony On Shakespeare Day

The anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare, observed here today, was to be marked by the placing of a wreath of flowers on his statue in front of Carnegie Hall by the Shakespeare Birthday Club, of Pittsburgh. Students in the drama school of Carnegie Institute of Technology will present an act from "Macbeth" in the hall before the ceremonies.

Woman Hurt, Suit For $25,000 Filed

The Yellow Cab Company was named defendant in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gardner, seeking to recover $25,000 damages for injuries to Mrs. Gardner. She was standing in Liberty avenue, near Garrison way, January 29 when a cab backed into her and caused injuries of the back and head, the suit alleged.

SHORT LINE ASSAILED BY P. S. C.

Condition of Route Scored In Report Made Before Trackage Is Abandoned

Striking need of legislation providing for periodic inspection of railroads and railways by the state, or by state-approved reports from company workmen, was brought to light today in the Public Service Commission's report of conditions existing on the Butler Short Line, interurban service, before its abandonment last night.

The report, signed by C. E. Parry, a commission engineer, showed the short line needed these replacements:

Fifty per cent of its road ballast, 60 per cent new ties, 80 per cent new tie plates, and 80 per cent new rails.

TRACK FORCE SMALL

It also reported that a force of 10 men, a foreman, three trackwalkers and six section hands, was caring for almost four times as much trackage as they could be expected to handle efficiently.

Forty-nine miles of track on the Butler Short Line and Harmony routes, operated by the same company under a receivership, were cared for by these 10 men, a force, which, according to Parry, was adequate to maintain not more than 16 miles.

The Public Service Commission does not investigate the safety or conditions of public carrier trackage unless a complaint is filed, Hiram D. Hirsh, its inspector here, said yesterday.

CAN ONLY RECOMMEND

Even then, Hirsh said, it can only make recommendations which the operator may or may not fulfill. A limited personnel, he added, makes periodic inspection or investigation impossible.

In some cases the governing organization of a community will compel repairs to trackage. Such was the case in New Castle, where the City Council demanded and obtained frequent repairs to the Harmony line's tracks.

Investigation disclosed yesterday that the Harmony line, operating between Pittsburgh and Butler, also is in an advanced stage of deterioration. The conditions, officials of the operating company said, were not as bad as those found on the Short Line.

BRIDGES PERILOUS

Parry's report, dated March 25, said that two of the 15 bridges, each 60 feet, on the Short Line were in such bad condition that they must be abandoned, an action which was forestalled by the road's discontinuance. The report said:

"The low accident rate on the road was due to low speed and particularly to slow movement over the trestles."

The report declared the track needed rebuilding, and that work should start immediately.

It condemned as unfit the two spans, each 600 feet long, one over the Thorn Creek and over the Baltimore and Ohio and the Bessemer and Lake Erie tracks, the other at Butler Junction.

SPANS RUSTED

It pointed out that the spans were rusted and that the 40 to 44-ton electric cars should not be permitted to cross them. The 13 other bridges and spans were also badly in need of repairs, it added.

It also declared the amount the company said should be expended for repairs was less than half what would be necessary, and declared that the poor condition of the road was due to a lack of proper and sufficient maintenance over a period of years.

WARD LEADER OWES $1,841, LANG SAYS

Sale of Boats to City Seen As Key to Collection; Monthly Payment Asked

Laxity of Mike DeRosa, Twelfth Ward political leader, in paying rent two years in arrears for refreshment and boating concessions at the city parks, will not be permitted from him or anyone else after May 1, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang said today.

DeRosa owes the city $1,841 in back rent and Lang turned the bill over to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt several weeks ago for collection.

WANTS PAY MONTHLY

New leases for concessions are signed May 1 of each year, Lang said, adding:

"In the future those who get any concessions will pay monthly or out they go, unless the city is given some guarantee that the rent will be taken care of quickly."

DeRosa paid the city $850, according to Waldschmidt, but still owes $1,841 for his boating concession on Lake Carnegie and four refreshment stand concessions in Highland and Schenley parks.

Lang said he had not decided whether he would permit DeRosa to renew his stand concessions. The boat concession is passe, Lang declared, because the city is constructing a new swimming pool at Carnegie Lake.

SEEKS TO SELL BOATS

DeRosa is desirous of selling the city his boats, according to the city solicitor, who said:

"DeRosa wants the city to buy the boats. Why, I don't know. We would have no use for them. As I understand it, DeRosa is withholding payment until such a deal is completed."

Waldschmidt will confer with DeRosa within a few days, he said, in an effort to bring about collection of the long-standing bill.

No fee has been paid for the boating concession since July 1, 1929, and refreshment stand rent of $941.67 was unpaid from May 1, 1930, to January 1 of this year, it was said.

PITT PROFITEER CASE DROPPED

Charges that the University of Pittsburgh cafeteria was profiteering were declared to be without foundation, in the report of an investigating committee made last night at a meeting of the university student council. Charles Edwards, president of the council, declared the committee appointed to investigate was satisfied that the charges were groundless.

The meeting was held in the Heinz House on the campus. Edwards said the council, after receiving the report, had decided to drop the issue. Jesse Zizmor, a student, had charged certain foods were sold in the cafeteria at 200 to 1,400 per cent profit.

COUNCIL BANS GIFTS OF CITY FUNDS FOR CONVENTIONS

LEGAL OPINION ENDS OFFICIAL DONATIONS

Money to Be Given Only in Extraordinary Cases and Then by Two-thirds Vote

Declaring that "the goose that laid the golden egg in defraying expenses of various conventions and celebrations in the past has gone on strike," President John S. Herron of City Council today said no more funds would be appropriated by that body unless extraordinary circumstances warranted.

An opinion prepared by the City Law Department that the city has no right to give money to defray convention costs is responsible, he said.

The first organization to feel the ax was the Pittsburgh Branch, National Association for Advancement of Colored People, whose representatives requested $1,500 towards the national convention here June 30 to July 5.

Herron and his colleagues also refused requests for $100 for the 11th Cavalry, Spanish War Veterans' reunion and $375 for the national convention of the Polish War Veterans' Association, here May 28 to May 31. Herron declared:

"The goose that laid the golden egg has gone on strike. We have been informed by the law department we have no legal right to spend the taxpayers' money in such a manner. However, in extraordinary cases, we can vote assistance by a two-thirds vote of the Council members."

Herron said by "extraordinary cases" he meant large conventions that had great civic interest.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent in this manner by various councils in past years, city records disclose. Perhaps the most glaring example was the Light's Golden Jubilee celebration in 1929, when more than $60,000 was voted to defray expenses. Of this $10,000 was used for a junket down the Ohio River on the steamer Greater Pittsburgh to attend canalization exercises at Cairo, Ill.

Cigars, ginger ale, tips and other refreshments were distributed lavishly at the taxpayers' expense during the cruise. A bill for more than $3,000 is still unpaid.

Herron said every organization that held a convention in Pittsburgh—with few exceptions—asked aid from Council. Nearly all got it, he declared, but when the demand became great, the law department was questioned as to the legality of the procedure.

Charges Husband Kidnaped Baby in Wheeling Sunday; Divorce Suit Filed Monday

Mrs. Rosalie T. Beattie, of a prominent Wheeling, W. Va., family, alleging that her son, Paul Edward, aged 15 months, was abducted from Wheeling and brought to Pittsburgh Sunday by his father, Taylor E. Beattie, of 1451 Barnsdale street, procured a write of habeas corpus in Common Pleas Court in an effort to regain custody of the child. Judge Sylvester J. Snee fixed a hearing for next Tuesday.

Beattie filed a suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court Manday, giving his wife's name as Eleanor Rosalie Beattie, and charged cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities. Mrs. Beattie alleged he has not lived with her for more than a year, as he stated, to comply with the law.

Color or Sex Don't Count In Our Theaters This Week

By GEORGE SEIBEL

That very charming lady off the stage, Ethel Waters, was catching her breath during the intermission of "Symphony in Black" at the Alvin, when I walked into her dressing room to compliment her upon the maturing of her art since she was here last in "Africana."

George Seibel

"Really," I said to her, "when you black folks put on such a show, I feel as if we white trash ought to go up into the gallery to see it. Turn about is fair play."

She laughed at that. She can laugh as infectiously as she can weep. And she has a face that lends itself easily to either. There isn't a wrinkle or a line in its topography, and she looks much younger off the stage than on it.

"I feel so kindly toward the whole world," she said, "that I don't think any seat is good enough for anybody. I'm just too happy because the people like what I'm doing. And I'm happy because it's bringing some honor to my race. I'm proud to be black, not ashamed of it, and I never resent when anybody doesn't think I'm as good as they are. I just try to be a little better so that maybe they may change their mind. I think people's hearts and brains work just the same, no matter what the color of their skin is."

RECEIVED IN EUROPE

Asking her what experiences she had met in Europe—for she has recently returned from London and Paris—I got a surprising reaction.

"Over there they did not seem to pay any attention to my color. And that made me a little uncomfortable, because I naturally like to be with my own people. It was a bit embarrassing to go to white hotels and sit at table with white waiters to serve me. But only because I like my own people and like to be with them."

"But doesn't it seem unfair that you should be patronized by some people who would carry you on their shoulders if you were born in Vienna or Petrograd?"

"There's nothing in being carried on people's shoulders," she replied. "I'm glad to walk on my own legs. All I want is a chance to do my best—and I'm particularly glad that I don't have to do or say anything off-color in this show—and if my best is good enough to give people out front any pleasure I am even gladder."

Many white actors of less genius than this delightful comedienne might take lessons from her in modesty and quiet sincerity. She is just naturally slipping into the place left vacant by Florence Mills, whom she knew very well, but who was an ingenue type very different from her in most respects.

IN CAP AND GOWN

From the shady precincts of the Alvin I wandered to the Nixon to see how well the stage can get along without women. Those boys from Pitt who dance and sing "What's Up" almost prove their case.

But they prove another thing through the program they distribute to the spectators. They prove that they are journalists as well as producers and actors. The program is a special number of the "Pitt Panther"—and typographically as well as editorially it would be a credit to any Pulitzer school of journalism.

There are even 12 pages of music, the hits of the show, which will be heard in many frats and sororities all summer and next fall. As for the art, it is clever and finished.

But the monumental thing about it is the photographic evidence that these boys needn't fear comparisons with any Ziegfeld chorus. Here are squabs and broilers that any beautician might point to with pride as his handiwork. Maybe Marlene Dietrich is a man. Who knows?

NOTES ABOUT COMING ATTRACTIONS FOR STAGE, SCREEN

Coming to Pittsburgh direct from New York, "On the Spot," Edgar Wallace's melodrama of gangland, will have its Pittsburgh premiere in the Alvin Monday night. Heading the cast are Crane Wilbur, Anna May Wong and Glenda Farrell.

Edwin A. Relkin will present Maurice Schwartz and his Yiddish Art Theater Company in Sholom Ash's Jewish-American comedy, "Uncle Moses," in the Nixon for one performance only, next Wednesday night.

"What's Up," the twenty-fourth annual production of the University of Pittsburgh Cap and Gown Club, is current in the Nixon. The book for this year's production is by G. Norman Reis and the score by Dr. Benjamin Levant and Gus A. Schnabel, with lyrics by Reis and Louis M. Fushan, all alumni of the university.

STOCK "INTERLUDE"

The story of "Strange Interlude," to be presented by George Sharp in the Pitt next week, is told not only in the direct speech of ordinary stage characters, but through the method styled as the "aside." Every thought of every character throughout the entire nine acts is expressed.

A new screen personality makes his bow to fandom in "The Front Page," opening tomorrow in the Penn. He is Pat O'Brien, who plays the role of Hildy Johnson, dynamic police reporter. Adolphe Menjou is prominent in the case.

"The Finger Points," with Dick Barthelmess playing the role of a big town reporter, opens in the Stanley today. On stage Peter Higgins, Pittsburgh's golden voiced tenor, will appear for a final week.

MORE GUN DRAMMER

Eugene Pallette and Louise Fazenda are teamed as the comedy sweet hearts in "Gun Smoke," the Richard Arlen starring picture, which opens tomorrow in the Fulton and Sheridan Square theaters. Mary Brian is the leading woman.

George Arliss returns to the talking screen in the Warner Sunday midnight in his latest release, "The Millionaire." It is the story of a wealthy manufacturer who is ordered to rest by his doctor.

Frank Fay plays the role of a philandering young gentleman of Paris in his "God's Gift to Women" coming to the Enright tomorrow and to the Davis Saturday. On stage Brian McDonald will present "Night Club Frolic." Rome and Gaut, the Starr Brothers and Dorothy Bushey.

Stock Star

Gladys George will play the role of Nina Leeds in the George Sharp production of the nine-act "Strange Interlude," opening Monday in the Pitt.

LE GREENWOOD HERE

Building a Hollywood patio, a swimming pool and a terraced garden within the walls of a studio sound stage was one of the elaborate engineering feats in connection with "Stepping Out," comedy romance, coming tomorrow to the Aldine. It is a story of Hollywood and Caliente. It was directed by Charles F. Riesner. The cast features Charlotte Greenwood, Reginald Denny, Leila Hyams, Lilian Bond and Cliff Edwards.

Will Rogers in Mark Train's "A Connecticut Yankee," is the feature film attraction to open in the Harris beginning Saturday. This picture recently played in the Stanley.

"Jazz Queens" will open in the Academy with a Sunday midnight performance. Bee Cunningham and Jessie Reece will be seen in leading roles.

Texas Puts 3-Cent Tax on Cigarets

AUSTIN, Tex., April 23.—(AP.)—Gov. Ross Sterling today signed a bill levying a tax of 3 cents a package on cigarets. Proponents of the tax estimated it would raise about $5,000,000 annually.

Doris Kenyon to Follow Arliss Film With One Starring Powell

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.

The death of Milton Sills broke up one of the happiest families in the film colony. Instead of giving way to her grief, however, Doris courageously set out to continue her concert and screen work.

She has just been assigned to play opposite William Powell in "Correspondent," which will be the former Paramount star's first starring vehicle for Warners. At Bill's request, the starting date of "Correspondent" is being postponed to allow Doris to finish her role in the Arliss picture, "Alexander Hamilton."

Doris Kenyon

The picture with Powell will be the actress' fourth appearance on the Warner lot since January 1. She started in "You and I" (now called "Fame") and followed up with "Upper Underworld" and the Arliss film.

Early in the summer Doris will go to Europe to fulfill concert dates.

NOT ONLY MAY BUT DO

Groucho Marx is a great fight fan. Recently he watched two unwilling battlers spar half-heartedly through round after round. When they finally engaged in a tight clinch, he could stand it no longer.

"Strangers may kiss!" he shouted.

LATEST GOSSIP

A LUCKY BREAK AFTER ALL

Good fortune often comes in strange guise. When Polly Moran fell down stairs and broke her nose in three places, there seemed no compensating features to the accident. Yet, as a result of it, she will have a perfectly straight nose for the first time. In repairing the damage from the accident, surgeons have ironed out a slight crook that had been there all Polly's life. Incidentally, the comedienne is up and about, and expects to start next week in "Politics," M. G. M. held up the picture until her recovery.

Polly Moran

Another interesting item out of Paramount tells of a forthcoming talkie version of "Dr. Jekyel and Mr. Hyde," Robert Louis Stevenson's classic, in which John Barrymore made his earliest screen hit. No one has been assigned to the story, but advance rumors declare it will be a special.

Skinny, "Lifeless" Women gain weight

Gain pounds of weight in few weeks with new IRONIZED YEAST—a special combination of dried brewer's yeast plus iron—or pay nothing

If we could only show you the wonders that new Ironized Yeast has done for thousands of "skinny," run-down men and women. Tired, nervous people now peppy and strong. Constipation and indigestion banished. Blemished complexions changed to clear, rosy beauty.

Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—special weight-building dried brewer's Yeast and blood-enriching, strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured and concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value. Double-tested for strength, purity and potency. Used by doctors and big hospitals.

To this concentrated dried brewer's Yeast is added three kinds of easily assimilated Iron to quickly make rich, red blood and tone up nerves and muscles. By this special process Ironized Yeast is made more effective than yeast or iron taken separately. Has no starches, flours or gas-forming fillers.

Get a bottle of these pleasant little tablets today. Just a single course treatment should prove that you can be attractive and healthy. Easy-to-take tablets—no nasty taste, no gas or bloating. Never spoil, safe for everybody.

Just ask your druggist today for a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast and take as directed. If not delighted with the quick results, your money promptly refunded by manufacturer.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Watching Ziegfeld inspect the girl bait for his next "Follies" is chockful of shudders . . . It must be awful to be beautiful . . . And walk around the stage while the footlights blind you . . . And wonder if Ziegfeld will like you well enough or give an assistant "the eye"—meaning "won't do" . . . With so many girls out of work, Ziegfeld is getting an ache or so having to turn so many of them down . . . Yesterday, frixample . . . He selected 60 of the most beautiful sirens, and all he will use will be 16! . . . One of them, who got "the eye," cornered Flo in his orchestra pew later. . . . "My husband is out of a job and my babies are starving," she said pathetically, "I really need a job, Mr. Ziegfeld!" . . . The faint-hearted Flo gave in . . . "The New Yorkers' show is closing soon," one of us reminded Ziegfeld, "why not grab some of the best-lookers out of it?" . . . "I only took two," he said, "a show girl and a dancer" . . . It appears he must have new faces . . . The feverish tempo of Broadway demands it of him . . . It made me think of the girl in tatters, who still seemed young . . . She came up to the box office where Lou Holtz was selling tickets before the curetain went up on his show the other night . . . "Lou," she said, "don't you remember me, Lou? Please let me have a dollar." . . . Lou handed her $10, and she walked away . . . "Who's that?" I queried . . . "When she was in one of Ziggie's 'Follies,' three years ago," said Lou, "you couldn't get through 41st street on account of the Johns who waited for her."

And now Joe Leblang has joined the other favorite sons of the Stem who distinguished themselves and the Street . . . Over 3,000 mourners crowded the synagogue . . . The last Broadway lad they buried from that place didn't attract one-tenth the crowd . . . It just goes to show you . . . Poor Joe . . . The day before he Went Away, he said to his right-hander: "Call for me tomorrow. I want to see that new electric sign on the building." . . . After all those years—striving for success on Broadway, he finally let them put his name up in lights—and then he never saw it . . . His good deeds will blaze on long after the Broadway bulbs blow their fuses . . . He gave so much to the poor—and to the countless charities . . . And the mob he befriended with ready cash! . . . One pal summed it up yesterday . . . "I could always owe Joe $5,000," he said, "but it's going to be tough stalling his estate!" . . . Only the forgotten are dead.

John Anderson, the Journal's critic, is a nice guy and all that sort of thing, but when the play is most tense he crunches mints . . . The smartest thing Jimmy Walker ever did was to combat his enemies without having a regiment of expensive lawyers . . . Wonder if that new rumor is true about Maude Adams? . . . That she will do the long threatened "comeback" via the talkies.

That was a grand tribute they paid to the ailing Harry Reichenbach the other night from Station WMCA . . . The "mob" had planned to honor Harry with a dinner, but his illness messed that up . . . So one of the swifter minds doped out the idea to honor him with a broadcast—and have those speechmakers at the dinner do their stuff via the ether . . . It was a peppy half-hour and Reichenbach, in his sick room at the hosp, must have been pleased. . . . I liked that part best when Jack Lait said: "No wonder your hair is white, Harry. It ought to be. The rest of you is!" . . . Made me think of the gag one of the boys pulled on another Harry—Hershfield—whose hair is just as white . . . When an admirer of the "Abe Kabibble" creator entered a theater foyer some time ago and saw Harry, who never misses a banquet photo, she yelped: "My what gray hair he has!" . . . "That's not gray hair, lady," snapped a heckler, "that's flashlight powder!" . . . Heheheh.

You get the most hideous ideas lying in your bed, trying to go into a trance . . . That one the other night had me dizzy . . . The idea for a column about Sardi's Restaurant where the walls are crowded with caricatures of well-known stage and screen celebrities—and authors and those of Hollywood and Broadway who are on "the fringe" . . . I imagined I could see the restaurant after it was closed for the night . . . And it was dark . . . And hearing the likenesses on the walls talking things over . . . Talking about the dizzy people who sat at tables underneath the pictures that day . . . I could hear Ring Lardner, whose picture is next to Mencken's, saying: "Did you get a load of that ham talking about himself at luncheon today?" . . . And Mencken, replying: "Yeah, that woman with him is his best friend's wife, too!" . . . And I could hear Irvin S. Cobb complaining because they put his likeness near a Nobody, and then I thought of a gag . . . The one about the fellow who took a chorus girl to dine at Sardi's, and said: "I wonder what would happen if all the people in those pictures on the walls should suddenly come to life?" . . . And she replied: "The place for once would be crowded."

That was an amusing incident at Reuben's the other midnight. . . . That blonde femme, who said to her companions: "I detest that Winchell person! He is such a gossip!" . . . "The only difference between Winchell," said one of the lads who disgraced me with a defense, "and the rest of us is that he gets paid to gossip" . . . Fifteen minutes later, they tell me, the same woman said: "Now, don't turn around—but directly in back of you across the way in that booth sits the most awful gold-digger on Park Avenue. Those stones are paste and she was named co-respondent three times by as many wives" . . . "Do you still feel that way about Winchell?" asked the man . . . "I get your point," she replied as she misplaced an elbow in her onion soup, which left a swell stain on her costly dress . . . Goody, goody! . . . More amusing to me was the fact that she once was the star villain in a conspiracy—but let it go for now.

I can just hear the author of "Five Star Final" getting loud. . . . Oh, he was so loud, that fellow, and so bulldozy . . . He was complaining because I had published the fact that his wife had secretly divorced him . . . To me, that was news, important news in this community . . . He was an editor of the World, a playwright, and a Hollywoodman . . . He maintained that not only was it gossip, but malicious, and that were it not for the fact that he "liked" me he would sue me for heavy damages . . . "I will not be satisfied," he said, "with merely a retraction, but I want you to add to your retraction that Louie Weitzenkorn's play, 'Five Star Final,' is justified by this type of unfounded scandal" . . . That is what he wanted me to say . . . I retracted the divorce report that I had exclusively . . . Weitzenkorn added to my humiliation by having the other papers deny it . . . The Associated Press yesterday "exclusively" announced that the secret divorce had taken place in January in Mexico.

Film Romance

Free Preacher-Miner In Coal Weight Case

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., April 23.—William Walters, Mineral City preacher and miner, prisoner in Tuscarawas County jail for 19 days, was released when Mayor Harry Finley, Mineral City, suspended $10 of a fine of $25 on a charge of altering a coal weighbill. Walters, who blames the offense on two sons who delivered the coal while he was ill, refused to pay the costs, $14.40, last Wednesday.

SHARP PLAYERS GO TO ALVIN ON MAY 4

Monday, May 4, George Sharp will move his company from the Pitt to the Alvin Theater. The first play in the new location will be "The Play's the Thing," a comedy in which Holbrook Blinn starred a few season ago.

The same prices and the same policy will prevail. Holders of season reservations at the Pitt will be allotted the same relative locations at the Alvin.

Mr. Sharp, who last Monday opened a new company at the New Yorker, New York, has arranged for the appearance here of several stars in plays that are even now running on Broadway.

Butler Road Job Delayed by State

HARRISBURG, April 23.—(AP.)—Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis announced that 10 low bidders had been awarded contracts for highway projects and that two projects were held for further study. Remove EXCESS WEIGHT as Pleasantly as you put it on

Watch your bathroom scales record the loss of excess weight after every bath with Fayro, pure mineral salts which, when dissolved in hot water, duplicate the waters of world-famed health resorts. Relax in your own tub just before retiring and you will lose between two and four pounds during each bath.

In spite of its rapid action, there is absolutely nothing injurious in the Fayro formula. The mineral salts, of which it is compounded, invigorate and cleanse your skin in addition to opening your pores so that unneeded subsurface fat may disappear.

Hundreds of physicians and women from all parts of the United States have voluntarily written* to tell of the remarkable results they have obtained by the continued use of Fayro.

Dr. F., of New York City, writes, "Enclosed please find remittance for which you will send me Fayro Bath Salts for reducing on a clinical case. Results thus far have been excellent, and am favorably impressed."

"Some time ago I used Fayro and I will say I never saw anything do such splendid work. I lost twelve pounds but only used three boxes," writes Mrs. T., of Urbana, Ill.

You risk nothing in giving Fayro a trial. It is sold on the unconditional guarantee that if you are dissatisfied for any reason your money will be instantly refunded. More than a million and a half treatments have been sold on this guarantee.

One dollar at drug and toilet counters everywhere.

* Write for copy of sworn statement before Notary Public that no testimonial for Fayro has ever been solicited or paid for in any way. Fayro, Inc., North Side, Pittsburgh.

Fayro BATH SALTS

GERMS
fill handkerchiefs during COLDS

Avoid all Danger of self-infection

—use Kleenex Tissues, then discard

KLEENEX is the safe handkerchief during colds — to help prevent flu, pneumonia and other dangerous diseases. That's the latest verdict of the scientific laboratory.

Exhaustive tests were performed on handkerchiefs used during colds. With the aid of the microscope, countless disease germs were seen and identified — germs which cause self-infection every time the handkerchief is used again. A germ-filled handkerchief makes colds "hang on" — and infects other people as well.

Don't gamble with germs

No one can afford to gamble with these treacherous germs! Kleenex relieves you of all worry. You use it once and then discard forever.

By using Kleenex for handkerchiefs you remove all danger of self-infection. It permits the destruction of germs which must otherwise be kept in purse or pocket—and then carried back to your face.

Kleenex is a soft, immaculate, super-absorbent tissue. The size of a handkerchief. So gentle, so soothing, that irritation is impossible. So inexpensive that each tissue may be used just once, then discarded.

What science says about the ordinary handkerchief

1. It may self-infect the user time after time.
2. Spread infection among others.
3. Infect clothing in which carried.
4. Infect clothing in laundry bags (germs survive for days).

The use of Kleenex will materially reduce your laundry bill. It is ideal for children.

Kleenex has many other uses. Beauty experts say these absorbent tissues are the safe, sanitary way to remove cold cream. Being powerfully absorbent, Kleenex picks up all dirt and powder along with cleansing cream.

You buy Kleenex in Cellophane-sealed packages. Each tissue is as sanitary as it looks. Each tissue that touches your face is clean as clean can be.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store. Comes in three sizes: 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. If you have not tried Kleenex, send for a free trial package to the Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Building, Chicago, Illinois.

BACTERIOLOGICAL TESTS SHOW:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 bacteria per handkerchief.

2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

FOCH DESCRIBES BRILLIANT OFFENSIVE OF ALLIES

FRENCH DRIVE FOE BACK OF OURCQ

tween the Ourcq and the Marne and only effected a trifling advance. The 5th Army, passing in its turn to the offensive, managed, with the support of two British divisions, to get slightly forward between Marveaux and Nelval.

The German commander, surprised at first, necessarily grasped at once the seriousness of the blow delivered on July 18 and 19 by our 10th and 6th armies, and the danger to which his troops on and beyond the Marne were exposed as a result of our drive along the Aisne and the Ourcq in the direction of Fere-en-Tardenois.

The communications of the troops he had massed on the Marne for the attack of July 15, as well as their supply, were threatened to the point of being compromised. He realized that he must withdraw these troops as rapidly as possible and to do so he must at any cost halt or at least retard the march of our 10th and 6th armies from the west and the advance of our 5th Army from the east, whatever the sacrifices entailed for his two flanks.

The Germans, on July 19 and 20, effected the withdrawal of all troops and material south of the Marne, and during the following days, they evacuated toward the line of the Ourcq the supplies of every sort which he had accumulated in the wooded regions north of the river.

Orders Vigorous Action

From this moment, the interest of our operations was transferred to the north of the Ourcq and, on July 21, I gave General Petain instructions according:

". . .In order that the battle now in progress may yield all the results possible to draw from it, the action of the 10th Army, on the high ground north of Fere-en-Tardenois, must be intensified to the highest possible degree.

"To this end, all available resources should be furnished it, in addition to the constant support which the left of the 6th Army must bring and the aid to be realized through continuing the offensive on the fronts of the 9th and 5th armies . . ."

Two days afterward, on July 23, I again insisted:

". . . It is important to resume the mastery of operations vigorously and without delay, if we are to get out of this battle all it can produce.

"Everything available should be given to the 10th Army. This army should concentrate these resources on one part of its front so as to execute a powerful attack in a particularly interesting direction, viz., the region of Fere-en-Tardenois.

"Supported on its right by the 6th Army, and with all available troops concentrated on its left wing, this attack would force the enemy to evacuate, under difficult conditions, the whole region south of Fere-en-Tardenois.

"As a consequence of assigning all means now available to the 10th Army, the 5th Army will have only limited forces at its disposal. Therefore, it should operate by carrying out a series of successive operations, concentrating all its available strength for each, and so fixing their sequence that each operation will create a favorable situation for the following one.

"For example, an advance on the high ground north of the Andre will facilitate a subsequent attack south of that river, and this, in turn, will force the enemy to evacuate the region north of the Marne . . ."

While thus occupied with directing and intensifying the battle in progress, I could not neglect the possibility of a German offensive return in some other field. The supreme command of the Central Empires, in order to escape from the net which was now closing, might be tempted to employ its reserves in a diversion north of the Oise or against the British front.

Fight Reaches Deadlock

To be in a position to deal with such a move, I requested Gen. Petain to regroup in rear of the French left all wornout divisions withdrawn from the battle, and I restored to Field Marshal Haig's entire disposal the two British divisions which on July 12 I had caused him to move south of the Somme.

The 6th and 10th armies, having concentrated the greater portion of their strength on the two sides of the Ourcq, on July 25, launched an attack in the direction of Oulchy-le-Chateau. Oulchy-la-Ville and Oulchy-le-Chateau were captured by a brilliant assault and a footing was obtained on the eastern slopes of the high Chalmont hill, which dominates the alley of the Ourcq. This was an important success which deprived the enemy of any hope or possibility of re-establishing himself on the line of the Ourcq.

On the following day the Germans carried out their retreat towards the high ground north of that river, and at such speed that in some places our advance guards could not maintain contact.

On the evening of the 29th, the French 10th, 6th and 5th armies were halted in front of these heights along the general line Grand-Rozoy-Fere-en-Tardenois-Virigny.

Here the enemy resolutely opposed them. On July 30 and 31, our efforts to dislodge him remained fruitless. The villages of Seringes, Sergy and Villers-Agron, furiously disputed, changed hands several times. The battle had once more reached a deadlock.

Allies Forge Ahead

But continuing the struggle in conformity with my directions of July 25 and Gen. Petain's instructions of July 29, the 10th Army resumed the attack on August 1 at 4:45 a. m.

The French 25th, 41st and 68th divisions and the British 34th Division, supported by tanks, assaulted the heights of Grand-Rozoy and in spite of furious resistance on the part of the enemy, they carried, by hand-to-hand fighting, the German position between Grand-Rozoy, the Signal de Servenay and the Village of Cremailler; therefore they maintained themselves in the face of numerous and powerful counter-attacks. This decisive action compelled the Germans to make a new withdrawal.

At daybreak on August 2 the 10th, 6th and 5th armies found there was nothing in front of them, and by evening they had reached the high ground south of the Vesle, without striking a blow. Soissons was reoccupied.

On the 3rd, the advance was continued. Reaching the left bank of the Vesle, our troops regained contact with the enemy, and at certain points even pushed elements across the river.

However, on the 4th, we found that the Germans were strongly established along the line of the Vesle, and they seemed determined to defend it. To dislodge them, it would have been necessary to organize a new attack and bring up powerful material; even decisive results could not be expected for a long time.

Moreover, at this moment, we were making preparations for another battle susceptible of producing very important results, the battle of Picardy and Santerre. The number of troops now available did not permit of our undertaking this battle and an attack against the Vesle at one and the same time. Accordingly, the Central Reserve groups of armies were instructed "to establish themselves on their positions south of the Vesle, while continuing to give the enemy the impression that they were making preparations for a vigorous attack."

OFFICERS GIVE HEARST PRAISE

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 23.—(Universal.)—William Randolph Hearst and the Hearst newspapers were given high praise here today by the United States Reserve Officers Association at the final session of the organization's national convention.

A resolution adopted unanimously commended Mr. Hearst and his newspaper associates for the valuable service they rendered the United States government in their campaign for national defense and in keeping the people of the nation informed on the subject.

The reserve officers selected Pittsburgh over Denver and Detroit for their 1932 meeting.

Col. L. Kemper Williams, of New Orleans, was elected president; Col. H. R. Morrison Smith, of Philadelphia, senior vice president; Maj. H. R. Lesley, of Washington, D. C., treasurer, and Col. Paul B. McNutt, of Indianapolis, judge advocate.

AD CLUB PLANS ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Displays for the fourth annual exhibit of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club, which is to be held next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, are being put in place today. The exhibit opens to the public Monday and is being held in the William Penn Hotel. A preview is to be held for more than 1,000 Pittsburgh executives Sunday night.

The official judging will be done on Sunday by P. T. Coburn, Ellsworth Geist, Miss Gay Walton and H. K. Dugdale. A banquet in the hotel Thursday night will close the exhibit.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(INS.)—Officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution today took steps to avert a possible row with the administration by tabooing criticism of Secretary of State Stimson's new Nicaraguan policy.

The attitude of the organization was made known when Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, was asked to forego criticism he had voiced in a speech prepared for delivery before the Daughters tomorrow.

Resolutions of the convention will denounce pacifism and Communism, but it is understood that it will state no attitude on the Hoover administration's foreign policy.

TOO MANY CHILDREN ARE UNDERWEIGHT

Tasteless Diet Often the Reason for This Condition

Mothers are often confronted by the problem of getting their children to eat what is good for them. When they notice that this objection to wholesome food results in loss of weight and lowered vitality they are much disturbed.

The lack of taste-appeal of the food served is often the cause of poor appetites. The cereal may be tasteless; the fruit juice or the stewed fruit too tart or quite insipid; the vegetables uninviting in flavor.

By adding a dash of sugar to these foods they will be much improved in flavor. Doctors approve such use of sugar because it makes those foods which are rich in vitamins, minerals and roughage more enjoyable to the child.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a popular way to season string beans, spinach, carrots, tomatoes and peas. Salt overcomes flatness, and the sugar "brings out" the flavor. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

GRIMM AND HARTNETT VENTURE FORTH IN RAIN

Rain and snow and cold kept the Pirates and Cubs from opening the National League baseball season in Pittsburgh at Forbes Field yesterday. It was an open day for the sports photographer, too, for this reason, so he started out on a roving assignment and above are the pictures he dragged back into the office. Lefty Grimm and Gabby Hartnett, Cub stars, were a bit timid about leaving their hotel, and for a time it looked as if they might put on a "Singing in the Rain" act. Outfielder

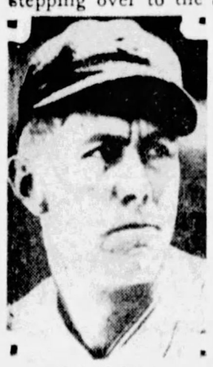
OSBORN DEAL ENDS LONG SLAB HUNT

WHEN THE HEADS of the Pittsburgh baseball club kept a washed-out opening day from being a total loss by stepping over to the Schenley Hotel and buying Pitcher Bob Osborn from the Cubs, they brought to a successful conclusion a hurler hunt that had been going on for almost two months. Ever since Steve Swetonic was shipped home from Paso Robles with his salary arm out of commission, the Pirate management had been striving without success to corral another righthand slabman.



Bob Osborn

These efforts had been redoubled following the incapacitation of Remy Kremer and Ervin Brame, and the Buccaneer bosses had claimed every pitcher of any promise on whom other clubs asked waivers, only to be informed of the immediate withdrawal of the waiver request. Only yesterday morning President Dreyfuss was notified that waiver requests had been withdrawn on two more flingers whom he had claimed. The owners of those chuckers refused to make a sale to Pittsburgh, though one of the clubs, according to the local magnate, has as many as 16 pitchers on its roster and the other has 13.

EVIDENTLY THE OTHER clubs in the National League feared to strengthen the Pirates by selling a pitcher to them in their time of distress. The Buc bosses were about ready to give up hope when the chance came to get Osborn. The acquisition of the husky 28-year-old righthander, who stands 6 feet and weighs 180 pounds, is the result of negotiations that were opened while the Bucs were playing in Chicago last week.

Osborn won 10 and lost 6 games last year, and three of his victories were registered at the expense of the Pirates, who defeated him only once in retaliation. He pitched in 35 games during the year, but in 22 of them was used only in relief roles. He completed three of the 13 games he started and was lifted 10 times.

THE PITTSBURGH CLUB, President Dreyfuss says, will make no new effort to get Outfielder Fred Bennett, the player involved in the Milwaukee club's suit against Commissioner Landis, which was dismissed in Federal Court Tuesday. Bennett is now free to sign where he pleases.

When the player was with Wichita Falls several years ago Pittsburgh was asked to bid for him and offered $10,000 for his release, only to be informed shortly afterward that the St. Louis Americans had made a better proposition. Later it developed that the owners of the Browns also owned the Wichita Falls club, and that the latter had been only stalling in asking Pittsburgh for a bid on Bennett.

THOUGH THE INJURY suffered by Babe Ruth yesterday may prove less serious than at first reported, the loss of the Bambino for even a short time, needless to say, will be a hard blow to the Yankees. Losing Ruth at any stage is considerable of a jolt, but the Yanks are particularly unfortunate in being deprived his services right now, as he was in exceptionally good spring form, hitting in his best stride and apparently headed for a big year. The early season finds the big leagues with an unusually long hospital list. Ruth, Steve Swetonic, Ervin Brame, Remy Kremer, George Grantham, Glenn Wright, Fresco Thompson, Kiki Cuyler, Jimmy Foxx, Gene Rye, George Pipgras, Eddie Morgan, Augustin Dugas, Ted Lyons, Alphonse Thomas, Ad Liska, Smead Jolley and Johnny Hodapp are only some of the early casualties.

Joe Vosmik

JOE VOSMIK, Cleveland's rookie outfielder, who was so nervous in his first major league tests that he made only 12 hits, seven of them long ones, in 18 times at bat, continued in such an upset state in his first game away from home yesterday that the best he could do against Pat Caraway in Chicago was to make two singles and a double in four trips to the plate.

That makes Vosmik's batting record up to date 17 hits in 30 times at bat in seven games for the husky average of .567. Moreover, the majority of his hits have been long wallops, nine of his 17 blows having gone for extra bases—six doubles, two triples and one home run.

WHAT THE FUTURE is going to tell about Vosmik remains to be seen, but so far he has been the hitting sensation of 1931 in the

PIN TOURNEY AWARDS MADE KNOWN

Prizes totaling $2,473 will be awarded the winners in the first annual duckpin tournament of the Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association, which completed eight days of rolling on the Haus alleys, North Side, last night.

Three five-men teams, six doubles combinations and one singles contestant rolled into the money in the last day of competition.

A total of $518 is being awarded the first 25 singles bowlers, the top award of $80 being taken by Ed Renkey, who set a world record of 700. The awards are graduated down to $2 for the twenty-fifth.

In the doubles, Hubac and German win the top prize of $120. The low pair get $5, with $30 separating the first and second places. Third place gets $49 and fourth position $35.

The Barrones, of Mt. Washington, will split $200 between themselves. The low team gets $11. Second place is good for $180, and third for an even $100.

The all-events prize winner, which happens to be this same Ed Renkey, cops a $50 award and a gold medal. The high five-men team annexes a total of $225.

Last night, as the tourney came to a close, the Penn Recreation Oldtimers, South Side Recreations and Kenyons rolled into the money in the team event. In the doubles, Kinlive and Beyer, Brant and Buchanan, Peters and Goettman, Frender and Wyland, Hahn

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: SIJI KALTER STOOD UNDER A COLD SHOWER 18½ HOURS—Siji Kalter, a native of Riga, Latvia, established a world record for a non-stop cold shower as a means of curing himself from an attack of rheumatism. Such violent cures are practiced by Russian peasants to the present day. This story is contained in a report of the Polish Telegraphic Agency, which was commented on by German medical periodicals. NITROGLYCERINE IS NOT AN EXPLOSIVE—The explosive substance which we call nitro-glycerine is not nitro-glycerine, and is not a nitro-substitution compound, as its name would imply. Instead of being a substance produced by the action of nitric acid upon organic compounds, its reactions are those of a salt or ester of nitric acid, and its correct chemical name is glyceryl trinitrate. True nitro-glycerine is not an explosive and is not used as such. PHILLIP SNYDER HAS BEEN PALLBEARER 25,000 TIMES—Snyder, who lives at Thirteenth and Pestalozzi streets, St. Louis, is 64 years old and during the last 35 years has acted as pallbearer on 2,500 occasions. At times he has served twice on the same day and as many as six times in a single week.

TOMORROW: THE MINISTER WHO IS RELATED TO 64 MINISTERS.

Pitt Golf Varsity Heads for East

Early this morning the University of Pittsburgh golf team entrained for Washington D. C., where tomorrow George Washington University will be met in the opening match of the season. On Saturday, Georgetown University will be met in the same city.

Captain and Coach Sam Parks was accompanied by three other players when he left this morning. They were Charles Wolff, Miles Bruno, and H. L. Friedman.

COLD PREVENTS FORBES FIELD LID-LIFTING

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Br-rr! Br-rr!! No game, cold.

The Pirates and Cubs, thwarted by rain in their aim to open the National League baseball season here yesterday, met a like fate today when cold weather necessitated another postponement of the lid-lifting ceremonies at Forbes Field.

A third attempt to inaugurate the campaign here will be made at 3 o'clock tomorrow.

Opening game tickets, which were to have been honored today, will be honored tomorrow, but tickets to the second and third scheduled games of the season here must be exchanged for opening game tickets. Pirate officials announced.

Manager Jewel Ens said that Southpaw Larry French, who was to have pitched today, probably would retain the slab assignment. Manager Rogers Hornsby said that Fred Blake probably would toil on the mound for the Cubs.

CUYLER BACK IN GAME

Manager Hornsby also stated he would have Hazen Cuyler back in rightfield for the Cubs. Kiki was out for a couple of days, suffering from a stiff neck. The ailment has almost entirely passed away and the great ball hawk will be out there in all his glory.

It is likely Bill Regan will be assigned to second base in the inaugural, although there is a chance that George Grantham may be able to go to the keystone post. The regular performer is suffering from a ruptured blood vessel in his left leg.

Their regrets of yesterday did not prevent the completion of an impression transaction by the Pittsburgh officials. In the midst of the rain Messrs. Dreyfuss and Ens closed a deal with Manager Rogers Hornsby whereby Pitcher Bob Osborn, a clever righthander, was sold to the Buccos for a cash consideration.

NEW PITCHER IMPRESSIVE

A crisis has existed in the Pittsburgh sharpshooting division since the beginning of the season. Illness which seized Remy Kremer and Ervin Brame sent the Pirates into action under a handicap. The Pittsburgh directors got busy at that time, they making overtures to the Chicago bosses. The negotiations ripened into fruit yesterday and Osborn will join his new mates today.

Winning 10 and losing six for the Cubs last season, Osborn is a big fellow of 28 years. He started to pitch for Wichita Falls, of the Texas League, about eight years ago. He reached the Chicago club in 1925 and remained through three seasons before being sent to Los Angeles, of the Pacific Coast League. This team is controlled by the Cub owners. Bob achieved a commendable record and he was returned to the Cubs in 1928. Last year he gave some fine display of his prowess. Manager Ens is convinced he will be of considerable aid to his ailing staff. Hornsby, on the other hand, was surfeited with clever righthand hurlers so that he was able to spare Osborn. Big Bob is a Texan, hailing from El Paso.

Secretary Sam Watters, of the Pirates, last night announced that

HOUSTON EXPECTS TO BOAST SANDLOT WINNER

FINE PLAYERS INCLUDED ON ROSTER

By TOM BIRKS

A fine list of capable ball players will represent the Houston entry in the Washington County League this season. The backers of the Houston club, feeling that Burgettstown, the Washington Eagles and the Duncan Millers have all been strengthened from last year, have gone and gathered together a real bunch of sandlotters who are going to make the opposition step on the gas.

Many candidates are out for the battery positions. Bill Nelson, who hails from Bridgeville, probably will get the assignment as first-string receiver. Five pitchers already are signed, including Johnny Mascara, Walter Emph, the Houston veteran, and Clarence Leonard. All are portsiders.

Righthanders are numerous. Don Rathbone and Bill Anderson, of Houston, and Clarence Brown, of Bridgeville, will be available.

Johnny Hixenbaugh, of Canonsburg; Chick Shannon, Joe Minnenock and Archie Deisel, of Midland, all capable receivers, will make Nelson step out to retain his job.

Tom Davis, of Greensburg, will cover first base. Johnny Korka and Tom Whitfield will be fighting for the second base job. Dudick, of Jeannette, will be at short, with Mike Korba and Pie Wilson battling it out for the hot corner.

Burt Shannon, Jim Tomor and Chuck Klink, of Venice, probably will hold down the outfield jobs. Manager Jack Palmer is tickled with the showing of his team in the practice games and is predicting a winner for Houston. The team opens with the Duncan-Millers at home in the opening game of the season.

Bunts

The Community Builders, of Turtle Creek, want to book games Saturdays and Sundays abroad. The Creek boys are members of the West Penn League and want to meet the best clubs in the tri-state district. For games, write Walter Dimbitz, 808 Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, or call Valley 9764 between 5 and 5:30 p. m.

Homestead Aces ball club is on the diamond with one of the fastest clubs in the tri-state district. Manager Ferris wants to meet the best clubs in the district. Call Paul Mach a Homestead 2975.

The North Side Buicks, members of the City League, want a good fast club for a practice game at Pleasant Valley next Saturday afternoon. Teams wishing to meet the City Leaguers should call Manager Dunsky at Everglade 0726.

Fight Results

DUCKS EVENTS CARDED

Merry Widow duckpin tournaments are to be conducted at the Capital alleys, East Eighth avenue, Homestead, from next Monday until May 16 inclusive, and at the Nuss Brothers alleys, Homestead, from May 1 to May 31, inclusive. Sam Brown is sponsoring the event at the Capital alleys, and Earl Nuss is to direct the competition at the Nuss Brothers' alleys.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—I don't know what ails those Brooklyn Robins. They play like they were suffering from spring fever, summer complaint and fallen arches all at once.

Nick Altrock

But if you want to see a picture like a rare old Rembrandt, just pipe the first division of the National League today, see the Braves up there. When a Boston club climbs into a mezzanine position, it either got there on a forced passport or else the team is good. The Athletics still look like the spirit of Roquefort. Before the season started Connie Mack said he only feared the Senators. The way the A's are playing now the House of Representatives could scare them to death too.

LUMSDEN GETS PRO JOB

Another Schenley Park amateur has entered the ranks of the golf professionals. George Lumsden has been appointed professional at the Conneaut Lake Park links.

Lumsden, who is well known in soccer football as a star player and referee, has been employed at the Jones & Laughlin steel plant, and learned his golf in Scotland.

Lumsden is the second Schenley amateur to enter the paid brigade. Bob Graham, now professional at Schenley, being the other.

Pitt Floor Star Reported Improved

Bus Albright, who is recuperating from an operation performed for the removal of his appendix, was reported as improving at St. Francis Hospital today.

The Pitt basketball star spent a restful day and night Wednesday. He underwent a blood transfusion Monday night when his condition was reported as critical. The operation was performed Monday afternoon.

Final Spring Grid Fray on Saturday

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 23.—The final game of the Westmoreland County spring football conference series will be staged Saturday when Mt. Pleasant High and East Huntingdon Township clash at Mt. Pleasant field.

Youngwood has made the best showing, having won the only two games it played.

GRAHAM BEATS DATTO

LEVINSKY CARD AT GARDEN COMPLETE

The card has been completed for the boxing show at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, and King Levinsky, colorful Jewish heavyweight, of Chicago, who meets Emmett Rocco, of Ellwood City, in the 10-round main bout, is due to arrive on the scene today to taper off his training. He is coming direct from Boston, where he lost a close battle to Johnny Risko, Cleveland veteran, on Tuesday night. He will be accompanied by his sister-manager, Lena Levy.

Levinsky is a hard puncher who depends on his wallop to win his fights. He often is outpointed, but all of his opponents have reason to dread his punch.

Harry Williams, Negro light-heavyweight, and Buddy McArthur, of McKeesport, box the eight-round semi-final Monday night. Lloyd Clements, of Swissvale, and Russell Powers, of Youngstown, middleweights, are in the second bout, and Carl Montebano, of Braddock, and Anson Green, Negro middleweight, of Homewood, open the show.

Between Rounds

The Frank Novak-Joe Doktors bout at Canton next Monday has been called off and instead Patsy Pirrone, Canton light-heavyweight, will meet Roy (Tiger) Williams, of Chicago, in the main bout. Pirrone has not fought for four months, following a major operation.

A letter awaits Reed Brown at this office.

Ray Eberle, of Aliquippa, has completed his amateur card for a show next Monday night in the Rialto Theater. Mike Harris, of Aliquippa, and Tommy Arpke, of Salem, O., are in the main bout. Other bouts: Jimmy Gilligan vs. Al Toth, Young Brosky vs. Leonard Cook, Andy Bernabe vs. Andy Cook, Brother Wer vs. Al Harre, Davy Harge vs. Young Williams, Romeo Calderella vs. Jimmy Murphy and General Burr vs. Al Thomas.

Dick Shikat and Jim Clinstock have been matched to meet in the main bout of the second wrestling show at Motor Square Garden next Wednesday night. Wladek Zbyszko and Tony Felice are in the semi-final.

BOBBY JONES' Lessons in Golf

American Open, British Open, American Amateur and British Amateur Champion.

How many times have you seen a left foot fly up in the air as its owner struck at a golf ball? I believe you would like to have a new ball for every one you had seen. I would not be suprised if you had noticed this movement to be a characteristic of the styles of a good many of your acquaintances, for it is one of the commonest of all golfing faults.

Bobby Jones

I have said that waving the left foot is a fault. It is really an evidence or result of a fault. The real fault is in falling back, in shifting the weight or permitting it to shift backward during the hitting stroke—and there is nothing worse in golf—except, possibly, hitting the ball with the wrong end of the club.

THREE FLAWS

There are at least three things which can cause a man to be guilty of this mistake. First, he may address the ball with too much weight on his left foot and keep it there during the backswing; second, he may start all right but shift over to his left foot gong back; and, third, he may not shift incorrectly, but start from a position so far ahead of the ball that he will have to shift backward in order to hit it.

In any case, he finds that he is trying to hit the ball while falling away from it—attempting to move his hands and club in one direction while his weight and the great power of his body are moving in another—a thing so preposterous that it is not really worth while saying that it is bad.

I do not believe that it is necessary to shift the weight backward during the backswing. Certainly I know it is not if the player stands sufficiently behind the ball when he is addressing it. If he insists upon addressing the ball off his right foot then he may set himself right by means of this backward shift. But he must get his weight behind the stroke if he is going to hit the ball correctly.

CORRECT METHOD

Hitting a golf ball is like hitting anything else in that it cannot be hit hard or efficiently if it is behind the striker. He cannot reach back to get it without sacrificing a world of power.

When a good swing starts down, everything ought to move together toward the ball. The left heel should come down; the hips should shift forward, the arms and clubhead should move with the rest. If there is one single part of the mechanism moving in another direction, setting up a counter force, and partially overcoming the force directed toward the ball, then the stroke will be inefficient, less powerful than it ought to be.

Helene Sets New Marks in Montreal

MONTREAL, April 23.—(AP.)—Breaking the 100 yards free-style Canadian record, Miss Helene Madison, of Seattle, Wash., concluded her exhibition swimming here last night. She lowered the mark to 1:02 3-5 and placed the new record in the book along with the 220 yards mark she set up on Tuesday night when she slashed the old record by 13¾ seconds. The old mark for the 100 yards was 1:07.

Miss Madison and her companions also smashed a relay mark, racing over the 150 medley event in 1:46¾, which is 2-5 under the United States record the same team set up at New York recently. In this event Miss Dawn Gilson and Miss Lucy Schacht, also of Seattle, made up Miss Madison's team.

KEARNS SEEKS BOXER

DES MOINES, Ia., April 23.—(AP.)—Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, has offered Roy Feltman, of Omaha, and Dave Fidler, of Des Moines, $10,000 for Hymie Wiseman's contract, provided the Des Moines featherweight wins over Johnny Datto, of Cleveland, here next Monday night.

TOURNEY SATURDAY

The second annual tri-state high school volleyball eliminations are scheduled Saturday with 16 local and out-of-town teams enrolled. Irene Kaufmann Settlement House, Fifth Avenue High, North Side Y and Salvation Army have donated their courts.

BUCS' OPENER OFF AGAIN

yesterday's postponement was moved back to Monday, August 10. The date is open on the schedules of both teams. The date previously was set aside to allow the Pirates and Cubs to move from Cincinnati and St. Louis to New York and Philadelphia. Both will be able to stop off at the Oakland Orchard for the purpose of running off the game.

Outfielder Augustine Dugas, the recruit Pirate who had his jaw broken in a collision with Ben Sankey on Monday, is still confined to St. John's Hospital where he is resting comfortably. He probably will be discharged in a few days. Improvement also is announced in the case of Ervin Brame.

CHRISTNER BEATS WINE

AKRON, April 23. — (AP.) — Meyer (K.O.) Christner, Akron heavyweight, last night won a 10-round newspaper decision over Frankie Wine, of Butte, Mont., who had won a surprise victory in their previous meeting.

Mrs. Harper Enters Wimbledon Play

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—(AP.) — Mrs. Anna McCune Harper, of Oakland, Cal., first national ranking woman tennis player will compete in the Wimbledon, England, championships this year for the first time. She will sail from New York, May 15.

The Oakland matron will travel with three other American players, John Van Ryn and the latter's wife, the former Marjorie Gladman, and George Lott, of Chicago

TITLE MEETS PLACED; DATES ARE SET

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The W. P. G. A.'s annual amateur and open tournaments, the national amateur qualifying test and the women's title event will be played over the trying course of the Pittsburgh Field Club this year. This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the directors of the W. P. G. A. and was announced by George Ormiston, secretary of the board.

The open event will be played Monday, August 10. The amateur is slated for August 12, 13 and 14, and the women's event for September 12 and 18. The national amateur qualifying round will be played July 28.

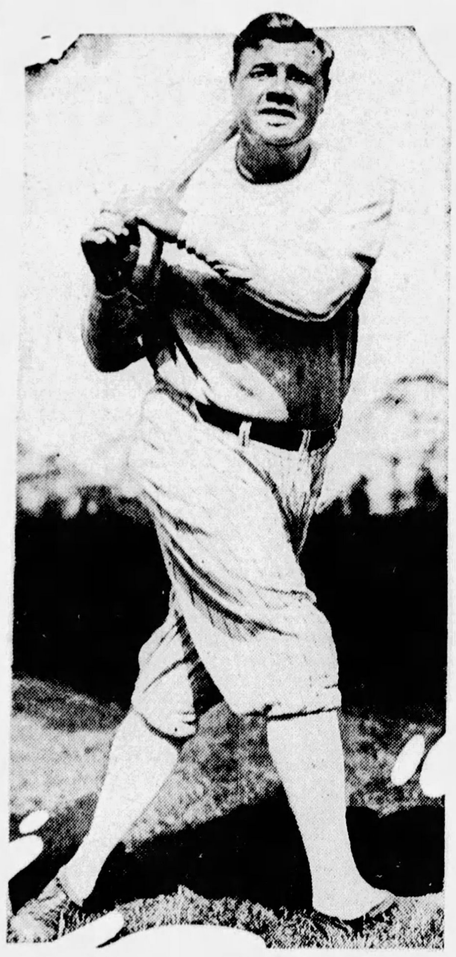
Take Baseball Lessons From

Babe Ruth

$80,000-a-Year Professor



EVERY boy will agree that Babe Ruth—famous King of Swat—knows baseball, expertly and intimately. No player is better qualified to help young amateurs put the "big league touch" to their playing, which may lead to the thrills and big salaries of a major league berth.

Beginning next Sunday, the Sun-Telegraph will present a series of lessons by Babe Ruth on "How to Play Baseball." These articles will be simple, interesting, and well illustrated with special pictures of the Babe instructing young sandlot players in the technique of the game. The fine points of every department of baseball will be fully and helpfully explained by the Babe himself.

Even if you prefer to take your baseball from the stands, these instructions will add greatly to your understanding of what is happening on the diamond, and increase your enjoyment of the dazzling plays.

Watch for the first baseball lesson in the series, which will appear on the Sport pages.

big show. Cleveland is as wild about him as it used to be about Nap Lajoie or Tris Speaker.

There is one exaggeration in the Vosmik stories that have been published. He did not, as asserted, jump straight into the majors from the Cleveland sandlots and make good without experience in the minors. He played 121 games for Terre Haute in the Three-I League last year, and led that league in batting with an average of .397.

PUTTING OVER AN amateur boxing tournament on a large scale is no piker's pastime. Another instance showing the steep cost of such an undertaking is found in the arrangements for the national senior A. A. U. championships, which are to be held at Madison Square Garden in New York on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights of next week. Bringing boxers from distant states, Hawaii, Canada and the Canal Zone, with incidental expenses, means an outlay of $40,000 by the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. before the doors are opened for the first round of competition.

BUT OF COURSE that $40,000 isn't going to be a dead loss. Many A. A. U. men thought it was a mistake to take the annual championship tourney away from Boston, where it has always drawn big gates, but the New York sponsors anticipate that the total attendance for the four nights will approximate 80,000, with receipts running close to $100,000.

An unusual feature of next week's tournament is the fact that a multi-millionaire of the future will be among the 200 contestants. He is Winthrop Rutherford, Jr., of Allamuchy, N. J., and New York City, who is heir to a fortune estimated at $20,000,000. He is aiming at the light-heavyweight title. At Princton, from which university he was graduated in 1927, he pulled an oar on the varsity crew for three years, held the heavyweight boxing championship and also played a little football.

TWO READERS WRITE to ask whether or not Guy Bush, Cub pitcher, ever was given a tryout by the Pittsburgh club. He was not. Fred Blake is the Chicago hurler who was tried by the Pirates, and the only Bush to pitch for Pittsburgh was Bullet Joe.

Barney Berlinger

Guy Bush started with Greenville in the Cotton States League in 1923, was tried by the Cubs in the spring of 1924, sent to Wichita Falls in the Texas League for the remainder of that season, recalled in 1925 and has been with the Bruins ever since.

THE MANNER IN which Jim Bausch came from behind and nosed out Wilson Charles, national A. A. U. champion, in the Kansas relays last Saturday, made it clear that you never can tell about the result of a decathlon. But as far as past form may be trusted as an indication, it looks as if Barney Berlinger, Penn's outstanding all-around athlete, will be the winner of the 10-event competition for the third time in succession at the Penn relays in Philadelphia tomorrow and Saturday. Previous performances this spring cause him to shape up on paper as superior to Deering, of Yale; Schoenfeld, of Cornell; Hutchinson, of Ithaca School, and Schwartz, of Gettysburg, his chief competitors. He has shown marked improvement particularly in the pole vault, javelin throw and discus throw, and looks good to surpass his own best record of 7,461 points.

BRAVES, CARDS REACH TOP ON GOOD HURLING

YANKEES WIN OVER BOSTON; A'S COP

Associated Press.

There still is nothing that quite takes the place of old-fashioned, airtight pitching when it comes to winning ball games, and it takes no more than cursory examination of the records up to now to discover why the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves are setting the National League back on its heels, nor why the New York Yankees are doing likewise to the junior circuit.

They have been getting some swell pitching. In seven games the Cards' great mound staff has allowed only 19 runs, considerably under two to the contest, and the Braves' surprisingly stout staff has given up only 28 scores in nine tilts. Yankee moundsmen have held opponents to 29 runs in eight games and five of their starting pitchers have been in at the finish. This would seem to be as good an answer as any to the skeptics who wondered what the Yanks would do for pitching this season.

By way of contrast, only one member of the Philadelphia Nationals' staff, Jim Elliott, has managed to go the route in nine games.

ZACHARY IN FORM

Old Tom Zachary became the third Braves hurler to start and finish in as many days when he set the hapless Brooklyn Robins down with four scattered hits yesterday and blanked them, 4 to 0. So completely befuddled was the flock that Uncle Robbie sent in pinch batters for Babe Herman and Lefty O'Doul in the ninth.

Two Card pitchers, Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey, gave a similar masterpiece in beating the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2. They allowed only four hits, and not a Red was left on base.

Although the Yankees increased their advantage over Washington and Cleveland by trimming the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 5, there was little satisfaction in the victory. Babe Ruth was injured going after a fly in the sixth inning and there was a possibility he would be out several weeks. Up to the time he was hurt the Bambino had driven in three runs and scored twice.

CRITZ'S HOMER WINS

A three-run splurge in the seventh, touched off by Hughie Critz's home run, enabled the Giants to nose out the Phillies, 5 to 4, in their debut at the Polo Grounds. Clarence Mitchell went the route, allowing 11 hits, but checking the Phils in the pinches.

The Athletics gave Lefty Grove a four-run lead in the first inning, and that was sufficient. He beat Washington, 5 to 1, Joe Cronin's home run in the second depriving him of a shutout. Cochrane planted one for the A's.

Pat Caraway was invincible after the second inning and the Chicago White Sox opened before the home folks with a 10-to-2 win over Cleveland. Eichrodt led a 14-hit assault on three Indian curvers with four hits and a sacrifice in five trips.

SPORT SHORTS

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(AP.)—Midshipman John B. Davis, Youngstown, Ohio, class of 1932, has been elected captain of Navy's championship boxing team for next season, and J. E. Leeds, Jenkinstown, Pa., manager, has been announced.

MONTREAL.—(AP.)—Leaders for nearly 24 hours, Reggie McNamara, the veteran iron man of six six-day bike riding, and his youthful French-Canadian partner, Joe Laporte, hold a margin of two laps over the field in Montreal's fourth international six-day bicycle race.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(AP.)—Joseph Hall, of San Francisco, won his second match in the national amateur three-cushion billiard championship tournament yesterday, defeating Anthony Cisel, of Beaumont, Tex., 50 to 45, in 117 innings.

DETROIT.—(AP.)—Adams Avenue Y. M. C. A., of Detroit, was declared winner of the North American Y. M. C. A. basketball championship when the tournament committee, acting on protests filed by several teams, found some of Buffalo Central's players ineligible on grounds of professionalism.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Joseph Diehl, of Rockford, Ill., took the lead in the all-star pocket billiard tournament here by defeating Rath (Greenleaf, of New York, 125 to 113, in an exciting 17-inning match. Diehl now has won two matches and lost one in the double round-robin event.

TANFORAN RACE TRACK, Cal.—(AP.)—Jockey Felix Roberts, 16-year-old apprentice rider, was killed here yesterday when his mount, Laumala, crashed into the rail and hurled Roberts 30 feet down an embankment. The boy's neck was broken. Roberts' home was at Winnipeg, Canada. He is under contract to Mrs. Tom Hunt.

NEW YORK—Big Bill Tilden and Vincent Richards will begin their professional tennis series in Madison Square Garden on Saturday, May 9, Jack Curley, promoter, has announced.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Fletcher A. (Nona) Rees, former University of Texas athlete, died here yesterday of bullet wounds.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—F. B. Farrell, president of the New York-Pennsylvania League, has informed the Wilkes-Barre club that Pitcher Homer Knetzer, veteran righthander, of Pittsburgh, is the property of the Binghamton club.

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa.—The Athletic Council of Westminster College will hold monthly meetings henceforth, it was announced here yesterday. Heretofore meetings were held once or twice each year.

NEW CASTLE, Pa.—New Castle High will meet Erie Academy here tomorrow in a night football game.

PHILADELPHIA.—Fritz Otto, New Castle, and Albert Kedanis, Frackville, boxers, were suspended by the State Athletic Commission yesterday.

OTEY, FORMER BUC, DIES

DAYTON, O., April 23.—(AP.)—William T. Otey, 44, former pitcher for the Washington Senators and Pittsburgh Pirates, died here today after a lingering illness. He pitched for Washington in 1911 and 1912, for Pittsburgh in 1913, and for Dayton in the old Central League in 1914. Burial will be at Youngstown.

Grove City Grid Officials Chosen

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 23.—Officials who will work the Grove City College football games next fall were announced today by R. E. Thorn, Crimson director of athletics. The list follows:

October 10—Slippery Rock at Grove City, G. K. Fry, J. J. Gannon and A. A. Cutler.
October 17—Westminster at New Wilmington, C. K. Rebele, A. W. McMillan and H. D. Robb.
October 23—Geneva at Beaver Falls (night), S. A. McFarland, A. H. Slack and J. M. Holmes.
October 31—Allegheny at Grove City, C. K. Rebele, A. W. McMillan and John Hetra.
November 7—John Carroll at Cleveland, Myers, Rupp and Weygandt.

Sport Vignettes

The reason the weather has turned cold is because Apples Meyers has closed his indoor boxing season at the Moose Temple on account of the heat . . . . And the only break the Pirates got in connection with their opener was the fractured jaw gift to Dugas . . . . Anyway, the Pirates have the satisfaction of knowing they didn't guess wrong when they called off the festivities early yesterday, for the snow followed the rain, as per schedule . . . . Maybe the weather man is in the same predicament with regard to the opener as the pitcher a New York scribe writes about . . . . This fellow failed to get over to first base to take a throw from the first-sacker, who had made a fine stop of a hard smash . . . . "Hey, what's the matter with you?" the first-baseman demanded, noting the hurler had not left the mound. "I dunno," came the reply. "Guess I was in a transom."

Tom Coulter, Carnegie Tech's one-man track team at the Penn relays, who will leave tonight and compete in the 400-meter hurdles race tomorrow and then hop right back here to hurdle and run the 440 in the dual meet against Western Reserve on Saturday, is a candidate for the Canadian Olympic team next year, and stands a good chance of earning a berth . . . He recently broke the Tech record for the quarter-mile, running it in 51 1-10 seconds around four turns . . . He prefers the hurdles to straight running, however, and looks like a championship prospect as a timber-topper.

Coulter's candidacy for the Canadian team comes through the fact that he is a native of that country, although his parents now live here and he attended Peabody High School before going to Tech . . . He has not been naturalized in this country and therefore he cannot represent it in the international competition . . .

Besides being a track star, Tom formerly starred in the City High School Hockey League and was invited to try out with the Yellow Jackets last fall.

Cy Seibert, manager of Frank Novak, North Side heavyweight boxer, who was a sensation as a knockout puncher among the amateurs, but has been more or less of a flop as a pro, thinks he finally has discovered what is wrong with his man . . . Frank scaled 199 pounds in his most recent start, when he floundered through six messy rounds with Lee Peer at the Moose Temple, and he carried a lot of excess baggage around the waistline. . . . He was slow and tired as rapidly as his poorly-conditioned opponent . . . "Novak is just about 15 pounds overweight," Seibert said in discussing his problem. "He never weighed more than 185 pounds when he was boxing as an amateur, and I have told him to try to get back down to that poundage before going to the post again. He has set that figure as his goal, and I'll assure you that, if he gets down to it, he'll be a much improved fighter over his recent showings."

When Eddie Phillips, Pirates' catcher, received the telegram yesterday informing him of the birth of a third son into his family at Worcester, Mass., he didn't have to read the message to learn whether it was a boy or a girl. . . . He had an understanding with his wife that if the child proved to be a son the message was to come by one telegraph company and if a girl by the other one—and they didn't get their signals crossed.—HARRY KECK.

HAVRE DE GRACE MUTUELS

RUTH TO DEFER DOPING MAJOR FLAG RACES

By BABE RUTH

Baseball's Highest Salaried Star

Babe Ruth

For several years I have tried doping out the pennant races. I figured as best I could the possibilities of each team and finished up by naming two clubs as pennant winners, at the same time predicting how the others should finish. This spring I decided to make a change and wait until the season was about a month old before expressing my views on the outcome.

Within the past 10 days I have received a number of letters from fans, asking me if I had given up the plan. I want to say that I have no such idea.

I am glad now that I waited. Some players who were tipped off as pretty good during the training season, and likely to stick all season, are already in the minors. We will know, too, in another month how many youngsters will be able to win their way into the regular lineup. Injuries may give a truer line on this or that team.

About May 15 I will predict the finish of the clubs in each major league. I feel that this first month will definitely prove if the pitchers are helped by the raised seams in the ball, and if the ball will go as far as it would before they began the campaign to make it less lively.

There are many other things which I should have a better line on by that time. Take that kid outfield which Bucky Harris started with. He had Walker, Shiver and Doljak playing from left field to right and not one of them was in the big leagues until the last few days of last season. I don't recall any other manager using an entirely recruit outfield or infield to start a season since I have been following big league baseball. It is interesting to see what they will do.

Take Johnny Vergez of the Giants. A month will tell whether he is to be the regular third baseman or if Lindstrom is coming back to third. Cleveland has a new outfielder in Vosmik, and he may mean as much to the Indians as Averill did in his first year in the outfield. Donie Bush seems to think that Appling, his new shortstop, will end his worries about this position, and you know that one player often makes a lot of difference. See what Joe Cronin meant to Washington last year. A year ago they were not giving Joe much of a tumble but at the end of the season everybody was singing his praises.

ENGLISH BOXER AFTER SECOND CROWN

CHICAGO, April 23.—(AP.)—If the sentiment of the Chicago wagering gentry is correct, the lightweight championship of the world will be transferred from Tony Canzoneri to Jack (Kid) Berg, of England, tomorrow night in the Chicago Stadium.

Berg, already owner of the trick junior-welterweight title, today had become an 8-to-5 favorite to take away the crown the New York Italian won from Al Singer several months ago. Canzoneri, however, was not without backers who figured him to knock out the Whitechapel Windmill early in the scheduled 10-round battle.

Both titles will be at stake, Berg having weighed in at the lightweight limit, 135 pounds, yesterday.

The fans have not stormed Stadium ticket offices, but a gate in excess of $60,000 is anticipated.

A change has been made in the supporting card. Ralph Lenny, Union City, N. J., lightweight, was unable to reach Chicago in time and Barney Ross, of Chicago, was substituted as the opponent of Lud Abella, of Spain, in one of the eight-rounders.

VANDERGRIFT SIGNS TARTAN AS COACH

Ted Rosenzweig, star end at Carnegie Tech for three years, has been chosen football coach at Vandergrift High School, succeeding Ham Hudson, who served there for four seasons.

Rosenzweig also will teach academic subjects in the high school, but will coach no sports except football.

He is the first member of Tech's 1930 squad to definitely accept a coaching position for next fall.

Ted Rosenzweig Utterly inexperienced in football when he matriculated at Bellefonte Academy, Ted developed rapidly, and made the varsity team in his sophomore year at Tech. He also enjoyed his greatest success that year, performing exceptionally well in the 1928 victory over Notre Dame, and earning All-America recognition.

His best work has always been done on the offense, catching passes and running Steffen's famous end-around play being his strongest points.

HOCKEY HEAD RESIGNS

OTTAWA, Ont., April 23.—(AP.)—Ham Foran, president of the Senators, hockey club of the National Hockey League, has resigned. He said he took this action to give the Auditorium Board, the only ones financially interested in the Senators, a free hand in dealing with the delicate financial situation.

MARKET DROPS AFTER SLIGHT REBOUND

Effort to Rout Bears Fails And List Plunges to New Low Level for '31

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP.)—A concerted effort to rout the bears in today's stock market failed miserably, and the list plunged to a new low for 1931.

Several prominent issues were bid up 2 to 3 points during the morning, but the advance attracted a large volume of offerings, and by midday sharp shooting from the bear quarter caused abrupt declines in a few isolated issues, which soon unsettled the entire list.

The early advance was wiped out, and numerous losses of 2 to more than 4 points appeared. Then there was a moderate rebound, but prices tapered off and trading turned dull.

Westinghouse Electric and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were also among the first to give way, losing about 3 points. They were joined by American Telephone, Case and McKeesport. U. S. Steel lost an early rise of 2 points and sold off to another new low.

The market's stubborn refusal to rally has been discouraging to the constructive trading faction.

The fact that one of the leading price averages for industrial issues used in Wall street broke to a new low for the bear market yesterday was possibly a factor in the attempt to support the market at this level. Adherents to the Dow theory would regard the decisive penetration of new low ground for the bear market by the industrials as "confirming" the new low for the rails, and indicating that the major trend was still downward. This same theory, however, indicated a major uptrend during the abortive advance earlier in the year, so it cannot be regarded as infallible. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press average still holds well above the December low.

Quarterly earnings statements and estimates of statements soon to apepar are keeping sentiment pretty generally bearish, although the low state of corporate earnings has been well understood for some time. United States Steel is expected to report next week first quarter earnings of between 25 and 50 cents a share, but to declare the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75. There seems little prospect of any considerably better showing for the second quarter, however, and Wall Street wonders how long the Steel Corporation will dip into surplus to maintain its dividend on the current basis. Westinghouse Electric's report of a first-quarter deficit of about $2,880,000 was perhaps a little larger than expected.

Underlying credit conditions eased a little with the Federal Reserve Bank's reduction of ½ of 1 per cent in its bill buying rate, possibly to check the flow of gold from Paris. At any rate, sterling was sufficiently strengthened to suggest the possibility of diverting the outgoing Paris gold movement to London.

March Income Tax Figures Decrease

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Final income tax figures for March show that the total was $329,557,755, compared with $555,744,639 for March, 1930. For the March quarter the total was $398,541,054, as compared with $628,079,467 for the first quarter of 1931.

Total income tax collections from July 1 to March 31, was $1,505,853,156, against $1,812,682,396 a year previous.

Jersey Standard Cuts Bunker Fuel

NEW YORK, April 23.—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has reduced the price of bunker fuel oil at Boston, New York, Baltimore and Norfolk, Va., 10 cents a barrel to 95 cents and 10 cents a barrel to 90 cents at Charleston, effective today.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Dunhill International reports for year 1930 net profit of only $21,257 after depreciation and federal taxes, equal to 14 cents a share on 145,806 shares, against 772,565, or $5.47 a share on 141,585 shares in 1929.

Hercules Powder Company reports for March quarter net profit of $216,459 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., against $731,535 in the first quarter 1930.

Seaman Bros., Inc., March quarter net profit was $117,275 after charges and federal taxes, equal to 94 cents a share on 125,000 no-par shares, against $132,376 or $1.06 a share in the March, 1930, quarter.

Perfect Circle Company, manufacturer of piston rings, reported net earnings of $126,184 for the first quarter, compared with $134,489 for the like quarter of 1930.

Delaware and Hudson Company for 1930 reports net of $4,693,234, which is equivalent to $9.10 a share, compared with $7,808,712 or $15.14 a share for 1929.

Caterpillar Tractor Company net profit for March quarter was $1,041,345 after depreciation, interest, federal taxes, etc., as against $3,365,832 in the first quarter 1930.

Air Reduction Company in the first quarter, 1931, earned $1.21 a share on 841,288 shares, against $1.98 a share on 770,402 shares in the like period in 1930.

Bessemer and Lake Erie Company and leased lines report for year 1930 net income of $4,849,120 after taxes and charges, against $7,086,656 in 1929.

Newton Steel Company reports for March quarter, net loss of $67,943 after depreciation, interest, etc., compared with net profit of $287,581 in the first quarter of 1930.

Lambert Company reports for March quarter consolidated net profit of $2,110,367 after charges and taxes, based on 95.8 per cent present ownership of stock of the Lambert Pharmacal Company and including Pro-Phy-Lac-Tic Brush Company. This is equal to $2.81 a share on 748,996 shares and compares with net profit on a similar basis of $2,068,267 or $2.76 a share in the first quarter of 1930.

MARKET RULES ON LISTINGS

NEW YORK, April 23.—The New York Stock Exchange announced a sweeping revision of its listing requirements for investment trust shares and, along with its new requirements, issued a list of cogent observations as to investment trust practices.

One of the outstanding recommendations of the exchange is that directorates of investment trusts should include independent individuals, not directly connected with the management of the trust or its backing sponsors, to guard against the possibility or the suspicion of questionable transactions between the trusts and their sponsors.

Furthermore, the stock exchange has taken a decided stand against the pyramiding of investment trusts, through certain trusts acquiring control of others.

The exchange also offers objections to the purchase by investment trusts of their own common stocks, when they have outstanding preferred issues or bonds.

Car Foundry's Results For Fiscal Year to Be Disappointing

American Car and Foundry's results for the fiscal year to end April 30, 1931, will be disappointing for the company has been hard hit, not alone by curtailed buying of cars, but by reduced income from its investments and miscellaneous activities. In six months ended October 31, 1930, the company had net income of $1,859,761, equal after preferred dividends to $1.35 a share for 600,000 shares of common. With its principal business unprofitable, operations for the past six months probably have eliminated much, if not all, of common share earnings reported in the first half of the fiscal year.

General Motors will probably make known its first quarter results some time late next week, and while it is not expected that profits will be sufficient to cover the 75-cent dividend requirements for the quarter, the showing is expected to be relatively favorable. Wall street is looking for a balance equal to between 60 and 65 cents a share on the stock, and is confident that earnings this quarter will be sufficient to bring total results for the first half year to a figure slightly in excess of dividend requirements for the period.

The remarks of Gen. W. W. Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad, anent the current situation, and his recommendations for clearing the way to a return to better times elicited much favorable comment in the financial district. The consensus was that he had summed up the situation on the basis of plain facts and offered his recommendations accordingly. Some commentators were quick to point out that the demise of the bull market and the last cycle of prosperity followed closely on the heels of the adoption of the present higher tariff schedules in the early summer of 1929. It will be recalled quite readily perhaps that the tariff matter and likewise the installment buying system, of which Mr. Atterbury had considerable to say, were matters which came in for much discussion a year or two back.

A majority in Wall street have now become reconciled to the prospect of a "selling climax" in the speculative market before anything in the way of a formidable rally can be anticipated. It is pointed out that such a development would be in line with established precedent. A study of the market's movements shows that invariably the turnover on a volume day on the selling side is heavier than the total of a given day's transactions at the climax of a period of rising prices. Since the current decline got under way the market has on several occasions approached a climax, but in each instance a day of volume selling has been averted by the development of short-lived rallying tendencies. Most observers, however, now concede that it is unlikely that a selling climax will be avoided in this instance.

Studebaker has been conducting a campaign for more business among its stockholders. The corporation states in a letter that no doubt the shareholders contributed to the shipments of 7,011 cars in March, the largest for any month since September, 1929. The March shipments were 11 per cent in excess of those for the corresponding month of 1930 and 64 per cent ahead of February, 1931.

Magma Copper's profit of $111,425 in the first quarter was equal to about 28 cents a share, or 22 cents less than the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a shares. In other words, Magma had to draw on surplus to the extent of nearly $90,000 to meet its full dividend. That does not mean heavy inroads on surplus, as Magma at the close of last year had cash and investment securities of approximately $4,000,000, equal to nearly $10 a share.

Sues Budd Wheel For Big Royalties

DETROIT, April 23.—A suit for $1,000,000 against Budd Wheel Company has been filed in Circuit Court by counsel for Charles Hudson Machen, of Ardmore, Pa. The suit is for royalties, alleged to be due on a patentable rolling tapered steel disc wheel perfected by Machen.

WESTINGHOUSE SHOWS LOSS

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company reports for March quarter a deficit of $2,885,945, compared with net income of $4,546,618 in the first quarter of 1930.

Orders booked during the quarter amounted to $30,100,410, against $47,150,196 a year ago, while sales billed were $27,837,160, compared with $45,043,934.

A statement issued by the company says:

"Prospects for the future are somewhat brighter, as economies will have cumulative effect on future operations, and January orders booked have substantially increased, though still at a rate considerably under normal."

March Plate Glass Production Higher

Production of polished plate glass in the United States during March was 10,592,923 square feet, compared with 8,881,520 square feet in February and 10,415,644 square feet in March, 1930. This makes a total of 26,795,118 square feet produced in the first quarter of 1931, against 30,238,017 square feet produced in the first quarter of 1930.

ANNOUNCERS CAN'T RISK SUDDEN COUGH

Robert L. Longstreet

BOB Longstreet, one of the youngest announcers, never risks coughing while "on the air." Of Pertussin he says, "We radio people have learned to have this wonderful quick remedy always near the microphone."

Radio performers prefer Pertussin because it relieves a cough so quickly. It is safe and pleasant to take, and for 30 years doctors have prescribed it for children and adults.

"Makes me sure my voice will be natural and clear"

Antony Stanford

What We Get for Nothing, Even Love, Valueless

And that it's a Grand and Glorious thing to Defy the Law and Give everything For Love.

Bonnie thought so too, once. When her Prince Charming suggested that it wasn't necessary to get married, she fell for his line, and gave him all she had of innocence and faith and devotion.

And now—?

Promised Marriage

Well, it's an old, old story. But it's a terribly tragical new story to each foolish girl who lives it. If you are such a girl . . . if you, too, think you can do without the protection of convention, listen—and learn:

"Dear Sally:

"My head is in such a whirl that I can't think, and life seems to be just spinning away out of my reach. I wonder if you can't help me. I am simply desperate, and I don't know what to do.

"I once was an innocent, trusting girl . . . but now I am just a cast-off toy, with a broken heart, and I hope that you can give me some honest advice, for I have no one else to turn to.

"I fell in love, when I was 19, with a man seven years my senior. I love him so much that I have given him every bit of myself—heart, soul and body, and now I know I am losing him.

"He promised that some day he would marry me. I know you will say that he is like all men. But I was so young then—and when you are young, a man can turn your head so easily, if you are lonely, and you love him.

Still Loves Him

"Oh, I didn't want to be bad! I gave everything because I loved him. I am so unhappy now! I would stop right now, but I think I am too far gone.

"I have asked and begged him to marry me . . . but he just laughs at me. He says that I am 'not the kind of girl he wants for his wife, or for the mother of his children!' But in spite of everything, I still love him.

"I have been awfully sick and the doctor says that if I don't go away I won't last long. But I can't go away from him. I am afraid that if I do somebody will take him from me. He is living with me, but I know that during the time he is not with me he is out with others. And he says that if I do go, I can't come back. And my love mustn't die—even if I have to.

"Oh, please tell me! What shall I do? Shall I go away, and take the chance of losing him? Or shall I stay with him? I don't see how I can live without him.

"Please help me! I need it so. BONNIE."

You poor frightened kid!

Yes, I know how loneliness and love trapped you . . . and how brave it seemed to "prove your love" by giving yourself to one who pays neither price nor penalty.

But the things we get for nothing mean little to us, child. And love is no exception.

You made yourself cheap . . . and he holds you cheap. A man values that which he fights for, which he wins in the face of competition. He wants a woman to be his woman . . . the woman he has won in the eyes of the world. But he didn't have to win you.

Must Be Spunky

I am not saying these things to taunt you, little girl. You're not cheap to me. You're pitiful and sweet. But before you can ever find or hold happiness again, you must realize how and why you lost it.

You lost it because you put no value on yourself. You'll never find it again until you do bring back your value and restore your self-respect.

And you'll never do that by continuing to live with this cad. He thinks less of you every day you stay with him—and each day he'll grind you deeper into the mud. Even if you could force him to marry you, that wouldn't alter conditions. He'd still despise and abuse you.

And you, yourself, would find no joy in such a "love." For it isn't "love" for either of you. It's only a shameful habit, as vicious an indulgence as dope or booze.

If you want to be happy again, you must do what you should have done in the first place. Stop being a "cast-off toy." Be a woman—charming and spunky, but also rare and difficult. Make yourself mysterious once more, and valuable. It will be hard. It is always hard to shake free from laziness and cowardice and self-indulgence. But life will mean nothing to you, and you will mean nothing to men, until you do.

Relaxation— -:- -:- 1931 Brand

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

We've changed the meaning of that word—or rather we are managing to get relaxation, such as it is, out of the very opposite of that word—relaxation.

Let's see what relaxation means. Repose, silken ease, unstrained, cessation, respite, running away. And its opposite means stress, strain, fever, acceleration, banging away.

Mimi and Fifi and plain Jane nowadays take their ease in a chic little bed-jacket after the toil of the 1931 day is over, with the gentle companionship of the doings of the world in fact and fiction. Which means the zig-zag covers of current thrillers and startling news stories.

And at the witching hour of two fifteen A. M. Mimi and Fifi and Jane sit up, thoroughly relaxed with eyes like saucers and an ear as fine as a mouse's for creaks and scrabblings in the wood-work of the house, their nerves a-jump and their brains in a whirl.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Little skinny slimps who would build themselves busts and fill out their arms should down one quart of milk a day. If cream is added, so much the better. At bedtime they should have a bowlful of crackers and milk. At breakfast they must face and conquer a good sized dish of breakfast food garnished with plenty of sugar and cream.

Many a woman fancies that swollen tissues under the eyes denote heart disease or kidney troubles. Sometimes they do, but the chances are that these puffs are inherited and mean nothing at all. Alternating applications of hot and cold water will discourage them. A light massage with a rotary motion of the finger tips is helpful.

When rouge is applied to the cheeks, it should have no defined border. Let the color do a proper fade away. It is when rouge is spotty that the face looks hard and haggard. Lip rouge should be placed upon the inner surface as well as the outer one of the lips. Also, it should be left pedaled. Loud howling makeup is passe. Old stuff!

No use spending money on treatments for lines between the eyes if the frowning habit goes on. Frowns are facial clouds that are driven away by the sunshine of amiability. If they have already dug in anoint with a heavy cream and give them a light tapping with the finger tips. Freeze 'em out by froning with a piece of ice. Hot water should never be used on a wrinkled skin. Too relaxing.

If fat has settled on ankles that should be svelte and slender, the afflicted one can buy rubber anklets which, by producing perspiration, break down adipose tissue. Massage is of help. It must be vigorous, and treatments should be given daily. Lifting up on the toes and coming down slowly on the heels, is an exercise that tightens slack muscles and drives extra inches away.

Madge Informs Mary About Dicky's Decision

I permitted myself a covert smile at Mary's efficient ruse to get me away from the apartment before Dicky had an opportunity to tax me further as to my whereabouts during the morning. But the amusement back of the smile was quickly blotted out by a qualm of conscience at involving Mary in even so mild a bit of deceit. But, I reminded myself irritably, if Dicky had a temper less hair trigger, there would have been no question of keeping him in ignorance of my journey. I could have told him of Robert Savarin's legacy to me in trust for Lillian and have asked his advice about it.

"Nifty foot work, that, don't you think?" Mary preened herself, as we walked to the elevators. "Of course he isn't satisfied, but he's going out directly, he says, and he'll be gone by the time we get back to the apartment. And by the time he gets back, perhaps he'll have forgotten all about it."

There was no chance of Dicky's forgetting. I told myself grimly, if he saw Edith Fairfax, as he undoubtedly would, before he returned to the apartment. I could not imagine my husband's business partner passing up an opportunity for mischief such as her glimpse of me coming from a through train of the New York Central road at the Grand Central Station, would afford her. But, there was no end to be gained by worrying over the matter. Mary's reaction to Colin Cameron's offer of a part in his next talkie production was the most important issue at hand.

The dining room was nearly empty, but I chose a table in the far corner, next the window, that we might be out of all possible earshot when the waitress was not in attendance. And when our luncheon was completed, I stretched my hand appealingly across the table to my husband's lovely young niece.

"Mary, dear," I said softly. "This is the best time we'll have to talk over that offer from Colin Cameron."

She turned her eyes full upon my face, and I saw in them a hint of defiance, a half-unconscious preparation for battle.

"I suppose that means you and Uncle Dicky have talked it over," she said.

"Yes, dear, we have."

"Well?" She threw back her shoulders, straightened herself in her chair. "What's the verdict, thumbs up, or down."

"Your uncle used the same phrasing in giving his decision," I said. "I'm sorry if it disappoints you, Mary, but he said 'thumbs down'."

She stiffened and did not reply for several seconds. Then she said quietly, "Why?"

"He had several reasons," I returned. "But the primary one should be plain to you."

"But it isn't." There was a distinct catch of her breath at the last word.

"I think we have agreed, tacitly, at least, that Mr. Veritzen is planning something to discredit you with Noel."

"Something he never can do," Mary's head lifted itself proudly.

"That I grant you, but you certainly do not wish to play directly into the older man's hands. I have been watching things very closely, Mary, and I am confident that Mr. Veritzen brought Colin Cameron to that dinner to meet you and practically asked for an invitation to your party for him because of some scheme he had concocted with Cameron. Do you need to have me tell you what that scheme probably is?"

Mary flushed then paled as rapidly.

"I suppose you mean that the old buzzard thinks I'll fall for God's gift to matinee girls, and give Noel the run-around?"

"Something of the sort." I returned repressing the distaste I feel for the vocabulary—or lack of it—of the younger generation. "But, don't you see Mary dear, that's the reason why we can't approve of your accepting this offer of Cameron's. If it were a bona fide one with no sinister shadow of Philip Vertizen beside it, our answer might be different. But young Cameron is palpably only a mouthpiece for Veritzen. And if, after you took the role, Noel's father decided to smash you, there would be plenty of opportunity for him to do it. I know it's hard, sweetheart," as I saw her lips quivering pitifully, "but not so hard to endure as other possible things might be if you took this offer."

I kept my eyes averted from hers as I finished and then pretended to be very busy with the food on my plate. I caught the sound of a stifled sob, and knew that she had dashed her hand across her eyes more than once. But it was less than a minute when she answered me in a voice swept clear of emotion.

"All right. I see everything. I might have known. You needn't worry. I'll tell him I can't take it. Or rather, will you tell him? I never want to see Colin Cameron again. I was so sure this meant a chance to earn real money and help Noel out. But I warn you, Auntie Madge. The first time I get a chance even remotely resembling that one which does not have old Phil Vertizen back of it, I'm going to grab it."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Most Skin Irritations Respond to Treatment

Itching of the skin from the presence of a parasite is known as "scabies." For some unconfirmed reason, it is believed to occur every year for seven years. This popular idea gave rise to the name, "seven-year itch."

Dr. Copeland

Scabies is caused by a small parasite called the "acarus scabiei." It burrows into the skin, producing decided irritation. A sort of rash develops in consequence. There is marked itching, usually at night.

If the skin is examined closely, tiny furrows may be seen. The parasite causes this by its burrowing. As a rule, the skin is reddened and scratched in the attempts of the victim to relieve the severe itching.

Any part of the body may be involved. The rash is most commonly found between the fingers and under the arms.

The disease is frequently met in institutions, in certain families, and among soldiers on a campaign. It is transferred by contact from one individual to another.

Cases that are not treated properly may last for a long time. It is not true, however, that they last seven years. Any itching of the skin that has persisted for this length of time is not scabies.

Itching of the skin may be caused by many things. Such diseases are numerous and often lead to much discomfort. If you have persistent itching it is best to consult a physician. He will advise you and outline the necessary treatment.

In scabies, the favorite treatment is the application of sulphur. Sulphur destroys the parasite and prevents the spread of the infection.

The sulphur is prescribed in the form of an ointment. But, of course, it should not be used without the advice of your physician. Many a person has a delicate and tender skin which may become markedly irritated by sulphur.

When it is proper to use it, the ointment is applied over the entire body just before retiring. Upon arising in the morning, the night clothes are discarded, to prevent infestation of other clothing. A warm tub and plenty of sulphur soap and a stiff brush are then used in removing the ointment. This procedure is repeated at night until the infection has entirely disappeared.

As a rule, scabies quickly responds to treatment. The afflicted person should remember that the infection is easily transmitted to others.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Important Privilege Of Parents

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to be married soon and as both my parents live quite some distance away, neither will be able to attend the wedding which will be held at the groom's home, which is also out of town a short distance. There will be no guest except my brother and the groom's parents and the bridal party. How would you word the announcement cards? Should my parents announce it, or should I?

2. I am going to wear a corsage. Should the bridesmaid wear one too? B. A.

1. Your parents should announce your marriage. This is especially important for you to have done, under the circumstances. It is not considered good form for a marriage to take place at the groom's home, and so, if you are making this plan, you should take special pains to have your marriage announced in the conventional way, by your parents. The fact that they are not to attend the wedding makes no difference in this.

2. Yes.

A Letter of Good News Deserves a Reply

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have just received a letter from the president of the college which our daughter is attending congratulating us on an outstanding average grade which she made during the last semester. Does this letter require an answer, and if so, what should be its contents?

MRS. D.

Yes, this letter of such good news does require an answer, just as soon as you can get one to him. Thank him for his kind letter, and tell him how much you appreciate his sharing the good news with you in such an especially friendly way.

And by the way, be most careful of the signature to your letter to him. Your signature in your letter to me needs a bit of correction, and I am taking the privilege of telling you so that you will make your signature in the letter to him a perfect one. It should be like this:

Very sincerely yours,
Mary Graham Downes.

How would you like to lose 19 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose a load of unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh—then get an 85-cent bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—cut out pastry and fatty meats—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you can laugh at the people who pay hundreds of dollars to lose a few pounds of fat—now you will know the safe, swift and pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 salts of Kruschen (Salts that you blood, nerves and glands should possess to function properly)—have presented you with glorious health.

After that you'll want to walk around and say to your friends, "One 85-cent bottle of Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat person's money."

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts. Buy one bottle with the distinct understanding that you will be joyfully satisfied or money back.

Mrs. C. L. of Shepardsville, Kentucky, writes: "I have reduced 24 pounds in 31 days with Kruschen and I ate three meals a day." Your druggist knows all about Kruschen.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, April 24

A rather perlexing state of affairs is read from the important operations among the major planets. And while there is sign of great opportunity for advancement and attainment of high goals yet there may be stubborn opposition and obstacles, together with a sudden precipitation of a disintegrating force.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very important year, with excellent openings for attaining the ambitions and enhancing the fortune, but there may be stubborn obstacles with impediments and danger from sudden precipitated devastating forces.

A child born on this day should be prepared for a career of splendid achievements accompanied by tenacious obstacles and sudden visitations and impediments. It should eventually win through its ambitions, high ideals and tenacity and shrewdness.

CHILDREN'S SYSTEMS

LET Dr. Caldwell help whenever your child is feverish or upset; or has caught cold.

His simple prescription will make that bilious, headachy, cross boy or girl comfortable, happy, well in just a few hours. It soon restores bowels to healthy regularity. It helps "break-up" a cold by keeping the bowels free from sickening mucus waste.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is ideal for children. They like its syrupy taste. It does not gripe; never weakens them. It is safe even for a tiny baby.

You have a famous doctor's word for this laxative. Dr. Caldwell's record of having attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your drugstore and have it ready. Then you won't have to worry when any member of your family is headachy, bilious, gassy or constipated. Syrup Pepsin is good for all ages. It acts quickly; doesn't sicken. It sweetens the bowels; increases appetite—makes digestion more complete.

Pimples Itched So Could Not Sleep. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face was covered with pimples that were large and red and after a few days they festered. They were in blotches, mostly upon my forehead and chin, and made me feel embarrassed. The pimples itched so badly at times that I could not sleep. The trouble lasted about four months.

"I tried other remedies without success. A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. It brought relief so I purchased more, and after using about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Margaret Statzula, Perryopolis, Pa., March 22, 1930.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

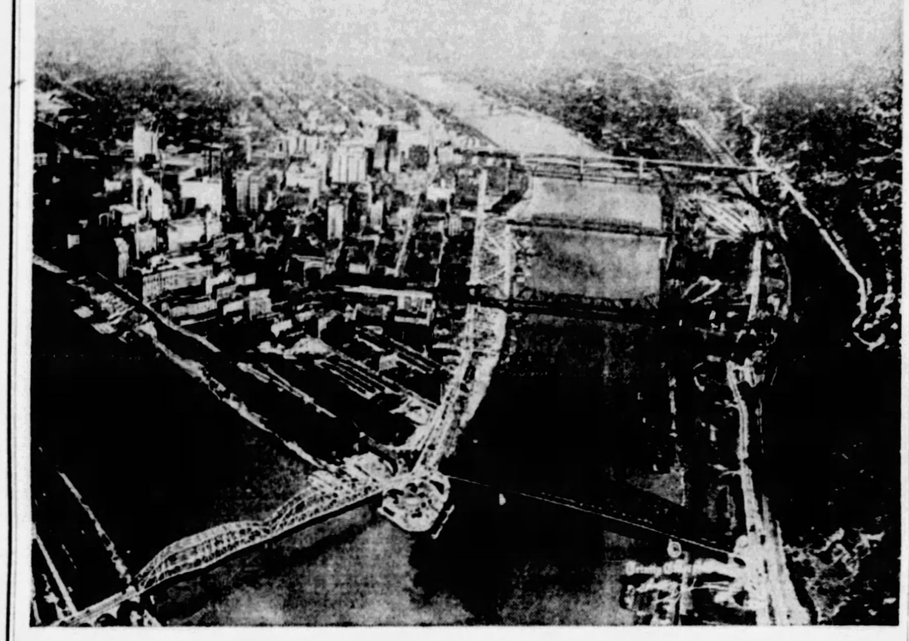
COME TO PITTSBURGH

GOME to Pittsburgh and join in the festivities of Hospitality Days! See the rich historical sights, the campus and colleges of Oakland, the cultural center of the state; see the great mills and factories, the beautiful residential districts, the libraries and great schools; visit the theaters, the amusement centers, and watch the Pirates play the Cubs at Forbes Field. Visit the great metropolitan department stores and the modern shops. Pittsburgh is having "Open House" for its neighbors. It will pay you to come to Pittsburgh on Hospitality Days. Railroads and bus lines are running special excursions at reduced fares. Theaters are offering special attractions on these two great days—April 24th and 25th. Bring the whole family. Count on doing your shopping in Pittsburgh—for there will be bargains that you can't afford to miss. See the things you've always wanted to see. The Great Cathedral of Learning—the Grant and Koppers buildings. The world-famous educational center in Oakland—Pitt and Tech and Duquesne. Inspect the broadcasting studios as our guest. Visit the shopping centers of the Golden Triangle, North Side and East Liberty. Come to Pittsburgh Friday and Saturday. The welcome mat is out.

HOSPITALITY DAYS
April 24-25 1931

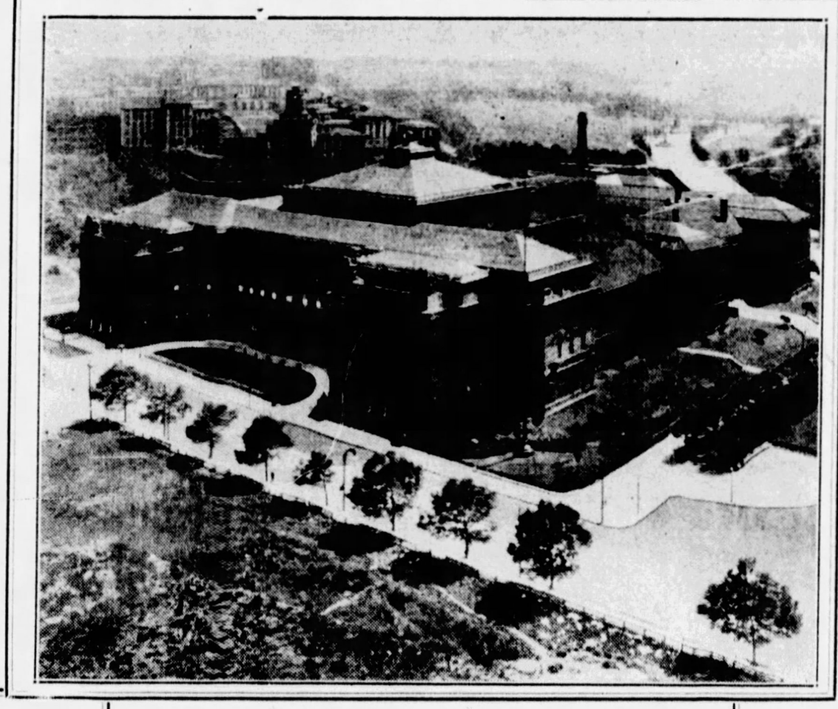


The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Blue Ridge Bus Lines are offering specially reduced rates on their transportation lines during Hospitality Days. Pittsburgh-and-return excursions on bus lines of the Blue Ridge System and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company will offer visitors round-trip tickets, good for the two days, at only 10 cents more than the usual fare one way. These tickets, to be procured from coach drivers, will be good for residents of all points on the lines beyond the 25-cent zone.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company will offer daily passes good on all lines in the first fare zone for 25 cents. Passes good in the second zone for unlimited riding on each day will be offered for 40 cents.

Sight-Seeing Tours

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company also will conduct sight-seeing tours. Coaches leaving Fifth Avenue and Liberty Avenue, Friday and Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, will carry visitors over a route embracing most interesting points of the city. A nominal charge of $1 has been agreed to.



Pittsburgh—City of Wonders

By PENELOPE REDD

The Junior League has given an unexpected impetus to local exhibitions in the collection of the paintings of Eduard Goerg from the Marie Harriman Gallery in New York.

Goerg exerted a wayward charm in his three paintings included in the last Carnegie International. This French-Irish, Australian-born, English educated, European - traveled painter proffers overpow'ering stimulation to the Pittsburgh eye.

Penelope Redd

His is a talent strange to our modes of aesthetic perception. His figures have the complex glamour of the creatures in Cocteau's erotic tales. He is an Arthur Davies on the other side of madness.

This score of paintings by Goerg resemble a darling version of the provoking maidens of Marie Laurencin. They are a temptation to the amateur psycho-analysts.

EERIE ELUSIVENESS

The distorted heroines of Goerg's paintings with their opaque black eyes whose expressions simulate the ever-present anemone blossoms in his paintings, have the effect of adolescence in suspense.

"The Embarrassment of Choice," a brainless beau and a group of women looking like a butterfly surrounded by flowers, is almost a burlesque of a bitter satire by Daumier. Another of the same genre is "The Joy of Living" with a silly woman whose piquant fox neckpiece emphasizes her shrewd expression, while her vacant-eyed escort's expression is sharply accented by a grotesque passerby.

ACHIEVES BEAUTY

At other times, Goerg has a Whistlerian innocence as in "The Sea Shore" or the "Young Girl with a Bouquet," where the utmost and exquisite tonal harmonies capture the sensuous eye.

As a painter, however, particularly in his details of flowers, he achieves absolute beauty. Goerg's show will continue through the next 10 days at the Junior League galleries.

Byrd Spurns Dog As Successor To Igloo

When he arrived here to make his first lectures since his fox terrier died in Boston, he was offered another dog. He wrote in reply:

"I appreciate the proposed gift just as much as if I could accept it, but I cannot.

"Your kindness calls for an explanation from me. It is this: Igloo cannot be replaced."

Admiral Byrd has not decided when Igloo will be buried. He wants to attend the burial but does not know if that will be possible.

Suspect in Strip Stabbing Arrested

Ellis Lewis, 24, Negro, of 4506 Lorrigan street, was arrested today by police who accused him of being the man who slashed James McDermott, 35, of 3720 Liberty avenue, during a fight in the Strip Tuesday night. McDermott, a former city policeman, was stabbed in the back six times and his left wrist was nearly severed.

The fight occurred in Mulberry way between Negroes and white men. Police arrested a companion of McDermott's and three Negroes at the time of the fight. Lewis, police say, admitted stabbing the former policeman.

THE SECRET SIX -:- By Frances Marion

Scorpio Arrested After Fatal Shooting

Then the meaning of it all penetrated his slow mind. With a shrill yelp of rage he dove at Newton, fists flying.

"It's a lie! It's a lie!" he yelled. He struggled for an instant to reach the lawyer, then went down under a hail of fists.

"Certainly," stated Newton. "That is Mr. Scorpio. He (indicating Vronski) almost got Scorpio, too. Shot at him first, then plugged Johnny Franks."

Reporters Doubtful

"He has been," sharply interrupted the sergeant. "Open and shut case."

He turned to Newton.

Was this guy trying to send him up?

"Him and me was bosom pals," mourned Scorpio. He turned to other members of Franks' gang, standing in the doorway, held back by a cordon of officers. "Ain't it the truth, boys?" he demanded.

Vronski clung hysterically to his captors. He read death in the gaze of the hard-eyed gangsters. He knew that never had he been so close to death as now.

He felt weak. His wounds were bleeding afresh. He was afraid he would faint.

"Better take me out of this—I'd better see a doctor," he informed the sergeant. "You know the dirty rat almost got me, too."

The policeman nodded understandingly. He could see plainly that the big fellow was suffering.

Scorpio and Vronski, handcuffed to their captors, were led to the patrol wagon. The plainclothesmen and reporters searched the table, desk and closet in which Vronski had hidden. Newton, donning his hat and taking up his stick, nonchalantly stepped to the door.

Peaches Feigns Grief

"Must see about bail for Scorpio," he remarked as he passed.

Peaches, in the restaurant below, watched with alarm. She had been told Johnny was dead, and her face was tear-streaked. The gangsters followed behind, as the officers and prisoners passed.

"Buck up, Slaughterhouse! We'll be waiting for you, big boy," were the words she heard as Scorpio was led out.

She knew now—Scorpio was to be the big boss from now on!

A calculating look replaced the counterfeit of grief that had suffused her hard but handsome countenance. For Peaches knew on which side her bread was buttered.

Peaches emerged from the restaurant door, and the last thing he saw was the woman, looking after him, on her face a faint smile.

"A while back," she recited bitterly—almost as though she were talking to herself—"he offered me a job—a nice, respectable job."

He glanced at the gangsters about the room, then turned back to the girl.

"You haven't got another apple, have you?" he inquired.

DAILY TRUE STORY — Look at the Date

Business Depression Leads To Unusual Romance

There had been a time when Hamilton Jordon was happy and sufficiently prosperous to be a stranger to worries.

Also, the same could be said in all truth of Miranda Pearson.

The well-known, sincerely regretted hard times, referred to by bankers and their ilk as a temporary business depression, had surely hit Hamilton Jordan and Miranda Pearson a terrific jolt.

Miranda had gone to New York to make her fortune. She had secured employment in a large store.

Jordan had come to the city and opened up a very modest little provision shop.

Hired as Waiter

Two chain stores coming along either side of Jordan's little place had simply crowded him out. It was the ancient story — he couldn't buy his stock, much of it, at least, as cheaply as the chain stores could actually afford to retail them.

Being an honest young man, he managed to square up everything. It wasn't in his makeup to think of having a great bargain sale far below cost, pocketing the cash and disappearing.

And so he had about $3 and no store and no job.

He found a job, however. He wasn't proud of it and he hoped that the few relatives back home would never hear of it. He became one of an army of waiters in the half a hundred Blue Platter cafes.

Tips were small and work was hard, but Jordan was keeping alive, which was something in the time of long breadlines.

About this time many of the big stores "retrenched"—a polite word for discharging about 20 per cent of their employes. And the newer employes were naturally the ones to be let out.

This let Miranda Pearson out.

Miranda was of the opinion that she had to keep on living, and she soon found that there wasn't a ghost of a chance for a position in any other stores.

She got a job in the Steenth Street Blue Platter Cafe. Her job consisted of washing dishes and then washing more dishes. A dishwasher may exist, but that is about all, and while Miranda was grateful that she had a tiny room to sleep in and was eating regularly, she was far from happy.

Scott Delaney was the manager of this cafe. Scott was happy because he made a decidedly good salary and because he enjoyed being a boss.

Miranda had been washing dishes there three months before she had said more than a dozen words to Jordan.

Delaney was bawling Jordan out.

"Cut that gabbing to our patrons, Ham," he said to Jordan.

Delaney discovered that she was what he called a "pretty kid."

He couldn't afford to lower his dignity and his social standing by fraternizing with a dishwasher, not openly, but he managed to make a few tries to date her up.

Secretly in Love

Now take Hamilton Jordan—that was different. He came from Max Meadows which was near Kent's Mills. She knew some of his distant relatives and he knew some of her people. She didn't know exactly where the little Jordan farm was located, but she did know that it was quite safe to let Hamilton Jordan date her up.

Once in a great while they went to a cheap movie. More often they took a bus ride or a walk or sat on the old sofa in the "sitting room" of the cheap rooming house where Miranda lived.

"It's tough, being here now," Jordan said one Sunday as they were walking through the park when the grass was just getting a green tinge.

"Just as soon as I can save enough money to get some clothes and railroad fare I'm going home, Ham."

"Don't blame you. And as soon as I can save enough to buy seed and a little stock for my farm I'm going back and stay there."

"It will take so long," Miranda mourned.

"Oh, dear."

"Look here, Miranda, couldn't—er—why shouldn't—what I mean is, why not get married and go and live on my farm?"

Influential Man

"I'd love to, Ham—but what can we use for money while waiting for crops and things?"

"We might get married, anyway, Miranda, and save together."

"Let's think it all over for another week, Ham."

"But we will be married soon, won't we, dear?"

"Yes—oh, yes—"

And a lot more talk relating mostly to love and what-not but mostly to love.

Meanwhile back to Monday's drudgery.

But there were signs of happiness in the offing now, despite the drudgery, and just as soon as they could solve the "what-shall-we-use-for-money" problem they would be bound for Max Meadows and Reed Creek and happiness.

For several months now Jordan had the best corner in this cafe, and as it was downtown and catered to the market bunch, the mid-day rush was terrific.

Luke Brandon, known down there among the ticker-tape watchers as "Lucky Luke," came in every day to this cafe and had one of the corner tables. He always had three or four of his friends with him.

It was reputed that he had been on the bear side of the market when it fell into a hole and dragged the hole down with it. Brandon was shot with luck, his friends declared. And he loved to talk about it and to be sporty—he was especially keen on being called a real sport.

He was good for a dollar tip, which Jordan appreciated.

Keeps Promise

One day he came in with four friends. He was noisy and jolly and puffed up with a lot of ego. He had made some extra money that very morning.

Jordan stood by to take his order. Brandon liked to call Jordan "boy" and to crack his line. "A waiter is the lowest form of animal life," when a waiter could hear it.

"You dropped this, Mr. Brandon," Jordan said.

Brandon looked at it and then at Jordan. Then he lowered an eyelid.

"You've got to come swifter than that, boy—to fool me," he said.

"But you did drop it, Mr. Brandon—"

Brandon grabbed a morning paper. He stuck it in Jordan's face.

"Look at the date—April 1. Now get back to jabbing your thumb in the soup and don't try to play around with a live wire," Brandon snapped at him.

"But, Mr. Brandon, you did drop—"

"Look here, listen, boy. For every dollar in that thing I'll give you another dollar—and if there isn't any money in it you'll serve me here every noon for six months without a tip—now trump that proposition!"

"Can't fool Lucky Luke," one of his friends said.

Jordan opened the bill fold. Inside was stamped L. J. Brandon, in gold, and in one of the pockets was the sum of eight hundred dollars—mostly in hundreds, with a few fifties and twenties.

"If you think I'm a poor sport or a welcher you're all crazy," he said.

Jordan and Miranda quit after the noon rush and went over to the marriage bureau. A couple days later, after making many purchases, they were aboard the N. & W. headed for a place called Max Meadows.

New Charter Bill Out

Coyne Measure Proposes Amendment to Permit Making City of County.

Sponsored by Senator James J. Coyne, a Senate bill to make a metropolitan city of the whole of Allegheny County, has been reported from committee. It involves a constitutional amendment, previous to which it would have to pass at two sessions of the General Assembly, final decision being at the discretion of voters of the county at either a special or general election.

The chief difference between this metropolitan charter proposal and the last one is in the vote required for adoption, the Coyne bill providing for a simple majority in a majority of the cities, boroughs and townships of the county.

The conditions under which the last charter was submitted required that it obtain a majority in the county as a whole, and a majority of two-thirds in a majority of the cities, boroughs and townships.

The sentiment at the last charter election was overwhelmingly in favor of the metropolitan plan but the requirement of a two-thirds vote in 51 per cent of the civic divisions of the county proved too much of a barrier for the success of the project.

It will be a long time before a charter can come before the people under the Coyne measure, even if it should have easy sailing in this and the next session of the Legislature. After that the people of the whole state would have to decide upon dment proposed, as it did in the case of the present ct.

Water Pollution Forum

Visitors Invited to Attend "Hospitality Day" Discussion of Knotty Problem.

An important feature of Pittsburgh "hospitality days" will be an open forum on stream pollution to be conducted by the Civic Club of Allegheny County in the Hotel William Penn Friday afternoon. On its outcome will depend the attitude of the Civic Club on bills now in the Legislature concerning stream pollution. These are the Harris bill, backed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Mansfield administration bill, giving greater power to the Sanitary Water Board of the state, and the Post bill.

Stream pollution is a knotty question. It affects towns using streams for sewage disposal and industries whose wastes drain into streams. Most of all, of course, it affects the people who have to make use of the water from the streams for domestic and industrial purposes. Both people and industries pollute the streams and both are sufferers. The health of people is affected and the interiors of boilers are corroded by acids from mines and other sources.

How to help both and injure both as little as possible in the process will be the motive behind the forum. It will be a good time for all who are interested to discuss the problem on a common debating ground and seek out a way for united action with regard to proposed legislation. There will be technical as well as topical discussion of the subject.

Lang Now Parking Boss

Wharves Turned Over to Works Department in Hope Of More Efficiency.

Operation of the wharves as parking places has been turned over by Council to the Department of Public Works, the Department of Public Safety being relieved. Director Lang is said to be working out a plan.

The action of Council is an intimation that it has found the method prevailing for several years to be unsatisfactory. Inefficiency, we believe, has been alleged. That is not an unfamiliar statement concerning any department of the city administration at present. It is to be hoped that Director Lang will be able to convince the force he will install in place of policemen that Council expects something like the same ability that would mark private operation of the wharves as a parking business.

All Windows, or None?

Architects Differ.

Chicago architects are debating whether buildings of the future will be all windows or completely windowless. Frank Lloyd Wright, designer of the Imperial Hotel in Tokio and other famous structures, thinks the former. The advantages, he points out, are numerous. Dwellers will get plenty of health-giving sunlight, and when privacy is desired they can always pull down the shades.

But, on the other hand, listen to G. E. Pfister, director of the Midwestern Engineering and Power Exposition:

"The first windowless buildings are now being constructed. Ventilation is more easily controlled in this type of structure, and purer and better air can be supplied. Lighting is made uniform and the benefits of sunlight can be obtained by the use of ultra-violet ray lamps. Furnaces can be largely eliminated also, since a single heating plant can supply an area a mile square. No city need have a pall of smoke any longer."

All human beings, the psychologists say, are extroverts or introverts. The extroverts like to look at other people, the introverts prefer to look at themselves. The glass house should appeal to the extroverts as strongly as a windowless building to the introverts. And the rents will be equally high in both.

Sewing classes for boys in some of the high schools and cooking classes for medical students in at least one of the big universities! These are man's answer to woman's battle cry of "freedom!"

What was sauce for the goose is going to be apple-pie for the gander!

* * *

It looks pretty bad for the marriage-license bureau. No man who can wield a baking dish, manipulate a darning needle, and wangle out a pie-crust need feel sorry for himself, now. And, if you can't get a man feeling sorry for himself, how are you going to get him to the altar?

* * *

Half the sentiment a man felt for a woman in the old days was a sentimental pity he felt for his "lonely, helpless" state. Every time the restaurant dinner disagreed with him, or he put his toe through a sock, or the laundry tore all the buttons off his pajamas, he thought tenderly and wistfully of some sweet, motherly girl.

* * *

But, if you can't make a man UNCOMFORTABLE, how are you going to persuade him that he needs a woman's tender care to make him comfortable?

Of course, there are certain domestic tasks of which man will never rob woman. Washing the dishes, for instance. And cleaning out the ash-trays. And putting the winter clothes away in camphor. And counting the laundry.

* * *

When a man has turned out a perfect clam chowder or a beautifully broiled steak, or a lovely lobster Newburgh, he can call in all the neighbors to admire and sample his handiwork.

* * *

Still, you never can tell how far men will go. When woman freed herself from her dependence on man, by learning how to go out and earn her own living, she STARTED something! She started man pulling the other way.

* * *

And, once you start a man going in any direction, he keeps right on GOING. Nothing—not even a fire-truck—can stop him! But, if men become so expert with the gas range and the darning-needle that they won't need wives, what will women marry?

THIS CHANGING WORLD

By Archibald Henderson

According to the view of one school of astrophysicists today, the universe is in invisible process of dissolution. If the second law of thermodynamics alone be taken as the criterion, the matter of the universe is invariably being transformed into energy. This energy takes the form of radiation. In a word, the universe is evanescing in radiation. As Jeans puts it, our position is that of polar bears on an iceberg that has broken loose from the ice pack surrounding the pole and is inexorably melting away as the iceberg drifts to warmer latitude and ultimate extinction.

We cannot say with any degree of certainly just how long it will take for all the matter in the universe to be dissipated into radiant energy. As stated by Prof. Henry Norris Russel, of Princeton, Jeans, basing his calculations upon the best available data, finds that if all the matter contained within the region of the spiral nebulae were converted into radiation, and this radiation condemned to wander endlessly about this same region, the average intensity of the radiation would be about that of ordinary moonlight. That is, about 500 times as great as the light of the stars of a clear moonless night.

The average person mentally resents such an inglorious, meaningless end to this universe, which, according to the above assumption, is finite and of given dimensions. There is a natural and almost invincible repugnance to the thought of such inexplicable and futile dissolution of this magnificent, harmonious universe.

There is no hope in such a picture. But radiation, nevertheless, holds out an inspiring promise in the eyes of another school of astrophysicists who see further than the pessimistic view afforded solely by the second law of thermodynamics. The school, of which Prof. Millikan is a leading exponent, finds promise in the strange new cosmic rays of which, as yet, comparatively little is known. These rays are enormously powerful, with a tremendous penetrative force, far greater than anything yet discovered.

What is the birthplace of these mighty instruments of radiation, the cosmic rays? Not in the stars themselves, since their disintegrating force is computably far too small to account for the newly discovered atomic energy of cosmic radiation. The cosmic ray is from 30 to 50 times as powerful as that of the radioactive disintegrations in the stars.

Millikan concludes, largely on spectroscopic evidence, that these cosmic rays are endlessly being built up in interstellar space out of the electrons and protons which he believes, on good grounds, to exist there in great abundance. Thus, as disintegration is constantly reforming, rebuilding itself. The great clock of Nature, if Millikan be right, is continually running down, but, it is just as continually rewinding itself.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

There are certain people you can't get along with.

You've tried for years, but it's No Go.

Yet you won't acknowledge that you're licked. You insist, stubbornly, that things are bound to come right if you try hard enough. So you go on trying . . . fussing around . . . getting into brawls . . . kissing and making up . . . only to start another battle . . . worrying, weeping, wearing yourself and everyone else out.

Doesn't matter whose fault it is. If you can't get along with anyone, there's only one course to pursue—

LEAVE THEM ALONE!

Don't get mad about it. The other fellow has as much right to Be Himself as you have to Be Yourself. He has committed no crime against you if his notions do not happen to jibe with yours. He is really under no obligation to like you and you are under no obligation to like him. And the world will get along just as well if you don't—provided you're both tolerant and generous and fair to each other. Indeed, the world will get along much better if you cut out all this bellyakin, stop pestering each other, get back on your respective jobs and—

LEAVE EACH OTHER ALONE!

And this doesn't mean merely a business associate, or a passing stranger. It may mean your father or mother, your sister or brother, your oldest neighbor. The fact that you share the same parents, the same home, the same street address, is no guarantee that you'll have a single notion in common. You may live with your own family 50 years and yet have less understanding than you have of the man you met yesterday. But what of it? They may be very estimable people even though they do not understand or even like you. You may be a worthy citizen even though you're not keen for them. You all have jobs which are much more important than mutual admiration. Then why waste your life in attempting the impossible? Why insist on "getting along" when you haven't the makings? Be courteous. Be fair. Be thankful, when possible. But—

LEAVE THEM ALONE!

And that means more than leaving them alone with your body. It means leaving them alone with your mind. If you can't get along with people, stop picking them up in your thoughts. Stop wondering what they're going to do to you. Stop wishing you could do something to them. Realize once for all that they're different and that they have a right to be different . . . and that you'll never mix. So stop trying. Stop peeving. Stop sniffling. Forget them and get busy.

"But that seems so cold blooded!" You protest. "We ought to love everyone. Love's the most beautiful thing on earth—"

Sure it is—when you find the real article. But much of our so-called love is simply a fancy title for a lot of high-powered cussedness and silliness. Such as a desire to gabble and gush . . . or a yen to run someone's else life. All of which will buy you nothing but grief. AND YOU HAVE IT COMING TO YOU, IF YOU INDULGE IN THAT SORT OF SAPPINESS OR SNOOTINESS.

Mountain Maid

As one who through the clouds and mists of earth
Beholds afar
Beyond the sounds of tumult and of mirth,
The evening star;
As one who, burned by desert's parching heat,
Sinks to the sands
And finds a thread of water cool and sweet
Beneath his hands;
As ship by ocean's restless fury lashed
Till hope seemed gone,
That sees from lighthouse crest a signal flashed
To guide it on.
So, amid storms and weary wastes of life
Where I have strayed,
The thought of you has kept me through the strife,
My mountain maid.

Text for Today And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.—Genesis, iii:15.

Wise Old England

And a Siam Prince.

PRINCE BIRABONGSE JUMPS, AT ETON

The young person, jumping violently, in an attitude calculated to minimize air resistance, interests you mildly, because his father, King of Siam, is in the United States. He came here to consult doctors about trouble with his eyes. We have in America the best eye experts, as well as the best surgeons in many lines.

The young Prince Birabongse, trying to win the junior long jump at the Eton College sports, whether he won or lost is doing his best. That is all you can ask of anybody, Siamese or American.

From all over the British Empire, the sons of kings, princes, rajahs and others that "rule" under the British thumb come to England for education.

THE BRITISH ARE WISE. Nobody in England makes this young man feel that he is in any way inferior because his face is not as white as that of other boys at Eton.

If he can jump farther than they can, run faster, play cricket better, swim harder, he "is a better man than they are," and they admit it.

Great Britain knows how to manage colonies. She lets the people alone as long as they do what England says, and she treats them as equals.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 23. — Old world visitors usually select Washington square as one of the most idyllic spots on Manhattan Island, preserving the mellowness of its years without shabbiness. Among its diffusing and gentle shadows there is still the glow of old grandeur.

In the tiny square remains the wooden band stand of the small town. If the weather is seasonable weekly concerts are held. Rustic benches fill with bare head mothers and children, dreaming old men and handholding lovers. New York's confusion seems far away.

Yet only a few steps through the arch Stanford White designed and there is the clatter of lower Fifth avenue. Lining the square are red brick homes with wrought iron fences enclosing patches of green and offering that clean lined residential solidity of the smaller city.

Vine-clad porches give a ropy vigorousness and there are fresh lace curtains, gaunt hall clocks and crepuscular basement dining rooms. Cats nap in windows and dogs laze on lawns. The square was the pivotal point of Knickerbocker aristocracy as early as 1840, and never lost that sedate look.

Henry James once wrote while living in the square: "There is an established repose not found in other quarters. The square has a riper, richer, more honorable look than any of the ramifications of the longitudinal thoroughfare — the look of having had something of social history."

Aside from James, Edith Wharton lived there and wrote many of her most enduring pages. O. Henry once resided there. As did Mark Twain and later Harris Merton Lyon, Theodore Dreiser, Will Irwin, Samuel Hopkinson Adams, Samuel Merwin, Sinclair Lewis and many others.

Washington Square is its loveliest in the encircling dusk when streets are deserted and the flame of the Judson cross sweeps the heavens. Children fly down the pavements to meet returning parents. Old mansions light up with a quietly cheerful radiance. And at night friendly dogs bay the moon.

When Ryley Cooper was fishing in Florida recently his companion was a quaint old cracker who told of the shooting of one of the town characters. "Why did they shoot him?" inquired Cooper.

"For overbeariness," was the reply.

Cooper looked puzzled and the cracker explained: "He was the overbearinest feller in the county."

New York has no "Little France" in the manner of its "Little Italy," "Little Hungary" and the like. There are about 30,000 French citizens but they are widely scattered. Cooks and seamen hang out in boarding houses near the West street docks. Servants and hair dressers center between 24th and 34th on 8th avenue. The newest French Colony is on the fringe of Morningside Heights. Et Voila!

Strangers frequently miss the appearance of Chinese women in the squirmy streets of Chinatown. There is a fable they are hidden away in the underground honeycomb. The truth is they are excluded by immigration laws. Chinese often marry West Indian Negresses, Russians and women of the Mediterranean races.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Most folks have a streak of fear.

This fear takes different forms; with some it is fear of defeat; with others fear of accident or sudden death or illness or loss of friends.

You are nervous and have to drive in traffic; fear makes your hand shake and your movements uncertain and you bring about an accident yourself.

You take a trip by rail or boat and worry about a possible wreck till you can't sleep and are listening for any unusual noise or motion.

When any of them are away from home you are constantly imagining the serious things that might confront them or befall them.

You want to make a change in employment, and though everything looks as favorable as one could expect, you fear it may be unsuccessful, so hesitate.

In the past you have decided against things that might have been of great benefit to you if you had allowed yourself to do them. You were afraid to make a start.

All the time you are launching successive waves of distrust of yourself or of others and you need to join yourself to some strain of thought that will give you greater courage and faith in your ultimate goal.

500 Pythians to Attend Rally in Pitcairn

STATE LODGE LEADERS FETED

Members From All Sections To Attend Celebration Open to Public Tomorrow

Pitcairn is prepared to entertain 500 visitors tomorrow night when the Knights of Pythias lodges of the eleventh district stage a boosters' meeting and entertain state officers at the I. O. O. F. Hall.

Guests of the meeting will include Grand Chancellor John C. Wilkes, of Sharon; Benjamin Moore, Philadelphia, keeper of records and seals, and Grand Trustees Goodwin, of Wilkinsburg, and Meyers, of Scranton. The guests will be welcomed by Burgess M. M. Thompson, of Pitcairn.

OPEN TO PUBLIC

The meeting, to be open to the public beginning at 8 p. m., is being directed from the Pitcairn Lodge No. 110 by the district's boosters' committee. Visitors will attend from lodges in Braddock, Homestead, Duquesne, Turtle Creek and Wilmerding.

Commander of the Pitcairn lodge, Homer C. Wilson, will formally open the meeting, turning the chairmanship over to J. W. Salyards, Pitcairn lodge keeper of records and seals. The program, besides addresses by the visiting officials, will include entertainment and a buffet lunch.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Committee members arranging the program under Commander Wilson, chairman, include: Gilbert Reichardt, Karl Salyards, John Holschu, Jr., William D. Hammond and Secretary Salyards.

The Pitcairn lodge will be receiving its first visit of state officials since the inception of the body 28 years ago.

DAYLIGHT TIME STARTS SUNDAY

Daylight saving time will prevail in the East Boroughs and the Westinghouse Valley district with Pittsburgh, clocks being turned one hour ahead at 2 o'clock Sunmorning.

The new time which will prevail through the summer months has been officially ordered by several of the borough councils. Other communities automatically turn the clocks ahead with sanction of the borough.

With Pitcairn's banks and business places conducted on daylight time, many residents will be compelled to operate on the old and new time. This situation is due to many residents being employed by the railroads which operates on standard time, it was explained.

Towns advancing the clocks in this territory include Wilkinsburg, Edgewood, Forest Hills, Swissvale, Rankin, Braddock, North Braddock, Homestead, Munhall, Whitaker, East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek, Wilmerding, Pitcairn, Wall, Chalfant and Trafford.

Duckpin League To Hold Banquet

FIGHT MADE FOR BUS PERMIT

Rails in Poor Condition, Fares Too High, Witnesses Testify at P. S. C. Hearing

Charges that rails of the Pittsburgh Railways Company are in poor condition; that fares are in excess of those contemplated for a new bus route, and that traveling time can be reduced today were on record before the Public Service Commission with the application of Gustave Popper for two bus line permits in the Westinghouse valley district.

The charges were made at the hearing yesterday in the City-County Building before Commissioner S. Ray Shelby. Fifteen witnesses appeared to support Popper's application. Opposition was entered by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, McKeesport Transit Company, bus operators, and David McGill, who has applied for a bus line permit between Irwin and East Pittsburgh.

FARE TO BE 10 CENTS

The bus lines proposed by Popper would operate between East McKeesport and Braddock and East McKeesport and East Pittsburgh. Ten-cent fares each way on both lines will be charged. Popper testified he would run the buses on half-hour schedules at peak hours and that the running time would not exceed 15 minutes.

Witnesses supported his testimony that the present fare by trolley from East McKeesport to Braddock is 50 cents a round trip with traveling time between one and two hours. Passengers are required to board three cars in each direction, he said. Two checks are required for one-way fare between East Pittsburgh and Braddock, it was said, passengers boarding two cars in each direction by changing at Wilmerding.

DECLARES RAILS BAD

Popper charged the rails were in poor condition along the Pittsburgh Railways route.

C. H. Fischer, superintendent of investigations for the railway, outlined the service being rendered by his company and denied the need for additional service as proposed by Popper. He testified that until six months ago, the Tri-Borough Chamber of Commerce operated a shoppers' car from the Wilmerding and East Pittsburgh district. The chamber paid $5 an hour per car and passengers traveled at reduced rates. Fischer asserted this service had to be discontinued by the chamber. He said the venture became unprofitable.

One Braddock businessman, Ross E. Thompson, furniture dealer, supported Popper's application. It was brought out that school children would benefit by the proposed bus line through quicker transportation and cheaper fares.

Bible Class Offers Turtle Creek Play

WILKINSBURG AND EDGEWOOD BOYS BUILDING THEIR FOURTH PLANE IN THE TOPPING GARAGE AT 806 WALNUT STREET

2 Edgewood Boys Make Own Plane to Fly

For the last eight months, two Edgewood boys, Joe Topping, 16, of 806 Walnut street, and Paul Brennan, 17, of 102 Washington street, have been building an airplane in the garage back of Topping's home.

They have named it the Bren-Top. It is a mid-wing plane, with an eight-foot fuselage, a wing spread of 15 feet, and is equipped with a motorcycle motor.

When the Bren-Top is finished in June, the boys expect to make a trial flight on George Fierst's farm on the Greensburg pike. Topping said:

"Our fathers won't allow us to take it up, but with a good pilot it ought to go up 2,500 feet. I'm not saying how long it will stay up, or how it will come down. The gas tank holds three gallons, enough for 140 miles."

This is the fourth plane the two boys have built in as many years. The first one was made when they were about 12, but the vibration of the motor shook all the nails out. The second one, an old "Jenny" they bought from Jack Morris at Rodgers Field, caught fire in the back alley and they let it burn. The third plane they gave to George Dean, a neighbor, to use for experience in control work.

Neither of the boys has ever flown in an airplane, but both intend to be aviators.

'Forward East Liberty' Drive Passes Goal

With the "Forward East Liberty" drive surpassing its goal for new members of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce, final reports are expected to be made at a committee meeting tomorrow in the City Deposit Bank directors' room.

Executive Secretary Patrick Flood reported the individual membership has been increased 150 members. Figures on subscriptions for the budget fund have not been reported in full.

The chamber will move to larger headquarters May 1. The new offices will be located in the Werner Building, Highland avenue and Baum boulevard.

Activities of the chamber in protecting members from fraudulent advertising and subscription and other schemes continues to thwart efforts to collect thousands of dollars annually from the East Liberty district, Mr. Flood said. An average of two schemes are exposed each week. He urged all members to notify the chamber offices when schemes of questionable nature are advanced. This service has been rendered since inception of the chamber.

EAST BOROUGHS SCOUTS PREPARE FOR SUMMER CAMP

BUREAU TO HELP PARENT GROUPS

Parents' organizations throughout the East End and East Boroughs district are expected to avail themselves of the facilities announced today by the Mental Hygiene Association of Allegheny County through its newly-formed parental education bureau.

The new bureau, established in the Wabash Building, is under direction of Mrs. Saul Lavine. Describing the aims of the project, Mrs. Lavine said:

"The bureau will study the development of the best methods in parental education throughout the country. The existing resources of the city will be studied through Child Study circles, Mothers' Club, Parents and Teachers Associations and church groups.

"Parents are beginning to realize that the home has placed too big a responsibility or burden on the school. The committee on parental education believes that prevention is more powerful than correction. In order that our children may enjoy a wholesome childhood and become useful citizens, the newly created committee will offer assistance and guidance to parents."

Parents to Hear Vacation Talks at Peabody

Parents and the public are invited to attend six conferences of the Vocational Guidance Department of Peabody High School during the coming week, when authoritative speakers will discuss various professions for the guidance of pupils.

Two conferences are scheduled Monday. Edward B. Lee, prominent architect, will discuss architecture as a vocation. Social work will be described by Miss Lea Rothaus, girls' worker of the Kingsley House.

All conferences of the week begin at 12:45 p. m. in the school.

A. L. Schneider, accounting instructor at Duquesne University, speaks Tuesday on that profession. Attorney Albert Hirsch will describe law as a vocation at the same hour.

Research work will be discussed Wednesday by F. C. Garndahl, director of research, Union Switch and Signal Company. The possibilities of art as a profession will be related by Penelope Redd, art critic and feature writer of the Sun-Telegraph.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR GROUPS OBSERVE GOLDEN JUBILEE

50TH BIRTHDAY PARTY, RALLY TONIGHT

Wilkinsburg and Braddock Districts to Celebrate; Speakers, Music Program

Two Christian Endeavor groups plan golden anniversary observances tonight. The Wilkinsburg branch will meet in the Second Presbyterian Church, South avenue and Mulberry street, and the Braddock district union at the East Pittsburgh United Brethren Church, Beech and Linden avenues.

The Wilkinsburg observance will be in the form of a birthday party and the second program will be a spring rally. Officers will be installed at both gatherings, the Rev. John W. Shell, of Mt. Washington, officiating at Wilkinsburg, and the Rev. H. G. Reese, of Pitcairn, at East Pittsburgh.

400 EXPECTED

Wilkinsburg has arranged to entertain 400 to 500 members, with special table decorations arranged to represent the 12 months. Several state and county officers are expected in attendance.

Officers being installed are: President, Harold Harrity; vice presidents, George Ewing Lambert, Eleanor Rodgers, Lee Kilgore, Bob Shuler and Dorothy Singer; secretary, Lucinda Netting; corresponding secretary, Martha Lambert; treasurer, Melvin Law; intermediate superintendent, Elizabeth Houston; pastor counselor, the Rev. J. E. Fawcett; alumni counselor, W. L. Lunch, and junior superintendent, Elsie Murphy.

Braddock district officers will be: President, Miss Beulah Hughes; vice presidents, Harry L. Keefer and John J. Davis; recording secretary, Charles H. James; corresponding secretary, Miss Marion Shontz; treasurer, Paul S. Marthens; pastor counsellor, the Rev. Meade M. Snyder.

ENTERTAINMENT ARRANGED

Entertainment marks both programs. Offering musical numbers at Wilkinsburg will be Cliff Jones and Ned Brown, in songs; Arthur McChesney, accordion and xylophone solos; Miss Helen Pommer, singing; Miss Zoe Mothersbaugh, songs, and a string quartet from the Calvary Church of Wilkinsburg. The program has been arranged by Robert Shuler and Thomas Gardner.

A program of Negro spirituals will be heard at East Pittsburg by a quartet composed of Mrs. James A. Williams, Mrs. Mary Jones, Nelson Clausell and W. H. Wilson. John Westlund will lead in song service and James A. Williams, devotions.

TEMPLAR CHIEF INSTALLED

Paul D. Murrin was installed as commander of the Lincoln Commandery No. 91, Knights Templar, Wilkinsburg, at a public installation of officers in Masonic Temple, South avenue, Friday.

Other new officers are: Generalissimo, Robert W. Ramsey; captin general, Thomas Maxwell, Jr.; senior warden, Otto V. Stewart; junior warden, Franklin A. Megahan; recorder, Dan V. Miller; treasurer, Paul W. Keim.

Westinghouse High School students who in competition won the right to compete at Philadelphia in the state-wide musical contest. They must pay their own expenses.

WESTINGHOUSE IN FINALS

Westinghouse High School, the only Pittsburgh school with entrants in the state musical and oratorical contests of the Pennsylvania Forensic League, will have five students in the final competition at Altoona May 1.

A girls' trio composed of Vivian Wagner, Lois Rankin and Dolores Pachera, under direction of Mrs. Jane Packham Alexander, has won the right to appear as finalists. They carried a preliminary contest at Monongahela with Miss Marjorie Meyer as accompanist.

Two instrumentalists, Mark Myer, violin, and Robert McCandless, trumpet, under direction of Carl McVicker, won honors at Waynesburg that carry them to the finals. Two other instrumentalists, Russell McCandless and Vincent Bileo, won second honors.

With the Pittsburgh schools unable to provide funds for entrants this year, the Westinghouse students are paying all expenses personally following special permission obtained from the Board of Education. Through efforts of Mr. McVicker, the boys have earned money playing at social functions.

GYM EXHIBIT AT WILKINSBURG

Wilkinsburg High School students will stage the eighteenth annual gymnasium exhibition tomorrow night, with more than 200 participating in a program of varied stunts.

Aesthetic dancing, tumbling, pyramids, military drills, ring demonstrations and other special exhibits have been arranged by the instructors. The girls have been trained by L. Margaret Wilson, the boys by John E. Browning and David M. K. Shupe.

Elwood N. Scott will direct the high school orchestra. Isabel McGregor is pianist.

Members of the Leaders' Club will have praminent parts in the program. This organization was formed on girls in the gymnasium classes passed all achievement tests. The 38 members, selected from 500 students, are:

Aid of Publicity Told Homestead Rotary Club

The value of community publicity to promote civic interests and progress of a town was discussed by Lou Hollman at the weekly meetings of the Homestead Rotary Club Monday in the Tea Cup Inn.

A report of the Homestead Library Athletic Club's part in the recent national swimming competition at New York was made by Jack Scarry, club coach. The Rotary members assisted in sponsoring the local swimmers' trip.

College Trackmen Almost 'Go Insane'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(INS.)—Two college boys out in their running shorts, running from New Brunswick to Atlantic City, nearly ran themselves into the state insane asylum. At least one spectator thought only of escaped insane inmates when he saw Robinson Harley and Ward Bright streaking down the country road in the cold and rain wearing only shorts. A farmer called the asylum and a car went in pursuit. Only a Rutgers flag convinced four asylum guards that the youths were not insane.

Conecticut May Raise Insurance Tax

HARTFORD, Conn.—(INS.)—The great insurance companies in Connecticut may be called upon to help the state raise $4,000,000 needed to meet expenses for the next two years. The legislative finance committee has been asked to report favorably on a bill increasing the insurance taxes according to the market value of the companies' stocks. The taxes were reduced several years ago on a sliding scale, with a reduction effective every two years.

Sale to Aid Blind At Y. M. and W. H. A.

A sale of articles made by the blind will feature the next meeting of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society at the Y. M. and W. H. A. during the afternoon of May 3. The sale will be directed by Mrs. M. H. Cuff.

Town Gets Permit To Change Name

FAIROAKS.—(INS.)—"Fairoaks" is going out of existence and "Fair Oaks" will take its place, as far as Uncle Sam's postoffice department is concerned. Civic leaders after several years of effort have succeeded in obtaining departmental approval to changing the name of the town. They contend "Fair Oaks" is the name originally bestowed upon the settlement by Gen. O. C. Howard, the name being that of the scene of his important battles in the Civil War.

German Museum Collecting Lamps

MUNICH, Germany.—(INS.)—The Great German Museum has added an interesting feature to its exhibits in the shape of a collection of street lamps. The collection starts with the first street light used in Paris, a pitch basket. The oil light with five flames, was used in London in 1814. The collection includes lights down to most modern incandescent lamps.

Pastors' Reunion Marks Wilkinsburg Jubilee

Members of the Ross Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, are observing its twenty-fifth anniversary this week, a reunion with former pastors being scheduled tonight.

Former pastors were the Revs. R. M. Fowles, F. D. Esenwein, N. H. Sanner, E. H. Greenlee, Alexander Steele, J. C. Matteson and D. M. Paul. The present pastor is the Rev. P. J. Chilcote.

The anniversary program will close Sunday with Mr. Sanner preaching in the morning and Dr. Fowles delivering the evening sermon. The observance opened Tuesday with a dinner and entertainment. Religious services were conducted last night by Mr. Chilcote.

JUBILEE OPENED BY ST. GEORGE KNIGHTS

Catholic Order Celebrates 50th Year; Two Bishops To Take Part On Sunday

Pittsburgh members of the Catholic Knights of St. George will hold two events marking the golden jubilee of the organization which opened today and concludes Monday.

Pontifical Jubilee Vespers will be held Sunday afternoon at St. Paul's Cathedral by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Hugh C. Boyle. The sermon will be delivered by the Rt. Rev. John J. Swint, bishop of Wheeling.

St. Augustine's Hall, Thirty-seventh street, will be the scene of an old-timers' reunion Monday night.

The celebration formally opened today when Cardinal Aloysius Sincera, Cardinal Protector of the Order, celebrated a jubilee mass at the Basilica of St. George, in Rome. At the same time, all past and supreme officers of the lodge gathered in Wellsburg, W. Va., for a dinner at the organization's Home for Aged Persons in honor of the nine surviving members who were initiated 50 years ago.

The organization was established here in 1881.

ARSENAL HIGH FETE IN VIEW

Contemplating that the cornerstone for the new Arsenal Junior High School will be laid in June, members of the Arsenal Board of Trade today were preparing for a civic program to mark the event.

The Rev. A. G. Curry, president, awaited definite arrangements with the Board of Public Education.

Committees will be appointed to arrange for speakers, music and other features. Efforts are expected to be made to obtain a War Department representative among the speakers because of the historical significance of the site.

Plans for seeking street improvements in the Arsenal district will be discussed at the next meeting of the board. One of the principal improvements to be sought will be Fisk street, between Howley street and Liberty avenue. Other rough streets in the Arsenal district will be listed, Mr. Curry announced.

FUNDS TO SPEED JOB RELIEF

Use of an appropriation from the Allegheny County Emergency Association to aid unemployed men of the borough by providing work on street and municipality repairs is expected to be considered by the Wilkinsburg Council when it meets Monday.

Recommendations for the borough to provide money to buy materials to put the unemployed to work were passed by both the Wilkinsburg Business Men's Association and the Wilkinsburg Relief Association. The latter organization is operating under sponsorship of the businessmen's group.

Both groups have forwarded resolutions urging such efforts to the council. Two other resolutions have been sent by the groups to the emergence association, lauding its efforts to relieve distress caused by unemployment.

Secretary Barton T. Speer reported to the relief association at its monthly meeting Friday that 135 families are receiving regular assistance each week. Since establishing the relief association last winter more than 1,500 baskets of food have been distributed, besides supplies of coal and clothing, Mr. Speer reported.

SWISSVALE LEADERS PREPARE TRIBUTE TO WAR DEAD

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE ARRANGED

Legion to Lead in Program To Be Held in High School Auditorium on May 29

Swissvale will honor its dead heroes with an extensive Memorial Day service in which all civic, fraternal and church groups will participate.

Tentative plans for an imposing list of speakers have been made by a joint committee of local groups under leadership of the Daniel W. Brooks Post No. 63, American Legion, with Commander Dwight L. Bardes as general chairman. The program is scheduled to be held in the Swissvale High School auditorium on the night of May 29.

COMMITTEE MEETS

Representing the various organizations on the general committee were: Mrs. Albert Oskin, secretary, and Mrs. Katherine Schobert, president, Service Star Legion; T. E. Tomlinson and H. G. Blosser, Swissvale Rotary Club; Miss Katherine E. Charles, grand regent, and Mrs. Mary M. Baumgartner, secretary, Swissvale Court, Catholic Daughters of America; Mrs. Pamela Stewart, associate matron, and Mrs. Sara Meyer, Swissvale chapter, Order of Eastern Star; R. B. Probst, East Boroughs Boy Scout Council; Mrs. R. E. Jones, Dames of Malta; Ira I. Berniger, W. P. Trout and B. A. Houck, I. O. O. F.; Councilman George Fitzpatrick, Swissvale Council; Fred Peusch and W. C. Smitley, Swissvale Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Kuhn and Mrs. Walker, Rebekahs.

POST HEARS SHERIFF

The post held an open meeting Tuesday night with Sheriff Robert S. Cain and Judge D. Paulson Foster as the principal speakers.

Cain related incidents in the war life of Daniel W. Brooks, who was under his command. He had issued the last orders prior to the hero's death.

ROTARY HEARS INDUSTRY TALK

W. G. Marshall, assistant to the vice president on industrial relations of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, spoke today before the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club of East Pittsburgh. Mr. Marshall's subject was to be "Industrial Relations."

The program was arranged by C. S. McClelland, director of personnel of the Westinghouse company.

Dr. Thomas H. Snowhite, president, and Russell L. Cale, secretary, will attend the Thirty-third District conference of Rotary International, which opens Tuesday in the William Penn Hotel.

ANNUAL EXHIBIT OPENS AT TECH

Pittsburgh has been invited to view classroom, laboratory and studio scenes tomorrow night at the Carnegie Institute of Technology with the holding of the twenty-fifth annual exhibition tonight.

The program will be opened with a dress parade by the Reserve Officers' Training Corps on the Morewood avenue campus entrance at 7 p. m. Inspection of the school activities will start at 7:30 o'clock. The buildings will be open to the public until 9:30 p. m. Information desks will be available for visitors at the entrance to each building.

Students of both the day and night classes will be at work throughout the shops, laboratories and studios of the four colleges. Special features have been arranged. Programs in music and drama have been prepared as well as a fashion show by the department of costume economics in the Margaret Morrison Carnegie College.
